The Argentine Method
You Must Love It
Sell, But Don't Drink
He Needed His Job

—By Arthur Brisbane—

THEY DO THINGS differently in other countries.

Here, lacking prosperity for the moment, we are content to ask each other "when do you think it will end?"

In Buenos Aires they have lack of prosperity, and the Argentine president has his dwelling guarded by troops and bristling with machine guns. Imagine President Hoover hearing that a lot of men are out of work and immediately ordering the White House fortified with bombs, cannon, etc.

Well known story tells of Frederick the Great's father pursuing little boys that ran in terror from his angry face, catching them and beating them with his cane, saying:

"I will make you love me."

The Russian government intends to make the people love the Russian money, no matter what they think of it.

Yesterday Russia's chief of police announced the execution of ten men convicted of hoarding gold and silver coins and foreign currency.

The present Russian theory is:

"If the money of the Soviet is not good enough for you, this world is not the place for you."

Col. Sears, of the National Prison Emergency Committee, studying crime and prisons, announces that bootleggers are not drinkers of their own goods.

Omar, who also lived under prohibition and didn't think much of it, wondered what the wine sellers could buy with their money, as good as the wine for which they got the money.

He lived before the days of bootleg whiskey.

That was not the view of Constine Barowski.

He had a job, his family needed it. He worked hard to keep it. A mosquito bit him, gangrene set in, doctors told him he must have the leg cut off. That would mean the loss of his job.

Helped by the good leg and the bad leg, he climbed to the roof, jumped off and died.

It is hoped and presumed that he has found a better job somewhere else.

Peace and quiet mean a long life. The French to "peace and quiet" add "good wine." The oldest woman in France, Madame Laneau, lives at Dijon, capital of Burgundy, the province of marvelously fine wines, if it is permitted to apply "fine" to anything connected with the demon run. Madame Laneau has lived soberly as the French do, eating carefully, never drinking water without putting wine in it, never in her life travelling by train or automobile. She feels very well.

France has on hand a war that all will approve. Armed cutters of the French navy are fighting giant fish "belugas," or dolphins, that eat millions of good fish and destroy gear of fishermen along the coast of Brittany.

Protected by slippery, hard skin, and thick fat, they are hard to kill, and continue their murderous work.

Suppose that in a city of 5,000,000 inhabitants, there lived a few giants eating smaller citizens, each giant devouring thousands every day. Such is life in the ocean.

The marvel is that any fish survive. The number of eggs in a shad roe explain it.

A pair of shad in a few years, if all the young survived, and raised families, would make the Atlantic and Pacific solid shad banks.

In New York, Eugene Van Clief discovered the truth in Kipling's idea that the female is more deadly than the male—when you select the wrong female.

Van Clief was fascinated by a woman who had killed her husband with a knife, admired her in court, and almost married her, afterwards.

They lived together, having agreed to marry "a little later." The woman kept her temperament and the knife. The man worried, could not make up his mind to leave her, murdered her and killed himself.

Governor Roosevelt, of New York, will ask the legislature "to take up a practical, definite study of unemployment insurance, avoiding, of course, any form of dole."

The difference between the British dole and unemployment insurance, if the state pays for the insurance, isn't a great difference.

We all depend on each other, and our sad depression will

'CHILD LOVE' WIPES AWAY DIVORCE

Love for their eight-year-old daughter, Freda Blanche, has brought about the remarriage of Mrs. Jeannie Grant of 274 Beacon st., Cambridge, and Percy Grant of Lynn, whom she divorced in 1923.

They will be remarried tonight in the Methodist Church in Boston st., Lynn, with only immediate friends of the family present.

Later they will leave on a second honeymoon trip through New York State.

Grant was 20 and his bride only 17 when they were first married in 1921, after having been childhood sweethearts.

Freda Blanche was born, and then came a disagreement resulting in Mrs. Grant obtaining a divorce in 1923.

She went to Canada, the child remaining with the father. The couple corresponded regularly, however, and a short time ago decided to enter the bonds of wedlock again, and give their daughter a home.

Barrymore and Six Sued on Income Tax

Los Angeles, Aug. 29 (AP)—Income tax liens were filed today against six motion picture stars who failed to make returns on their 1929 earnings. Those named were John Barrymore, cited for alleged failure to pay $28.21; Norman Kerry for $140.08; Olive Borden, $519.95; Ford Sterling $1086.42; Alice Day $306.59, and William Collier, Jr., $284.55.

Tague Reappointed Election Chairman

Peter F. Tague was today reappointed chairman of the Election Commission for the term ending March 31, 1932, by Mayor Curley. Chairman Tague was shifted recently from principal assessor of the city to his present position, succeeding James J. Mulvey, who was appointed register of births, deaths and marriages.

O'Connell to Resume Senatorial Fight

Joseph F. O'Connell, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator, is recovering rapidly from his recent illness, according to members of his family. It was announced at his summer home in Hull today that the former congressman will be able to take an active part in his campaign early next week.

Hacked to Death

ON THE BEACH at Ensenada, Mexico, Lois Marion Kentle, University of California co-ed, and her fiance, Francis Conlon, whose parents once lived in Worcester, were stabbed to death supposedly by a jealous rival of Conlon. His body had 11 wounds and the girl's nine. (I. N. R. photo.)

BUTLER SLUSH FUND PROBE DEMANDED

Senatorial Committee Asked to Investigate Expenditures Here

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY.

Charges made today by the Liberal Civic League that "Butler and certain capitalistic interests" have already spent $500,000 to "steal" the G. O. P. nomination for senator, together with an assurance from President William Green that the A. F. of L. would probe attempts to "debauch" labor leaders here in the interest of Butler, caused a sensation in political and labor circles.

Conrad Crooker, general counsel of the league, after a long distance conversation with Washington, sent a telegram to the Nye senatorial campaign committee at Glacier Park, Mont., urging the committee to come into Massachusetts at once.

"I note with interest your statement to the Associated Press that you find conditions here justify continuance of inquiry here by your committee," the telegram read.

CHARGES CORRUPTION

"Further inquiry by the league has disclosed such wholesale disregard for corrupt practice acts and such barefaced attempt to buy the Republican senatorial nomination that we again appeal to you for a public inquiry here by your committee before the primary.

"Former Secretary of the Navy Newberry was thrown out of the Senate for spending $195,000 in his campaign. Vare and Grundy met the same fate because of excessive expenditures.

"They were pikers compared with Butler.

President Hoover to Aid Jobless

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—Prospects of speeding up the $550,000,000 10-year public building program to relieve drouth sufferers and unemployment in general will be the subject of week-end conferences between President Hoover and governmental officials at the presidential mountain lodge in Virginia.

The 10-year program initiated in 1927 will be discussed with a view to determining steps to accelerate construction without endangering the federal budget.

Boston Man, Iowa Girl in Horseback Honeymoon

Chicago, Aug. 29 (AP)—Being crazy over horses, horses, horses, Edwin P. Rankin, 27, of Boston, and Miss Alice Jensen, 23, of Clear Lake, Ia., made their marriage today a bridle party.

They were pronounced Mr. and Mrs. Rankin as they stood beside their chestnut ponies in Lincoln Park, the champing of hoofs of other horses—the best man's, the bridesmaids' and the attendants'—the only bridal music.

The Rev. J. Pierce Newell officiated. With the nuptial halter securely fastened, their feet found the stirrups and they swung up and cantered away, bound for a horseback honeymoon in Canada.

Cartoonist's Wife Now Wants Divorce

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—Naming Constance Collier, actress, as the woman in the case, Mrs. Cecelia A. Bairnsfather today filed suit for divorce against her husband, Charles Bruce Bairnsfather, cartoonist. Filing of the divorce action followed a $100,000 alienation of affections suit filed by Mrs. Bairnsfather against Miss Collier yesterday.

Peace Depends on Ceded Peoples Deciding Own Allegiance, Says Hearst

FRANKFORT, GERMANY, AUG. 28.

The following signed statement by William Randolph Hearst is published by the Frankfurter Zeitung:

I PERSONALLY FEEL very friendly to Germany and the German people, but I also have friendly feeling for the other peoples of Europe. During the early part of the late Great War I did my best to have America remain out of the war because I thought, first, that the war was entirely a European war and not especially our affair, and, second, because I thought it was desirable for the United States as a nation to maintain friendly relations with all the peoples of Europe.

This policy of freedom from foreign entanglements and friendships. for all nations was in accordance with the advice of Washington, the great founder of our country, and I thought and think that the majority of the American people felt the same way as Washington, because Mr. Wilson was re-elected President on the claim that he had kept us out of the war.

Drawn Into the War

However, we were finally drawn into the war and the nation accepted the declaration of President Wilson that it was the duty of the United States to go into the war in order to make "the world safe for democracy," and to insure the self-determination of peoples.

Well, Germany has done its part to make the world safe for democracy. It is now a democratic nation and a genuine one. If the world is unsafe for democracy anywhere, it is not in Germany. If one of the great objects of the American crusade has only partly succeeded it is not through any lack of democracy in this central part of Europe.

President Wilson Forgot

The other great object of the American crusade as defined by President Wilson, namely to insure the self-determination of peoples, has not succeeded at all. The Versailles Conference apparently did not have that object in view and President Wilson himself seems to have forgotten all about this inspiring policy.

As a consequence of the utter abandonment of this principle, Teutonic peoples have been delivered to the domination of Belgium, France, Italy, Jugo-Slavia Czecho-Slovakia, Poland and Lithuania.

As it was one of the great objects of America in entering the war to rectify that injustice of races being under foreign domination and to establish the self-determination of peoples (that is their right to be free from foreign domination and their right to determine under what government they shall be enrolled), Americans should be interested in the present unsound and unstable condition in Europe which is so far from the condition which they hoped to secure.

Threat of Future War

Furthermore, in my opinion not only America but more particularly all European nations should be interested in rectifying a condition which, because of its fundamental unsoundness and injustice, holds so great a threat of future war.

Elemental injustice must always be remedied. In the past we have

Toothbrush Lost When 20 Were Drowned Found in Fish

In the stomach of a cod caught on Georges bank the crew of the fishing boat Wild Goose today reported finding a relic of the Boston trawler Seiner, which vanished with her crew of 20 in a storm in January, 1929.

This relic is a toothbrush bearing the name and home address of one of the Seiner's fishermen—William Whalen, Long Harbor, Placentia Bay, N. F.

The Seiner left Boston on Jan. 9, 1929, and was last reported four days later

Thompson Is Named To Zoning Board

Ralph E. Thompson, vice president of the Gillette Safety Razor Company, was today appointed to the Board of Zoning Adjustment by Mayor Curley. Thompson fills the position recently vacated by W. Irving Bullard, resigned. His term ends April 30, 1932. The position carries no salary.

GIVES UP IN VT. DEATH PUZZLE

Laconia, N. H., Aug. 29 (AP)—Fred Bunker, sought by police of Springfield, Vt., for questioning as to identify the body of a woman who had been erroneously identified as Mrs. Catherine Packard, gave himself up today.

The return of Mrs. Packard to Vermont a year after she had been listed in the county records as a suicide and a month after her husband had married another, revealed the mystery. The body, buried in a potter's field grave in Chester, Vt., remains unidentified.

CITY'S LAW OFFICE OPEN TO CAR OWNERS

Goodwin Turns Fire on Commissioner Brown; Argues for State Control

Incensed by the proposed increase in compulsory automobile insurance rates, thousands of car owners in the State today prepared to lodge formal protest while state and city authorities planned official action against the schedule announced by Insurance Commissioner Merton L. Brown.

In the deluge of criticism which followed the announcement of the 1931 rates the important developments were:

1—Mayor Curley's description of the rates as "a raid on the purses of car owners," and his order to Corporation Counsel Silverman to place his services at the disposal of all zones who might request his assistance at the public hearing on the rates Sept. 8.

CALLS BROWN A TOOL

2—Charges by Frank A. Goodwin, chairman of the finance commission, that Commissioner Brown is dominated by insurance interests and his assertion that insurance companies may safely defy the Supreme Court.

3—Rep. Martin Hays of Brighton demanded that Governor Allen call a special session of the Legislature to deal with the rates which he described as "excessive, unreasonable and oppressive!"

4—A statement by Chester L Campbell of the Governor's Council that he would "vigorously" oppose the increase on behalf of the Automobile Dealers Association, and his charge that insurance companies are "bleeding" the car owners of the State.

—Representative James J. Twohig's charge that a "blundering Republican administration" places another burden on the broken backs of Boston taxpayers.

UNJUST, SAYS CURLEY

In his attack on the proposed rate schedule, Mayor Curley said:

"The increase in compulsory automobile insurance rates as recommended by Insurance Commissioner Brown is in my opinion not only an injustice to the city of Boston, which has been singled out for a greater increase than in any other zone, but to car owners all over the State.

"The new rates can be regarded only as a raid on the purses of automobile owners. I have this day instructed the corporation counsel to appear in opposition to the rates at the Gardner Auditorium and to place his service at the disposal of all zones that may request his assistance.

The rates proposed for 1931 would raise the cost on small cars in Boston from $48 to $53; medium cars from $53 to $57; large cars from $59 to $66.

AUTO OWNERS CALLED TO FIGHT BOOST IN INSURANCE RATES

HEARINGS IN STATE HOUSE SEPT. 8

would remain at the prevailing rate, the highest in the state, and in other territories would increase from $1 to $4, according to classification of cars.

The mayor's order came simultaneously with a charge hurled by Frank A. Goodwin, chairman of the finance commission, that Insurance Commissioner Merton L. Brown "is dominated by insurance interests."

The mayor's order indicated that an organized and bitter fight would be waged against the proposed increase.

FAVORS STATE CONTROL

Chairman Goodwin, father of the State fund bill, which was advocated by the Boston Evening American, said he would renew his fight to take automobile insurance out of the hands of the interests and place it in the hands of the people.

"Commissioner Brown knows nothing as to whether the insurance rates should be raised or lowered," said Goodwin. "He is absolutely controlled by the insurance interests and is compelled to depend on their say-so in fixing the rates.

"The insurance companies have the people of Massachusetts by the throats. They can charge rates and get away with it. Nothing—not even the Supreme Court—stands in their way.

MEANS BILL OF $1,200,000

"Commissioner Brown awaits their instructions and all they can say is 'up.'

"These new rates will apparently take $1,203,000 from the citizens of the State, who are now overburdened with all kinds of taxes.

"The statistics of Registrar of Motor Vehicles George Parker, as I remember them, showed that accidents in the past year increased only 14 per cent. These figures indicate that the rates should be lowered instead of raised.

"Last year in the Legislature Rep. Martin Hays and I drew up a bill, with the aid of the Boston Evening American, that would give the people of Massachusetts insurance at cost.

"We could not get 30 representatives out of 240 to stand up for roll call.

"Unless something is done the rates will go up every year and the only thing that can be done is to pass a State fund bill similar to the State life insurance law. It is my intention to present such a bill at the next session of the Legislature."

Chester I. Campbell, secretary of the Automobile Dealers' Association and a member of the Governor's Council, will lead the fight on behalf of his organization at the public hearing.

"Car owners have been willing to bear a great deal of burdens in the form of taxes for many years," said Campbell. "The association which I represent will fight this proposed increase vigorously. The time is at hand to oppose continued attempts by insurance interests to have homage paid to them by automobile owners of the State."

Day Baker, head of the Massachusetts Motor Truck Club, is organizing truck drivers all over the State for a march on the State House, where they will join the protest against the tremendous increase on truck insurance.

As a member of the Governor's Safety Committee, Baker said he had ample opportunity to study accident statistics throughout the State.

INCREASE WITHOUT REASON

"The highly organized insurance companies can dictate their own terms," said Baker, "because they know they will meet with little opposition from the unorganized car owners. There is absolutely no reason for the proposed increase.

"It is stated by the commissioner that the rates are based on the number of claims resulting from accidents. This cannot be the fact because statistics of the registrar's office do not compare with the new rates in the slightest degree.

"It is the opinion of the Motor Trucking Club that the new rates are based only on the desire of the insurance companies to place this form of insurance on a tremendously profitable basis. We will oppose it and urge truck and car owners of the State to wake up to the fact that compulsory automobile insurance should be handled by the State."

Rep James J. Twohig of South Boston immediately began marshaling Boston legislators for a march on the State House on September 8 when the public hearing will be held.

While Boston bears the heaviest increase under the proposed rates cities and towns in other classified territories will add their protests against higher premiums. The hearings are likely to last a full week.

"The insurance commission cares not a whit for Boston," said Rep. Twohig, "and does not hesitate to load the people of this city with all the burdens incurred by a blundering Republican administration.

"We had a forewarning that poor old Boston would get it in the neck last spring when Atty. John Downes, general counsel for the insurance interests, inadvertently dropped a remark before the commission that Boston would have to pay higher premiums next year.

"Of course the insurance companies knew then that Boston rates would be boosted and so did the commissioner.

"And they know right now, and the insurance commission knows what the rates will be for 1932. The people of Boston can bet their bottom dollar that another increase will be slapped on for 1932 unless concerted action is taken to divide the tax evenly.

Classification of types of automobiles places low-priced machines in Group W; medium priced cars in Group X and high priced cars in Group Y.

Premiums levied on private passenger cars in Boston under the proposed rate for 1931 show an increase in each classification. Group W, consisting of low-priced cars, will be assessed $53, an increase of $5 over the 1930 rate; Group X, the so-called medium priced cars, $57, an increase of $4; and Group Y, high-priced cars, $66, an increase of $7.

make some, especially the prosperous, realize that when the little man suffers the big man feels the pinch.

For instance, when a small man can't afford to buy his new automobile, even on the instalment plan, the big owner of railroad stocks feels the pinch severely.

The drop in automobile sales alone means to big railroads a loss of about $20,000,000 a month.

If the Labor party and the Tory party both should make up their minds to accept Lloyd George's leadership and advice, as they did so gladly when the war frightened them, England might be better off.

Allegiance Up to Peoples sought to remedy it by war, and have merely substituted one injustice for another as a result of war.

Let us hope we have reached a point in human progress where injustice can be remedied by peaceful policies, by an honest recognition of what is right, and by a sincere desire to establish peace permanently on a basis of general satisfaction and genuine content.

I would think that if the nations of Europe actually desired permanent peace and mutually friendly relations they would allow the peoples of the various ceded territories themselves to determine by a plebiscite to what nation each one desired to belong and to bestow its allegiance.

GOOD, SOUND, but—

The principle of self-determination which President Wilson enunciated is a good one and a sound one and a just one. It was a worthy policy for America to have had as its inspiration in war. It is too bad that this noble principle was neglected by the Versailles Conference and forgotten by Mr. Wilson. It is perhaps not too late to have that splendid principle revived and eventually established as the firm basis of European peace. Until it is so established, there will be nothing but the continual menace of war.

For America to Understand

If that principle were firmly established in actual practice, then Mr. Briand's idea of a United States of Europe could probably be put into successful operation, but to my mind no United States of Europe is in any way possible while so many of the states which would go to make these United States are living in a condition of rankling injury and injustice.

Americans do not know a great deal about Europe, not much more than Europeans know about America. In order to make the European situation clear to Americans it would be necessary to make comparisons with the situation here and with what a similar situation in America would mean for America to realize fully what it means. For instance, for Germany to have a piece of Germany in the west ceded to Belgium and another piece of France and a piece of Germany in the east ceded to Poland, we would have to explain to our people that that situation was very much as if Arizona and California (which formerly belonged to Mexico) were given back to Mexico and the state of Washington were given back to British Columbia and the state of Florida were given back to Spain and a lane were cut from the Great Lakes following the Erie Canal through New York state to the sea, and the lane which divided New England from the rest of the United States were given to Canada.

Austria's Plight

If the great war had resulted differently than it did and if that subdivision of our country had followed the great war our people can clearly understand that we would not be very happy about it and that we would not be willing to rest content under such an outrage and that we would take means somehow, some day, to rectify that injustice either through peaceful measure or through war.

And now in order to illustrate the situation in Austria so that the people in America shall be able to understand it, let us suppose that the entire west coast of the United States had been given to Mexico and the entire east coast of the United States had been given to Canada and the entire south coast of the United States had been given to Spain, so that there remained to the United States only the central part of the country without any seacoast of any kind whatsoever. That would be a duplicate of the existing Austrian situation. If such a thing had happened or should ever happen to us, our people can understand how dissatisfied, how indignant and how determined to rectify this injustice at some future time our people would be.

The U. S. A. Can Understand

Therefore, if the people of the United States would look at Europe, as if it were their own country, or rather would look at their own country as if it were Europe, they can understand how unstable, how unsound, how unjust, how unpeaceful the present arrangement or rather misarrangement of Europe is. They would understand what a bad job for Europe and for themselves, too, the victorious nations accomplished at Versailles and what a betrayal of his own-declared policies President Wilson agreed to.

Briand's Plan Could Succeed

Personally, I do not think there need be another war.

I believe that the moral sentiment, the intelligent opinion of the world, could easily proceed along Mr. Briand's plan of a United States of Europe and by rectifying injustices here and there, establish a United States of Europe which would persist, because it would be based upon mutual satisfaction and self-interest. A democratic United States of Europe is the peaceful and permanent solution of the European problem.

It is equally a mistake to divide Europe into little trivial states utterly independent of each other, or to bind states together with the shackles of militaristic empires.

Either situation makes for instability and insecurity.

The United States as Example

The United States of America has shown on what basis a union of states can be made patriotically permanent. The United States has also shown that such a union can not only benefit the union as a whole, but can equally benefit every individual state. But the basis for the loyalty of every state and the bases which make the union as a whole, peaceful and permanent, are equal rights, equal libe. ties and exact justice.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

Mayor Presents City Key to New Zealand Consul

For the first time since the Lafayette Mulligan episode when some unauthorized person presented a key to the City of Boston to the Prince of Wales, Mayor Curley today resumed that custom.

The new keys are of wood from an elm tree more than 00 years old that stood on Lexington Common on the battle morn, April 19, 1775. Each key is in a wooden casket made from the same tree.

The first was presented to Will Leonard Lowrie, American consul general to New Zealand, now visiting Boston from his official duties. In presenting it the mayor said:

"This is the first key I have presented to anyone since somebody presented one to the Prince of Wals during my last administration. Because of the unusual interest in that affair I discontinued the practice at that time. The original keys were of metal. This key is much more valuable from an historic point of view."

Parents Want Deserted Baby

Lowell, Aug. 29 (AP)—The abandonment of a 10-month-old baby on the steps of the Day Nursery last May was forgiven in the district court here today after the infant's mother told a tale of poverty.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred LeVesque of Manchester, N. H., had been arrested on an abandonment charge as a result of a letter written by the mother, in which she said she told the police that she and her husband were now employed and asked that th child be returned to them.

The court ruled that the infant would be returned after they had paid for its maintenance for five months.

GERMAN FLIERS OFF TO CHICAGO

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—Capt. Wolfgang Von Gronau, German transatlantic flier, took off today with his three companions for Buffalo, en route to the air races at Chicago. The huge "Shale" which Von Gronau flew here from Germany, rose from the water at the North Beach airport at 8:40 a. m., Boston daylight time.

The four fliers went to the airport soon after 7 by speedboat from their Manhattan hotel and spent half an hour getting their flying boat out onto the water.

They tried out its engines and taxied in a wide circle about the East river. Then without even a goodby wave they rose from the water and were off to the north flying low along the East river and cutting over the Harlem ship canal to strike the Hudson.

Vivian Duncan Happy Brother Avenged Her

Chicago, Aug. 29—Vivian Duncan chortled gleefully, today, when she was told that her brother, Harold had repaid Rex Lease, motion picture cowboy hero, with a black eye, quite as large and as black as the one received by her some weeks ago at the hands of Lease.

Vivian Duncan

"I never was so happy in my life," said Vivian as she was told of the battle between her brother and Lease. The Duncan sisters are headlining in vaudeville at a Chicago movie house.

"I'm so happy I could cry," she said excitedly. "Let me see the story in the papers. That's certainly the kind of brother to have. And he's only about five feet four inches tall, and this man Lease is a big fellow. Dear, dear Hal."

Bruce Bairnsfather's Wife Sues Actress

New York, Aug. 29 — Formal complaint in the $100,000 alienation suit brought by Mrs. Bruce Bairnsfather, wife of the famous artist, against Constance Collier, English actress, was was filed in the New York Supreme court yesterday by Mrs. Bairnsfather's attorneys.

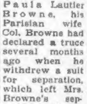
Constance Collier

Mrs. Bairnsfather in her complaint alleges that her husband collaborated on a play with Miss Collier while Mrs. Bairnsfather was on a European tour. She contends that the collaboration resulted in her husband's falling in love with the comely actress.

The affair resulted in the couple eventually living together as "Mr. and Mrs. Bruce," the complaint charges. Miss Collier has not as yet made an answer to the suit. Both she and Bairnsfather were served with the alienation suit papers on Tuesday.

Sen. Fess To Close Campaign in Portland

Washington, Aug. 29—Senator Simeon D. Fess, chairman of the Republican national committee, announced yesterday that he planned to go to Portland, Me., on September 8 to "close the campaign" for the Maine State elections.



Senator Fess

Senator Fess was recently accepted as the chairman of the national committee following the resignation of Claudius H. Huston.

Last June he made an appearance here in Boston, addressing the graduates of Suffolk Law School at the commencement exercises held in Tremont Temple. At that time he stated that public opinion was the mightiest force in th world and it should be created to bring about world peace.

Col. DeCourcy Browne Seeks Divorce in Reno

Reno, Nev., Aug. 29—Col. DeCourcy Browne, New York millionaire, yesterday broke the marital armistice he had arranged with Paula Lautier Browne, his Parisian wife. Col. Browne had declared a truce several months ago when he withdrew a suit for separation, which left Mrs. Browne's separation suit the only document on file in the case.

Paula Browne

Observers accepted the withdrawal as the gesture of an old soldier and assumed that Mrs. Browne's action would go through uncontested. Col. Browne blasted that theory yesterday when he announced that the move was planned to allow him to strike harder, for, in place of the separation suit, he filed a petition for absolute divorce.

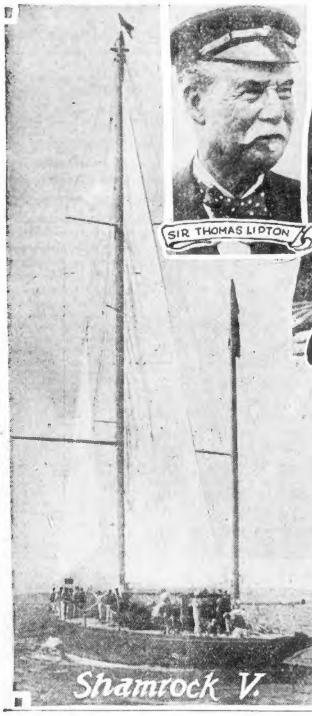
LIPTON TO DEFY "13 HOODOO" IN 1930 AMERICA CUP EFFORT



Crew of the American Yacht Enterprise

SATURDAY-THE-13TH OF SEPTEMBER is the day set for the first race between the sloop yacht Enterprise, the American hope, against Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V. No person connected with the racing committee, the crews or owners see any hoodoo in that number "13." Some are glad that it's a Saturday and not a Friday—but just for psychological reasons. The date of Sept. 13 means nothing. We show you the contending yachts, Tom Lipton, Harold Vanderbilt, head of the syndicate that owns the Enterprise, and the Enterprise crew that hopes to keep that International Yacht cup on this side of the Atlantic. So 13 or no 13 for the first race. It will mean hard luck to somebody.

Huge Beacon and 'Light's Ears' to Save Air Lives

Chicago, Aug. 29 (AP)—A sunflash air beacon, whose reflected and magnified rays are visible 100 miles away, beckoned fliers to Chicago today.

The beacon, atop the 44-story Lasalle-Wacker building, is a new venture in aerial guidance. Sun rays are reflected in eight directions, magnified by 36-inch mirrors. At night, the beacon shoots 3,000,000 candlepower beams in eight directions.

A new aid for pilots seeking to land on a fog-bound airport, a device that "hears" light, was also revealed today.

It is the invention of Earl C. Hanson, Chicago scientist, who disclosed the development to a group of aeronautic experts attending the air races, including Maj. James Doolittle, noted for his "blind-landing."

Hanson utilizes invisible magnetic waves emanating from a bank of Neon tubes, intercepting them with a device in the cockpit that causes a steady hum in the pilot's earphones and activates an electrical altimeter that shows the number of feet the plane is above the ground.

The Neon tubing, Hanson said, would be placed on a landing field to act as a visual signal in clear weather, but giving out its invisible stream of electrons that, in fog, could be picked up by the pilot to lead him safely to a landing.

Night-Time Sun All Lit Up

LINDY AND ANNE QUIT RACES FOR BUSINESS

By FRANKLIN COLLIER, JR.

Curtiss-Reynolds Airport, Glenview, Ill., Aug. 29—Col. and Mrs. Charles Augustus Lindbergh will fly to Detroit today and continue to New York the first of the week in their Lockheed Sirius.

Their arrival at the national air races created a sensation, and a police escort was required to hold back the admiring throngs.

Questioned regarding rumors that he will attempt to break Capt. Frank M. Hawks' coast-to-coast record, Lindbergh stated that "his record is fine enough to stand as it is."

Col. Lindbergh had a reunion with Capt. Hawks, Lieut James Doolittle and a score of other famous fliers during his stay at the races.

Chicago, Aug. 29 (AP)—Bulky transport planes went through their paces at the National Air races today with Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh among the spectators.

Two major events for large ships were designed to develop a combination of speed and larger carrying capacities.

One event, the Detroit News Air Transport Trophy, was open to civilians flying single-motor ships with at least 1000 pounds of pay load, either passengers or freight. The second was the Aviation Town and Country Club Trophy race.

The midget ships shared in the program of thrills today. The tiny motored planes took the air for the free-for-all, limited to motors of 276 cubic inch piston displacement.

There were two more dashes around the pylons for women today, one for cabin ships of 350 cubic inch displacement and another for larger, more powerful open planes.

FOUR NATIONS FACE REVOLT

(By Associated Press)

Military and political unrest showed its effects today in four American republics, Brazil, Argentina, Cuba and Peru.

Advices to The Associated Press from Montevideo said the Brazilian state of Rio Grande Do Sul had been disturbed by a revolutionary movement headed by Juan Francisco De Souza and that all federal troops have been confined to barracks.

Havana reported the government in readiness to proclaim martial law in Maximo Gomez, where rioting over political issues had not yet been quelled. The same dispatch said a score of politicians had been arrested at Cruces, Santa Clara, in a plot against the government.

Arrival of three destroyers at Buenos Aires today strengthened the hand of the government of Argentina, threatened by insurgents.

President Hipolito Yrigoyen did not emerge from the heavy guard of troops yesterday thrown about the government house and his residence. Buenos Aires still was unable to explain the extreme measures and as a consequence there were many rumors regarding the seriousness of the situation.

Peru's revolution, which ousted President Leguia and installed Lieut. Col. Luis M. Sanchez Cerro as military dictator, today had completed its cycle, with Sanchez sworn in as president and Lieut. Col. Ortega, military governor of Lima, one year after the date they launched the revolt.

Enterprise Tunes Up for Shamrock Race

Newport, R. I., Aug. 29 (INS)—While the white-sparred Enterprise, defender of the America's cup against Sir Thomas Lipton's fifth Shamrock, went sailing blithely out of Brenton's Cove this morning for her daily workout, three other sloops were taken in tow and thereby gently passed into maritime history.

The spectacle of the victorious Enterprise passing out beyond Brenton's Reef was thrilling enough, but the truly dramatic picture was that of the three yachts that were going nowhere. These were the eliminated Yankee, Weetamoe and Whirlwind, representing an investment of something like $3,000,000.

It is not likely that either one of them will ever spread her wings to the breeze again. Weetamoe, the boat backed by the Morgan millions, was taken to the Herreshoff yards in Bristol, R. I. Back of her, towing in the same direction, was Yankee, the hope of all New England. She had been skippered by Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the United States Navy.

Down into the waters of the Long Island sound went Whirlwind, the majestic mahogany sloop, backed and sailed by Paul Hammond and Landon K. Thorne, New York.

While Harold S. Vanderbilt was sailing the triumphant Enterprise out into the sunlit sea, three other skippers were packing up their belongings and going away from here. Thus ended the battle of the billions, with the house of Vanderbilt triumphant over the house of Morgan.

Seek to Set Standard Rules for Yacht Races

London, Aug. 29 (AP)—In an effort to agree on the same rule of measurements for large yachts in the future on both sides of the Atlantic, a committee representing the International Yacht Racing Union will meet representatives of the New York Yacht Club in America immediately after the America's cup series. British delegates will be W. N. Clark Neill and Maj. B. Heckstall-Smith.

Fliers to Hop From Tokio Tomorrow

Tokio, Aug. 29 (US)—Bad flying weather that has held the city of Tacoma earthbound here for the past few days is expected to change by tomorrow when the two American airmen, Harold Bromley and Harold Gatty, plan their takeoff. The low pressure area is moving westward from the Kamchatka peninsula and good westerly winds are expected to prevail at the start.

'Woman-Hater' Loves One

"THE MORE THEY HATE, the harder they fall," said Cupid—or words to that effect—when his darts laid low the heart of Henry Louis Mencken, Baltimore writer and critic, noted for his merciless diatribes against matrimony. FIND 2 CONTROL $2,000,000 P. O. RENT BIDS

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—Preliminary investigation of the government's annual rent bill for leased postoffice stations has disclosed that two professional bidders each held leases totaling about $1,000,000.

Special investigators for the Senate committee named to look into the 6000 leases that last year cost the government more than $17,000,000, have made sufficient analysis of records to enable the Senate committee to begin open hearings.

It is expected the committee—or its chairman, Senator Blaine, Wisconsin, as a subcommittee of one—will start the public investigation next month.

Meanwhile, it was learned today the Postoffice department has instituted an independent inquiry into the value of all postoffice stations rented for $6000 or more a year. Postmaster General Brown recently said he would recommend government ownership of such structures.

The two large professional bidders referred to are Jacob Kulp, head of Postoffice, Inc., with offices in Chicago, and Raymond Brown with headquarters in Indianapolis.

Investigators were put to work by the Senate committee last spring following disclosure that an item of $120,000 a year for a St. Paul station covered rent on a building valued at about $300,000.

Wright New Head of Rockland Trust Co.

Rockland, Aug. 29—Frank H. Wright, 50, for many years vice-president of the Second National Bank of Boston, was elected president of the Rockland Trust Co., it was announced after a meeting of the directors.

Wright, whose home is in South Hingham, succeeds Horace T. Fogg, who dropped dead at the Marshfield Fair, of which he was also president. The directors also announced the election of Alfred W. Donovan of the E. T. Wright Shoe Co. as chairman of the board and of J. Frank Spence of the Rockland Welting Co. to be vice-president.

Mencken on Honeymoon Raps MacDonald Regime

Montreal, Que., Aug. 29 (AP)—H. L. Mencken, magazine editor who was married in Baltimore yesterday, arriving here today with Mrs. Mencken on a honeymoon trip, commented in picturesque fashion on prohibition in the United States, and assailed the MacDonald government in England.

"Ramsay MacDonald is a kind of Methodist evangelist," said Mr. Mencken. "His is the only government I have ever heard of that has failed to do every single thing that was expected of it. From the man in the street who expected to get food for his empty stomach, to the high-minded Liberal who looked to him for a solution of the problems of India, he has failed them all."

As to the Government of the United States, Mr. Mencken said: "It's a comic government, but perhaps it's as good as any."

A. F. of L. Will Prob Butler's Campaign

already spent one-half million dollars to steal this nomination from the people.

"Frederick H. Prince, prominent Boston and New York banker, one of Butler's principal backers, is sailing for Europe today, temporarily escaping jurisdiction in any senatorial inquiry here.

"We have uncovered flagrant attempts to debauch labor leadership in interest of Butler. Assurances already receiv [illegible] President Green's office, American Federation of Labor in Washington that full investigation will be made of our charges that labor men who have endorsed Butler are on his payroll.

APPEALS FOR ACTION

"Use of money to procure this nomination is so apparent that it is a national scandal. What is imperatively needed is the drastic and effective hand of your committee on this situation before the primary on Sept. 16. I appeal to you for instant action. Will endeavor to reach you by telephone at 4 p. m. our time today."

Charges made by the Liberal Civic League that there exists a concerted attempt here to "debauch labor leaders throughout the state in the interest of the United States senatorial candidacy of William M. Butler" will be investigated by the Washington headquarters of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Crooker, general counsel for the league, after a long distance talk with President William Green's office, said he had been assured that the probe would be made, and that a representative of the Washington office would call upon him.

The conversation yesterday followed the sending of a telegram to Green by William H. Mitchell chairman of the league, which read in part:

"Butler's labor record as State legislator, as a lobbyist and as U. S. senator is so bad that no one who sincerely believes in the fundamental principles of organized labor could honestly support him for public office.

"Notwithstanding this fact, various persons prominently identified with organized labor here have lately declared for Butler and are urging labor rank and file to support his nomination and election.

"One of the most conservative figures in labor circles here advises me that the only explanation of such endorsement lies in the undoubted fact that these endorsers are on the Butler payroll."

ENDORSEMENT DENIED

Mrs. William Lowell Putnam of Boston, [illegible] in the country to be a president of [illegible] electoral college and who has joined the endorsers of Draper's candidacy, denounced the Eighteenth Amendment in no uncertain tones.

"Matters are going from bad to worse in our dear land until we have become a nation of hypocrites and the outlook for the future of our children is not to me a pleasant thing to contemplate," she declares.

"Temperance has gone—lost—as one speaker said—in a maze of statistics and speakeasies. But I believe that it is not gone beyond recall if we can send to the U. S. senate a man who has the courage of his convictions, who believes in getting rid of this wholesale iniquity, prohibition, and of allowing the citizens to put in its place, under individual states, laws promoting temperance, and which are therefore, capable of enforcement.

"Such a man is Eben Draper, a man with conviction and courage to stand up for them, and moreover a man young enough to give vital effect to his beliefs, and young enough to stay in the senate a sufficient length of time to renew the feeling of permanence in the Massachusetts tradition in that great body."

3 DIE IN CHAIR FOR RIOT

Ossining, N. Y., Aug. 29—Three participants in the Auburn prison riots of last winter, convicted of causing the death of Henry Sullivan, convict leader in the riots, were electrocuted just before midnight. They were Claude Udwine, William Force and Jesse Thomas.

Almost to the very hour of their execution hope still clung that Governor Roosevelt would intervene and commute their sentences to life imprisonment, but it was stated early in the evening that the governor was not likely to act.

The three were known as hardened criminals, and even if they had been spared the chair, their long criminal records would have precluded their escaping life terms.

For the first time in 15 years all three official chaplains of Sing Sing—Protestant, Catholic and Hebrew—were called at the same time to give consolation to condemned men in their death cells, and to walk with them to the electric chair. The Rev. Anthony N. Petersen, Protestant chaplain, accompanied Thomas on his last walk; Force was accompanied by Fr. John P. McCaffrey, and Dr. Jacob Katz, Hebrew chaplain, gave the last comfort to Udwine.

ALARM SET FOR HIS SUICIDE

Crescenzo Melito, 56, of 110 Everett st., East Boston, set his alarm clock for 4 a. m., today, told his wife he would get his own breakfast, left the house for work at five o'clock and an hour later killed himself.

With a bullet in his head and a revolver clutched in the right hand the body was found in a lot between Everett and Maverick sts., nea Cottage st., East Boston, by Thomas Lafferty of 222 Everett st.

Today, in the real estate columns of the Classified Ads, you will find scores of opportunities for profitable investment.

GUTHRIE BURIAL TO BE IN N. B.

Brockton, Aug. 29—Ronald Guthrie, 19, son of Col. Percy A. Guthrie, Boston lawyer and Canadian war hero, who was injured when his car plunged off a road in Hanson, Monday, died last night at the Brockton Hospital. His father and mother were at his bedside.

The body was removed to an undertaking establishment in Whitman and tonight will be taken to Fredericton, N. B., by Col. and Mrs. Guthrie. Burial will be in Forest Hills Cemetery, in that city.

Ronald Guthrie was born in Fredericton and educated in the schools of his native city and in a preparatory school at Rothesay, N. B. After being graduated from that school, a little more than a year ago, he came to Boston and became a student at Northeastern University and studied in his father's law office at 157 Federal st., Boston.

Cryless Baby Labor Day Is Plan of Experts

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—Fewer crying babies on Labor Day picnics and week-end excursions was the aim of the U. S. Children's Bureau in issuig today specia advice to mothers. This counsel was:

Carry baby in a big market basket, where he can be cooler and more comfortable; or, if autoing, carry him in a hammock.

Don't let strangers play with him.

Don't give nim cakes, candies, bananas or sweet crackers to keep him quiet.

Be sure of his water and milk before you start. It is best to carry a supply of vacuum bottles.

If these suggestions are followed, the child experts predict there will not only be happier picnics, but also less of an aftermath of ailments.

Fordham Registers Slight Earth Shock

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Fordham University seismograph station registered a slight earth shock at 3:30 a. m. (E. S. T.) today. The quake was 3000 miles away, perhaps near the coast of Ecuador.

HEAT KILLS 29 IN ENGLAND

London, Aug. 29 (AP)—About one million square miles of Europe—from Scandinavia to the Mediterranean, and from the British Isles indefinitely eastward—were scorched today in a heat wave which in Britain alone has taken 29 lives in two days.

While thermometers of England and in Northern, Central and Western Europe registered a maximum temperature of about 94, further south temperatures of as high as 120 Fahrenheit were reported.

Residents of the larger cities were severely tried by the excessive heat, and workers in the industrial centers were among the chief sufferers.

KIDNAPED GIRL DEAD IN ALLEY

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 29 (AP)—Attacked and then killed after having been held prisoner for more than 24 hours, Marverine Appel, 8, was found dead in an alley two blocks from her home late last night. A wire was wound tightly about her neck.

Police are seeking a man who was reported to have asked Marverine and several other children to take a ride in his automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Duschatz, who live two blocks from the Appel home, found the body against their garage door.

GIRLS OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS SEEK TITLE

The Typical New England Girl Editor lunched where smart feminine Boston displays and overheard this bit of interesting talk.

"Reading the American, Jean? See where Gloria Swanson wants to send some girl to Paris if she's picked as the typical New England girl by the paper?"

"Yes, Mary," was the answer. "I've been reading it, but gee—what is a typical New England girl? There's no two girls alike here."

The girl was right. There weren't any two girls alike. Not facially. But the subtle something that distinguished a New England girl from those of any part of the country was there. One felt it in their air, in the faces of those young women, and even in the way they ate their food.

The Typical New England Girl Editor could feel it.

TRIP AWAITS WINNER

And because the Boston Evening American and Miss Gloria Swanson feel sure that such a girl exists—that there is a Typical New England Girl somewhere, the contest is on and continues to midnight of September 15, the winner to receive a trip to Paris, all expenses paid on the comfortable and lavish steamer Ile de France going, and the Paris returning, besides $200 for that week's stay in the French city.

If you see Miss Swanson's picture, "What a Widow," which comes to Loew's State Theater September 15, you will see those places in Paris which the winner of the Typical New England Girl contest will witness.

The winner of the State of Maine junior contest, conducted by the National Federation of Music Clubs, was entered in the Typical New England Girl contest today by a oxbury friend.

"She is my idea of a typical New England girl and is also a clever art student," writes the correspondent of Winifred Ruth Erlick of 28 Grand st., Portland.

Winifred, the coupon says, is a blonde of 5 feet, 6½ inches and 128 pounds, who enjoys dancing and dramatic art when her social affiliations, such as membership in Delta Kappa Sorority, the Marsden Music Club and the Cecelia Club are not demanding too much of her energies and talents.

ITIAN HAIR CANDIDATE

Hazel Canessa of No. 914 Massachusetts ave., East Lexington, writes:

"I am 18 years old and have dark brown eyes, and it is said by Boston and New York artists that my hair is genuine titian. My hair is shoulder growth. I am an artist. I was also a student at the Boston Dramatic School."

And from the completed coupon of Alma Lessard, of 24 James st., Lynn, a hairdresser, we learn that domestic science, athletics, dancing and sports of all kinds, in addition to music, are her interests. Alma is blonde, weighs 120 pounds, and stands 5 feet, 5 inches.

"I have lots of friends and they call me the leader," informs Daisy K. James of 152 Berkshire st., Cambridge, another titian-haired young woman desirous of that trip to Paris. Reading, she says, is one of her hobbies.

And further on through the files we pick at random applications from Helen Theresa Gale of 7 Cooney st., Somerville, blonde and athletically inclined; Doris Pooler, a titian-haired resident of Fairfield, Me., with a bent for music and dramatics; Ruth Beatrice Wagner of 943 Hyde Park ave., Hyde Park, a brunette who enjoys art, swimming and sports; Ethel Carter of West Newton st., Boston, blonde, with a special talent for dancing; Janet Lebow of Samoset st., Plymouth, a titian-haired beauty culturist; Winifred A. Lewis of Clifton st., Cliftondale, a dark-haired home girl, who likes music, art, athletics and domestic science.

And, so they go, coupons and photographs. Time will tell the story.

The search for the Typical New England Girl continues to midnight Sept. 15.

Dr. Brewster Starts Channel Swim

Dover, Eng., Aug. 29 (INS)—With ideal conditions favoring his start, Dr. Brewster of London began his attempt to swim the English channel at 6:30 a. m. today. He has hopes of capturing the Dover Gold Cup. Yesterday Miss Elsie West, British swimming star, abandoned her attempt after 12 hours in the water.

PLUS-4 BANDITS IN 2 HOLDUPS

Haverhill, Aug. 29—Two Haverhill business men fell victims of two knicker-clad holdup men early today, one citizen being robbed while parked in a lonely section of North Andover.

The name of the latter was withheld by police, but they admitted $50 was taken from him while a frightened girl companion witnessed the proceeding.

Orlando Williamson, gas station proprietor in the Groveland section, was relieved of $5 and three cigars at his station.

DO-X COOLING SYSTEM FAILS

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Universal Service Special Cable

Friedrichshafen, Aug. 29—Enthusiasm for the projected transatlantic flight of the DO-X was slightly dampened when for the second time within a few days a water pump broke on one of the American motors and two other motors were throttled down lest they overheat.

With Chief Test Pilot Richard Wagner at the wheel, the DO-X took off from Lake Constance and swung around the lake for 45 minutes at splendid speed. Then the signal lamp flashed in the engine room showing that the water pump had broken.

At the command of Technical Director Berner, Wagner glided the DO-X down to the surface of the lake, landing its more than 40-ton weight so gently that it could hardly be felt.

Engineers put in a new water pump, endeavored to ascertain the cause of breakage, and tested connections to see why the water didn't circulate properly through the radiators of the other motors.

Among the tests scheduled for tomorrow are takeoffs, climbing rate and speed with a total weight of 107,500 pounds, or almost 54 tons.

Strike Holds Up Dutch Air Lines

Amsterdam, Aug. 29 (AP)—All air service of the Royal Dutch Air Line was held up today by a strike of the pilots.

Locate Victim's Kin

Parents of Vernon Olsson, Malden youth drowned at Liberty, Me., were located late yesterday at Sherbrooke, P. Q., by telegram after efforts to get in touch with them by radio had failed.

KILL 2 RAIDERS AND WOUND 2

Eugene, Ore., Aug. 29 (AP)—Two officers were shot to death and two were wounded in a prolonged gun battle with Ray Sutherland, 67, alleged moonshiner, near Marcola, Ore., early today.

Sutherland was believed to be barricaded under the floor of his cabin, probably seriously wounded but still defiant.

The battle started last night when Joe Saunders, deputy game warden, and Oscar Duley, Eugene policeman, sought a still in the woods near Marcola, and to arrest Sutherland's son.

The elder Sutherland fired from ambush, killing Saunders in his tracks, and mortally wounding Duley. The father and son then barricaded themselves in their cabin and officers surrounded the place.

In the ensuing battle Deputy Sheriffs Lee Bown and Rodney Roach were wounded seriously.

Gypsy Girl Gets 40 Days for $10 Theft

Charged with larceny of $10 from Peter Caruso of Stoughton, an 18-year-old gypsy girl was found guilty in Municipal Court today and sentenced to 40 days in the House of Correction. Police said the girl, who gave the name of Dina Miller, worked the "handkerchief" game on Caruso while he was having his fortune told in a Hanover st. shop. She appealed.

Legislative Program for Clubwomen Announced

By NANCY BREWSTER

First announcement of the committee members of the legislative department of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Fred L. Pigeon of East Boston, chairman, is made today.

Clubwomen from all over the State, interested in legislative work and the pending activities on Beacon Hill with a view to progressive government, have been named to serve under Mrs. Pigeon. An innovation of this year's administration, the committee members are appointees of the president's council of the federation.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS

They are: Mrs. Mary B. Besse, Wareham; Mrs. William Penn Howard, Edgartown; Miss Edith A. Davis, Cummaquid; Mrs. Eugene Sanger, Wollaston; Mrs. Charles J. Herbert, Squantum; Mrs. Adelaide Billings, Canton; Mrs. Alfred B. Williams, Taunton; Mrs. Edward H. Rugg, Brookline; Mrs. Seavey P. Swan, West Roxbury; Mrs. Franklin P. Manwell, Milton; Mrs. Edward M. Cox, Milton; Mrs. Henry D. Tudor, Cambridge; Miss Sibyl Holmes, Boston; Mrs. Russell A. Cone, Winthrop; Mrs. Emerson Whitman, Everett; Mrs. Gustaf Johnson, Melrose.

Mrs. James W. Sears, Medford; Mrs. William G. Clark, Gloucester; Mrs. Harry W. Merrill, North Saugus; Mrs. Louis S. Cox, Lawrence; Miss Marion Bill, Lowell; Mrs. Edward B. Branigan, Groton; Mrs. Henry K. Doyle, West Concord; Mrs. Everett L. Lord, Natick; Mrs. Andrew D. Morse, Holliston; Mrs. Frank A. Nichols, Gardner; Mrs. John F. Streeter, Springfield; Mrs. Frederick E. Judd, Southampton; Mrs. Arthur Devens Potter, Greenfield; Mrs. Edgar Burr Smith, Greenfield, and Mrs. Russell H. Bellows, Great Barrington.

Mrs. Pigeon, in making public her committee members, also announces the dates of her legislative conferences, the place and the hostess club.

CONFERENCE DATES

Districts 1 and 2 will meet at an all-day legislative session February 10 with the Brockton Woman's Club; District 3, February 3 with the Canton Community Club; Districts 4 and 5, December 5, with the Brightelmstone Club; Districts 7 and 8 at an all-day meeting December 30 with the Woman's Club of the East Boston High School Center.

The ninth district is to meet with the Gloucester Woman's Club Dec. 12; the tenth Oct. 23 with the Nineteen Hundred Club of Billerica; eleventh and thirteenth districts with the Worcester Woman's Club, Jan. 28 at an all-day session; the twelfth district with the Community Club of Newton, Dec. 11 and the fourteenth and fifteenth districts with the Hampden County Woman's Club at the Hotel Kimball at Springfield, Jan. 13.

Cohasset Woman's Club Will Present Marionette Show

From the Cohasset Woman's Club, of which Miss Charlotte S. Tower is president, comes the information that on September 20 the ways and means committee will present a marionette show that will add considerably to the club treasury when the receipts are counted.

Also that Mrs. Thomas J. Walker, second vice-president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, and Club Institutes chairman, will talk to the club membership on "books" at the October 20 program which also includes a musical program.

And still more about the second district, to be exact, comes the word that a friendly program by the Old Colony Club of South Weymouth, will be among the many things of interest on this season's calendar of the Cohasset Club. Miss Tower is to serve on the resolutions committee.

TIRED people . . .

So MANY WOMEN, so many men can barely finish out the day. Even mid-afternoon finds them tired . . . listless.

What a difference if they only realized the importance of correct diet. Diet which contains enough "bulk" to rid the system of poisons that sap strength and lead to serious disease!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies this needed "bulk" to millions of happy, energetic people. It is the largest-selling all-bran cereal on the market. It prevents and relieves both temporary and recurring constipation.

Try it—and notice the difference in the way you feel. Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily—three times daily in severe cases. Relief is guaranteed. Look for the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Douglas-Phipps Bridal Planned for October

MR. J. GORDON DOUGLAS, JR., son of Mr. J. Gordon Douglas of New York, and Mrs. Grafton Winthrop Minot of New York and Newport, formerly of Boston, is engaged to Miss Peggie Phipps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Phipps of New York and Palm Beach. Miss Phipps was presented to society two years ago in New York, and since that time has been interested in a business venture with Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt on Madison ave., a modern bookshop. Her fiance attended Harvard University. The wedding will take place in October.

ANOTHER ENGAGEMENT of interest to Bostonians is that of Pauline Potter, daughter of Mr. Francis Potter of New York and Long Island, to Charles Carroll Fulton Leser of Baltimore and Boston. Mr. Leser is the son of Judge and Mrs. Oscar Leser of Baltimore and grandson of the late Gen. Felix Agnus and Mrs. Agnus, for many years publisher of the Baltimore American. He is now an artist on the staff of the Fogg Museum at Harvard University. His brother, Felix A. Leser, lives at Green Spring Valley, Maryland, and his sister, Mrs. Richard D. Sears, Jr., lives at Boston and Pride's Crossing. Mr. Leser has membership in the Baltimore Club and Bachelors' Cotillion, also the Tennis and Racquet Club of Boston, where he is now staying.

MISS POTTER'S MOTHER was the late Gwendolen Cary, daughter of Sidney Cary of Baltimore, in which city the bride-to-be has made her home with a cousin, Mrs. Charles Morton Stewart, since returning from school in Europe. She has relatives in England, Viscount Falkland, who is the head of the Cary family in Great Britain. Miss Potter is also granddaughter of Frank Hutter Potter, brother of the late Henry C. Potter, bishop of New York. Thomas Jefferson and Francis Scott Key are among her notable ancestors. No date has been set for the wedding.

Hope Gay Yandell Bride in Brilliant English Wedding

AN INTERESTING WEDDING took place today at Kingham, Oxfordshire, England, when Miss Hope Gay Yandell, eldest daughter of Mrs. Lunsford Pitts Yandell of Greenwich, Conn., and William Arnold Hanger, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry Taylor Hanger of Richmond, Ky., were married at the Kingham Church. The bride was gowned in a simple white satin with long tight-fitting sleeves and peacock train ten feet long. Her white tulle veil was fastened with a wreath of orange blossoms and she carried a spray of white spider orchids. She was given in marriage by her young brother, David Wendell Yandell.

MRS. RICHARD HOFFMAN, who attended as matron of honor, was attired in a gown of yellow georgette and carried a bouquet of vari-colored flowers, mauve, yellow, blue and pink. Master Babbit Hoffman, as a page, wore a suit of yellow crepe de chine. Richard Hoffman was the best man. After the ceremony, a reception was held at the Grange, the residence of the bride's cousin, Mrs. Hoffman, after which the couple left on a wedding trip.

Notes of Interest About Prominent Society Leaders

MISS ROSAMOND PIERCE, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvah H. Pierce of Brookline, is teaching dancing this summer to the children of Newport's social set.

MRS. ARTHUR BEALE, Miss Polly Beale and Mr. Benjamin Beale are in New York for a few days. They will return in time to attend the international races at Newport.

Pert Bolero Is Smart at All Hours

By ANN ARDEN

YOU NEEDN'T look further for smartness in the fall mode than the first bolero. These tiny jackets with a spanish accent may be either real or simulated, but never entirely absent when a dozen or more women get together.

• • •

THE BOLEROS one sees by the light of day are frequently on coats and very often on dresses. In fact no sooner will the first new coats have appeared on the streets than you will be commenting on the number of bolero backs. You'll like their youthful jaunty air on dresses, too. In fact, if the fall mode were to have a theme song, one movement might well be in Spanish tempo, because no trend is more persistent than that of the bolero.

• • •

THE SMART, youthful and "different" model pictured is a copy of Augustabernard of wool georgette in navy blue. The vestee-blouse is of white crepe in hand-quilted design, a new note in the mode. The skirt has vertical inserted godets from the hips. The smart little bolero is held in place by a belt which is an extension of the center back, and is buttoned each side of the blouse.

• • •

Model from Alfred Rotholz, Inc.

THE FELT hat is draped back from the forehead to form a brim, and is caught with a bunch of feather quills on lower right side.

• • •

WILL LINGERIE touches be good again in the fall? The answer seems to be "yes and no." Light fluffs of organdy and lace will go the way of summer blossoms but necklines and sleeves will not remain unadorned. Neckwear takes on a richer appearance with fall. Beaded effects, heavy silks, even velvet will be used for collars and cuffs.

• • •

SURELY NO feature of the present vogue of femininity has met with greater popularity than "the lingerie touch." A bit of crisp pique or a wisp of lace is so flattering that one is not surprised to find this lingerie touch more firmly intrenched than ever in the fall mode.

ANDREE COMING BACK ON BOAT HE LEFT ON

By Knut Stubbendorff
Universal Service Special Correspondent

(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc., in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Central and South America, Continental Europe, except Scandinavia, and all other countries. Reproduction in whole or in part prohibited.)

Special Radio Dispatch

Aboard S. S. Isbjoern, Aug. 29—The Greenland and Barents seas of the Arctic ocean, between Scandinavia and Spitzbergen, are alive today with Norwegian and Swedish vessels endeavoring to reach the sealer Bratvaag, on which Dr. Gunnar Horn is returning to civilization with the bodies the Salomon Auguste Andree and his companions of the ill-fated Polar balloon expedition.

The Isbjoern, commanded by Capt. Holmboe, put out of Tromsoe, on the north coast of Norway, at noon Wednesday, but because of defects in the radio had trouble communicating with the mainland until repairs were made. We are now pointing toward Hope Island, south of Spitzbergen, and when we reach there should be able to contact the Bratvaag by radio.

The Norwegian naval fisheries inspection ship, Michael Sars, has been ordered from the vicinity of Iceland to proceed to Tromsoe where it will be boarded by eminent Swedish scientists to steam north to reach the Bratvaag and Dr. Horn, who received radio orders from the Swedish government to return to Tromsoe.

TRANSFER BODIES

The Michael Sars should be in Tromsoe Monday and should leave the same day for the Polar regions of Spitzbergen. The bodies of Andree and his companions will be transferred at sea to the Michael Sars, which has been ordered to speed to Tromsoe following the transfer.

The dense fog which settled over the region between Norway and Spitzbergan two days ago has not yet lifted, and the weather itself adds greater dangers for the searching expeditions. Constant radio communication is maintained with the mainland, and the operators aboard the Isbjoern are continually attempting to reach the Bratvaag, which is still believed near Fridtjof Nansen land, where the bodies of the Andree party were discovered.

The Tromsoe radio station has advised Capt. Holmboe that on Saturday, the Swedish battleship Svensksund will put out from Stockholm for Tromsoe, with relatives of Andree, scientists and embalmers aboard. When the Michael Sars arrives at Tromsoe with the bodies, Andree's diary and logbook, a second transfer will be made and the remains of the 1897 balloon expedition taken aboard the Svensksund.

STARTED ON SVENSKSUND

By a strange trick of fate, the Svensksund, which will carry the precious cargo back to Stockholm, is the same ship which, thirty-three years ago, carried the Andree expedition to Virgo Bay, Spitzbergen, from which the balloonists began their unsuccessful flight to the North Pole. The Svensksund is expected at Tromsoe on Sept. 5.

When the transfer to the Svensksund is effected, scientists appointed by the Swedish Government will take over control of the Andree diary, of which only one entry—to the effect that the party reached a spot 500 miles from the Pole—is so far known. The diary was frozen and the pages stuck together, and the government scientists will endeavor to bare its contents without harming the book in any way.

Film men representing companies from all over the world, and newspaper correspondents representing the largest services and newspapers, have gathered at Tromsoe to await the opportunity to obtain Dr. Horn's personal account of the discovery of the Andree expedition, and to bid for the right to publish Andree's diary.

New Values—New Enthusiasm

Friday and Saturday

Literally thousands came yesterday to share in these unusual $19 values—taxed our facilities to capacity. To those whom we could not take care of we apologize—to those who missed the sale we say come early tomorrow for the values of a lifetime. Remember no exaggerations—no optimistic superlatives, just plain statements of unvarnished facts and VALUES that pictures and cold type cannot do justice to.

An event famous all over New England—Now even greater because recent market conditions have made possible infinitely finer quality and style than has been possible at $19 since the Armistice. The last crowning feature of our Midsummer Sale—probably your last opportunity to buy before prices go up this Fall.

Five Planes Lost in Fire

Kansas City, Aug. 29 (AP)—Five airplanes valued at $75,000 were destroyed by fire which swept through the hangar of the Hilliard-Aero-Motive Corporation last night.

WIFE KILLS TWO TO STOP RUM MAKING

Port Orchard, Wash., Aug. 29 (AP)—A double slaying, attributed to a rum feud, was explained, Deputy Sheriff A. D. Corliss announced today, by a wife's confession that she killed her husband and his hired man to put an end to their manufacture of liquor.

The wife, Mrs. Julia Lee Christianson, 36, Corliss said, admitted ambushing her husband, G. L. Christianson, and John Higebar, Tuesday, as they were at work in a woodshed where officers later found 102 gallons of whisky.

Mrs. Christianson, 27 years younger than her husband, was quoted as saying she killed Higebar to prevent him telling.

Tax Load Too Much for Earl of Derby

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—A London dispatch to the New York Times today said that the Earl of Derby, leading British sportsman, had been hit by the burden of British taxation to a point where it was necessary to place most of his yearlings on sale and release his trainer, Frank Butters.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

What a country this is. We are taught from childhood never to say a thing can't be done and along comes Mr. Wickersham and the rest of the law enforcement commission to say that the prohibition amendment can't be enforced. Let me tell you it can be enforced and as a matter of fact it is enforced, as well and perhaps better than most of this country's numerous laws. It would be still better enforced if a few militaristic papers, like your own, would praise the law instead of condemning it. Where would the Ten Commandments be today if your paper and other papers encouraged the people to kill, swear, stay from church, etc. Probably down in the mud along with the prohibition amendment.

Try helping the amendment out. Give it the applause it deserves and watch the decrease in crime, drunkenness, etc. You know people are like sheep and a good newspaper can lead them to prosperity or ruin. Just where is the American leading its sheep?

Boston Speed Would Shock the Puritans

Editor Boston American:

If some of the Puritans could come back to this earth and take a bird's-eye view of what speed is today in this city they would throw up their hands in holy horror. Everybody knows more or less about how many viewed the coming of railroads around Boston.

They claimed there was nothing in the Bible about railroads. These were the later Puritans of 1828. If the Almighty designed that his creaures should travel at the frightful rate of 15 miles an hour, He would have foretold it to His holy prophets, they contended. Railroads were considered the device of the devil, sending immortal souls down to hell. A very wise physician of Boston at the beginning of the 19th century proclaimed that the jars of a railroad train at such unholy speed as 15 miles an hour would lead to concussion of the brain. No wonder they called the first engine "Hell on Wheels." There is no telling what they would call an up-to-date speedy auto.

Thinks New England Doesn't Blow Enough

Editor Boston American:

I saw this week an auto from Everett, State of Washington, parked at the Back of the State House. The car had the complete history of that section of the country, graphically described and why the whole of New England should locate in the land of the salmon, etc.

The crowd gathered and heard about the grand opportunities of that State. You might infer from the way the drivers of that car talked that we were being introduced to the modern Utopia.

I have nothing to say about their methods, but praise. If you have a good thing to sell or advertise, why get to work about it.

Why don't we send a return auto out to Washington, giving the great advantages of New England. We don't blow enough about what we are in Massachusetts or New England. They are the greatest blowers out in California that I ever heard. Prohibition does not affect them out there. It is a grape country. But New England takes the cake for the frost on the pumpkin and the flavor of the apples.

Lauds Sergt. Hoban For Using His Wits

Editor Boston American:

I have noticed the absence, in the news and editorial columns, of credit to Serg. Leo Hoban of the La Grange Street Police Station, for his part in the capture of the murderer of the Stow couple.

His intelligent understanding of my order for "two plains in a hurry", was a great relief to me at the time. When he replied that he had only one man and I answered, "blue won't do, important", the speed with which he had a man change to plain clothes and got them down here is encouraging to a private citizen to aid the police when the opportunity offers.

His part in the affair calls for high praise.

Tells How Moran Made Some Votes

Editor Boston American:

Having just read the letter in the American by William A. Ryan relative to the speaking by candidates at "Ye Old Town Meeting" held recently at Hull please permit me to state that to my notion the most interesting speaker was John H. Moran, candidate for State Senator in this district.

Mr. Moran in a clean-cut, refined address concluded by saying: "I am well acquainted with my Republican opponent in this contest and although I hope to win you are assured that whether he or I be successful you citizens of Hull and of this district are to have a good Senator."

I know of a half a dozen or more votes which such speaker made for himself among my women associates.

Says Lights in Tremont st. Misplaced

Editor Boston American:

As I have seen several letters in your paper calling attention to the defects of the traffic lights, may I add my experience to others who have had something to say about these lights?

Standing on the Parker House side of School st. facing King's Chapel, it is well nigh impossible to see the lights telling pedestrians what to do.

These lights in Tremont st. should be removed from the curb stone and placed where they can be seen to better advantage. Lights in Tremont st. should be in the center of that street, not on the side. It makes me nervous every time I am obliged to cross School st. at Tremont st. Many have agreed with me that the best thing to do is to replace the lights or order old people off the streets of Boston and let them for the rest of their lives sit in the rocking chair to get exercise.

Suggests Solution of the World's Ills

Editor Boston American:

I am writing to suggest a possible plan to wipe out the terrible depression which has struck every corner of the world. I believe it started and can be stopped only in this country.

My plan which is probably ridiculous, but I hope sincerely that it is not, is that the President issue an open letter to every business establishment in the United States urging them to report the number of men they can put to work on a certain date, say, December 1, 1930, by either cutting down for a few months the extremely over-paid men, and accepting a cut in their own profits for a short time, which positively will not be felt any more than the slim profits they are accepting now in a hopeless effort to stimulate business.

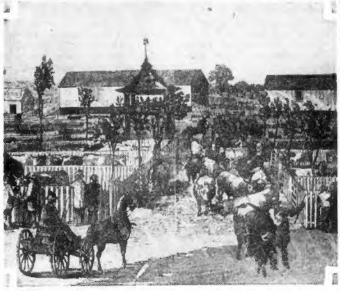
Massachusetts Tercentenary—1930



THIS, THE OLD CATTLE MARKET in Brighton, was the chief meat supply in New England for over a century. Today, while cattle are handled in Brighton, the business is negligible compared to that at the Western centers. To this market the farmers and drovers brought their animals for sale and slaughter. It was no uncommon sight years ago to see big herds along the roads around Boston, all Brighton bound. Where these pens were has been built up for business and other uses. Tomorrow—Old Park st.

Hub Airport Free to All for Big Meet

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

The Boston Airport will be free to everyone during the three-day Tercentenary air meet scheduled to begin Friday, Sept. 5, according to Albert L. Edson, airport superintendent and chairman of the air meet committee.

Since announcement of the show was made, Edson has been receiving countless telephone calls requesting information about the show, and inquiring the admission fee.

A three-page folder, describing the airport in detail, and giving the program is being drawn up to Theodore Holcombe, manager of the aviation bureau of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. Holcombe is a member of the show committee, and expects to have the program completed and printed before the middle of next week.

100 PLANES HERE

The original print order will be large enough to assure every visitor with a copy.

While invitations have been sent to various famous pilots, no influx of outside planes is expected by Edson. There are over 100 planes regularly stationed at the airport, and with these and a few more, the show will be the largest of its kind ever seen here.

Construction of benches in front of the commercial buildings is rapidly nearing completion, and bushes and poplar trees are being planted around the various buildings.

These benches will be augmented with temporary seats of the show, with plenty of standing room available.

EVERYTHING OPEN AND FREE

"The airport is owned by the city of Boston, and the three day show is being held to acquaint residents of this city with the excellent flying facilities we have here," stated Edson today. "Being a municipal field, there will be no admission fee charged and everything on the field will be open for inspection."

Frederick Lothrop Ames and his wife are en route to Chicago to attend the closing days of the National Air Races. Ames is president of East Coast Aircraft Corp. at Boston Airport, and is one of Boston's oldest sportsman pilots in the number of flying hours.

The trip west is being made in a Curtiss-Robin cabin monoplane. The return trip will be made early next week.

The first solo student of the Aviation Corp. of New England successfully made his initial flight alone today, with Instructor Gus Ham watching from the sidelines.

Boston's newest birdman is Lincoln Philpot, 23, of Melrose. He intends to continue piling up hours to secure his transport license, and then will enter commercial aviation.

Students' Rounded Up in "Magazine" Game

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 29 (AP)—Three young magazine salesmen picked a poor prospect yesterday. The prospect was Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern University.

The youths, later identified as Sam and Herbert Krause of New York and Philip Land of Los Angeles, explained the money they made from magazine subscriptions went into tuition fees and such at Northwestern.

"Well, isn't that fine," returned Dr. Scott. "I happen to be president of that institution. I don't remember seeing any of you boys around. What's your college? What work are you majoring in? What——"

But the three had disappeared. Dr. Scott notified police. The youths were rounded up. Lectured on the ethics of sales representation, and released on their promise to leave Evanston.

Boston Postoffice to Close Labor Day

Postmaster Charles R. Gow announced today that the stations, branches and general departments of the Boston postoffice will be closed Monday (Labor Day). Special delivery and perishable mail will be delivered.

Lobbies of the postoffice will be open from 8 a. m. to 10 a. m. for box holders. The holiday street box collections will be made.

Taking a Bath Costs Them Much Rum and 5 Autos

Averill, Vt., Aug. 29 (AP)—Cleanliness may be next to godliness, but to a group of alleged bootleggers here today it was just a mistake. A swim cost the group 4000 bottles of choice imported liquors.

The rum runners, police said, came down from Canada in five autos loaded with liquor. On passing a lake in this community, the drivers descended for a swim. They plunged in, leaving one of their number behind as a guard.

The parked cars aroused the suspicion of an officer. He investigated and placed the guard, Francis Parker, 18, under arrest. The five cars were confiscated, but since the other men were not actually in the cars at the time they were found, they were allowed to go after their names were taken.

PORT OF BOSTON IN REVIEW

By CARL MORRISON

Harborites are organizing to aid a benefit to be given September 15 for the family of John "Nixie" Searles, former middleweight boxer and longshoreman, whose recent death left a widow and five children in financial difficulties.

At the Gem Theater in East Boston on the night before the primary election, an athletic program will be presented under the supervision of Joseph P. Smiddy, president of Local 8[illegible] Joseph Taft, treasurer and Harold McGinn secretary.

Rep "Billy" Barker is volunteering his services in arranging the program. He announces that the headliners will include [illegible] Sharkey, Jimmie Mahoney, J[illegible] Indrisano, Hambone Kelley, Louie Baldi, Pat McCarthy, Henry Lamar and several others.

"Nixie," was known all over the waterfront for his willingness to "go through" for his friends. He died unexpectedly in the Naval hospital and was given a military funeral. The oldest child is a 13-year-old girl and the youngest is only a few months.

TODAY'S WHO'S WHO

Alexander Kendall

The subject of [illegible] Who's Who in the Harbor is Lieut Col Alexander Kendall [illegible] president and treasurer of the importing and exporting firm of Downer & Hinnewell.

Kendall has [illegible] the foreign commerce business for [illegible] years and has built up a large volume of imports from India and other countries. He is a member of the Export Club of the Chamber of Commerce and keenly interested in boosting the port. BOSTON AMERICAN COOKING PAGE

EDITED AND CONDUCTED BY MARTHA LEE FRIDAY, AUGUST 29, 1930

1 gill—½ cup.

2 cups butter—1 lb.
4 cups sifted flour—1 lb.
2 level tbsps. butter—1 oz.
2 cups sugar—1 lb

Best of Food Provided by Farms

From Martha Lee's Friday morning broadcast over WBDH by the Boston Evening American.

Artichokes and alligator pears may be all very right in their place, but for honest-to-goodness dishes crammed with that melt-in-your-mouth flavor achieved only by the true American cook, let's go back to the farm.

Your real farm wife is not only a competent guide on the traditional road to a man's heart, but she has mapped out several new paths herself. And as long as the hens lay eggs, the cows give cream, and the garden behind the pump yields its rows of vegetables to vie with the yield from the orchard, so long will she continue to delight the tongue and the "little red lane."

Martha Lee

Farm-bred dishes are luscious—they're healthful too; and while some of the rural recipes may seem strange to the city kitchen-artists, still she may copy in her own kitchenette—and probably will—any of the recipes which follow, all of them obtained from "best cooks" in farming communities.

COMPANY CREAM PIE

This is the pie they serve in a certain home "down East" whenever company comes. It's a large pie, with goodness in its middle and health in its dates:

1 baked pastry shell
1 cups sour cream
3 tbsps. cornstarch
⅓ cup sugar
¼ tsp. salt
Grated rind of 1 lemon
3 egg yolks
1 cup (½ pkg.) dates
3 egg whites
3 tbsps. confectioner's sugar.

Heat 1½ cups cream in the top part of a double boiler over hot water. Mix the cornstarch, sugar and salt; stir in ¼ cup cold cream to form a smooth paste. Stir this mixture into the hot cream and continue stirring until the filling thickens. Cover and let cook over a low flame during the preparation of the remaining ingredients. Beat the egg yolks; add the grated lemon rind; stir in a little of the hot filling; return the mixture to the double boiler and cook one minute. Cool.

Prepare the meringue by beating the eggs until stiff, and beating in the sugar gradually. Pour the cooled filling into a baked pastry shell; cover with the meringue and brown in a slow oven (300 deg. F.) for 20 to 30 minutes. Serve very cold. Makes one large pie—6 large servings.

SCRAMBLED EGGS, COUNTRY STYLE

A plain, but beloved dish for cool nights is this one, useful now that eggs are fairly cheap. Notice the addition of bread cubes and cornstarch—the dish not only goes farther this way, but the cornstarch gives it a velvety texture which can be achieved in no other way.

1 cup small cubes white bread
2 tbsps. cooking oil
4 eggs
¾ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. cornstarch
¼ cup milk
⅛ tsp. pepper

Fry the bread in the cooking oil until slightly brown. Dissolve the cornstarch in the milk, add the seasonings and eggs, beaten. Scramble slowly, allowing the mixture to coagulate a little before scraping it from the bottom of the pan.

Corn Bargain in Market

Lovers of sweet corn will welcome the news that 19 cents will buy one dozen big, luscious ears, while smaller towns within easy automobile distance retail it for nine and ten cents a dozen. There is no excuse at all for not eating your fill of this king of summer vegetables.

The ever-favorite cauliflower is appearing here and there in the market, selling for 25 to 50 cents a head. A few mushrooms still remain to cheer the steak-and-mushroom hound, and early cranberries sound the warning that Thanksgiving is just around the corner with cranberry pies and jelly to help out the turkey platter.

Sween green peppers are all prices from 15 cents to 50 cents a dozen. Don't overlook them if you're doing any tomato and relish preserving.

I found a few Concord grapes at 17 and 19 cents for a two-quart basket, and plums, peaches and pears are plentiful.

Price tags on the meat counters show an upward trend, except on poultry. A good suggestion for Sunday's dinner is roast native chicken, which is a very good buy for 45 and 50 cents per pound. Lobster is slightly lower, and the lobster meat is $1.75 per pound. Mackerel, our favorite sea food, is higher, sad to relate.

Massachusetts special eggs retail for 65 and 70 cents per dozen in nearby towns, and the smaller pullet eggs are 55 to 60 cents.

Banana Boat Salad Makes Kiddies Happy

Children love bananas but it is only in recent years that it has been generally known that the affection is mutual. Physicians now prescribe ripe, raw bananas, whipped to a light consistency, for infants and by including them in the diet you include sugar content, some iron, vitamin A and vitamin C. Here is an inviting fruit salad for the nursery dinner:

Cut the bananas in halves lengthwise and scoop out the centers. Fill the cavities with a mixture of diced pineapple and chopped nuts moistened with mayonaise. Garnish, if you like, with cherries.

Ideal Dish for Holiday

TASTY TOMATO JELLY GIVES housewives a delightful dish to serve guests who are coming for the holiday week-end.

Tomato Dish Handy as a Filler

Company coming for the holiday week-end?

And extra cookery to be considered?

Then, perhaps a very simple Tomato Jelly that the Lee guests are going to be served with the Sunday roast may furnish one item on your company menu.

This Tomato Jelly may be made either from the fresh stewed or canned tomatoes and besides being a delicious and wholesome jelly in its simplest form, it also serves as a foundation for many other salads.

For instance, it can be used to fill green peppers and when firm can be sliced crosswise and decorated with a cheese ball or a slice of stuffed egg.

Or, as the tomato jelly begins to stiffen, a cup of diced celery and a cup of chopped nuts can be added. Shredded cabbage with chopped celery and minced green peper is a nice addition when your jelly reaches the ropey stage.

Also one cup of flaked shrimp with ½ cup of celery makes it substantial enough for a luncheon dish. Chicken or tuna fish can be used instead of the shrimp.

Here's the favorite foundation recipe.

TOMATO JELLY

(Serves 8)

2 level tbsps. gelatine
½ c. cold water
3½ c. canned tomatoes
½ bay leaf
Stalk celery
Few grains cayenne
2 tbsps. mild vinegar or
2 tbsps. lemon juice
Few grains salt

Soak gelatine in cold water about five minutes. Mix remaining ingredients, except vinegar, bring to boiling point and let boil 10 minutes. Add vinegar and soaked gelatine, and when gelatine is dissolved, strain. Turn into wet molds, and chill. Remove from molds to bed of crisp lettuce leaves and garnish with mayonnaise dressing; or the jelly may be cut in any desired shapes and used as a garnish with salads or cold meats.

Macaroni for Cool Days

An ever-present aid to the busy housewife is our favorite brand of macaroni and spaghetti. A substitute for potatoes and a true food delight the Lee family can't seem to get enough of it, and if by chance it is left off of the menu longer than usual, voices are raised demanding "Please, we want some more."

A delicious and economical recipe is this:

1 pkg. elbow macaroni
½ cup left-over meat
2 cups gravy
½ onion, chopped
1 tbsp. melted butter
½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
1 cup grated cheese
Buttered bread crumbs

Parboil elbow macaroni for 7 minutes in 4 quarts of rapidly boiling water to which 1 tbsp. salt has been added. Drain. Mix together the meat, chopped, the gravy, onion, butter, salt, pepper and cheese. Combine well with the macaroni and pour into a well-greased baking dish. Cover with the crumbs and bake for 20 minutes. Spaghetti may be substituted for the elbow macaroni.

The Daily Dollar

CHERRY CAKE

½ cup butter
¾ cup sugar
3 tsp. baking powder
2 eggs
¼ cup milk
1½ cups flour
1 pinch salt
1 tsp. vanilla
Cherries

Cream the butter and sugar and add well beaten eggs; beat well; mix and sift dry ingredients and add to the mixture, alternately with the milk. Add the vanilla and ¾ of a bottle of cherries cut into small pieces. Beat well and pour into a square pan and bake in a moderate oven 25 minutes.

CHERRY FROSTING

1¼ cups confectioners' sugar

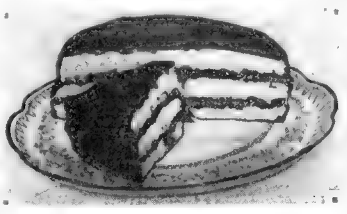
Layer Cakes Popular



A CHOCOLATE LAYER CAKE is always appropriate for a meal or lunch.

Chocolate Layer Cake

½ c. butter
1 c. sugar
2 c. pastry or cake flour
3 level tsps. baking powder
3 egg whites
2-3 c. milk
1 tsp. flavoring extract

Bake in two layers, put chocolate frosting between the layers and over the whole cake.

HIDES DEATH OF HIS BROTHER

Bristol, N. H., Aug. 29 (AP)—A little boy's fear of punishment for going fishing without parental consent concealed the death by drowning of his older brother for more than six hours it was learned here today.

The dead boy who was swept to his death in the Pemigewasset river was Herman Phillips, 9, son of Mrs. Frances R. [illegible]. His 7-year-old brother, who hid the tragedy from his parents, through fright, is Richard.

The boys went fishing near the little dam. The younger lad returned home and when questioned said he did not know his brother's whereabouts.

The older boy failed to return and a search was begun. Under questioning the younger son finally confessed he had seen Herman drawn into the water after his fishline had caught.

Autoist Sentenced to 6 Months, 10 Days

Robert McKerran of Antwerp st., Brighton, was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction by Judge Churchill for driving under the influence of liquor. For driving after his license had been revoked he was given an additional 10 days. This is McKerran's third conviction. He appealed and was held for superior court in $500.

Dawes Sees Original Order of King for Columbus Voyage

Seville, Aug. 29 (AP)—A slip of time-stained paper which started Christopher Columbus across unknown seas to discover a new world was examined with fascinated interest this morning by Gen. Charles G. Dawes, who has temporarily left his post as ambassador to Great Britain to explore Spanish archeological treasures, and his party.

It was the original order of King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella commissioning Columbus to undertake the momentous voyage.

HUNT SUITOR IN 2 LOVE DEATHS

Los Angeles, Aug. 29 (AP).—The attempt of a group of Mexican and American police to solve the mystery surrounding the slaying of Lois Kentle, University of California coed, and her fiance, Francis Cannon, stabbed to death on the beach at Ensenada, Mexico, shifted to Los Angeles today.

Maj. Louis Ferrel C[illegible], personal representative of Gov. Jose Maria Tapia of the northern district of Lower California, and Jack Tabor, San Diego deputy sheriff, came here last night by airplane.

They said they suspected the young couple had been slain by a jealous acquaintance of the girl who trailed them [illegible] to Ensenada.

Capone Aide Falls Before Gang Shots

Chicago, Aug. 29 (INS).—John Kruspe, 38, said to be a henchman of Alphonse Capone, was shot and killed today by two gunmen at the front door of his home. Kruspe dropped dead with five slugs in his body when he admitted his identity to the two callers.

Boston's "Lucky Girl"

ONE OF THE MOST THRILLING SERIALS EVER WRITTEN by Hazel Livingston

Cathie Called Lucky Girl as News of Betrothal Becomes Known

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Catherine Paige, elder daughter in a fatherless home, secures her first position in the office of Alfred A. Farnsworth, successful engineer. She meets Gordon Moore of the firm of Moore Brothers, engaged in important construction work for Farnsworth. Cathie is instantly attracted to him, and he to her, but what seems a serious love affair to her is just a pleasant episode to him, and she soon realizes he has forgotten her. Cathie's mother falls seriously ill. To pay for hospital expenses and doctor bills she is forced to borrow heavily from Farnsworth. He is many years her senior, and completely overwhelms her when he proposes marriage with him as a way out of her financial difficulties. After a night of tears she accepts and agrees to an early marriage.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 9

MARY PAIGE wanted to talk to Cathie. She had been wanting to talk to her for days. There was so much in her heart. So many things Cathie ought to know . . . or did she know them already? Girls were so different nowadays. Even her girls. Ruth wrote a paper on birth control for a course she had at summer session last year. Fifteen-year-old Jean talked knowingly and easily of things that even yet made her own cheeks flush warmly.

It hurt that Cathie had not consulted her, had not once asked for advice. Never a "Do you think I ought to, Ma?" or "Ma, what do you think! Mr. Farnsworth asked me to marry him!" No, not a word. Not a single word. Just the fact,

"I'm all through at the office. I'm going to marry Mr. Farnsworth. Oh, don't all jump on me. I'm going to! My mind's made up!"

Remembering it—that night that Cathie burst in on them with her news, made Mary Paige's heart contract anew. She could see Ruth's incredulous, stony face, and hear little Jean's delightful shriek—"Cathie! How WONDERFUL!"

Mind Made Up

And Cathie, glowing and excited but strangely calm.

"No, there's no use talking. My mind's made up!"

Yes, Cathie's mind was made up. There was no mistaking that. There was a serenity, a sure, unhurried precision about all her movements now. The childishness had slipped from her, like a wornout garment. Cathie was grown up. Cathie, the flyaway, the giggly babyish one . . . why it was only yesterday that she was playing lady with the brown couch cover, dragging it behind her for a train. . . . Mary Paige's eyes grew misty. Those were the days, with the children all around her. And now with Eddie gone off on that ship, and Cathie talking about marrying that man . . . she didn't know what to say. . . .

Cathie, out of her new, grown-up wisdom, tried to help her out.

"There's no use saying I'm in love with Mr. Farnsworth," she admitted frankly. "But I do like him—oh, ever so much. I think he is the kindest, nicest man in the world. And when you like a man, and respect him, isn't that a lot? It isn't only love that makes people happy when they're married, is it, ma?"

Humble Existence

Mary Paige shook her head. She had loved, and she had been very happy. She thought of herself and young Ed Paige, setting up housekeeping in this very house. With the solid oak bedroom set and the mahogany veneer parlor set purchased on the installment plan. And the babies coming, and she at the washtub, and Ed in his shirt-sleeves puffing at his pipe telling how he'd quit because he wouldn't take any lip from anybody, but, in a few days, after he'd rested up he'd see about something good he'd heard about . . . and quitting again . . . and again . . . and the collectors coming and Schneider, the grocer, sending notes by the children. . . .

She thought of Ruth, not getting any younger, and no sign of love for her, unless it was love that made her say "Mr. Browning says," oh twenty, forty times a day.

And little Jean talking about college already. . . . And young Eddie, so tall, so handsome, so . . . so like his father about jobs and money.

She put her hands over her eyes. "I don't know," she said unhappily. "I don't know if one could say that love was enough or not."

Worth Sacrifice

But a look that flashed across her mother's face, a glow of remembrance, a fleeting radiance, chilled Cathie. She thought intuitively, "It was worth it to her. Worth all the work and worry and everything . . . having had father and us."

She couldn't remember her father very well. She had only a blurred recollection of his mustache tickling her when she climbed on his lap and pulled his head down to her. The thing that she invariably thought of when Ma spoke of him was the little plot with his name, EDWARD JOSEPH PAIGE, carved into the slim granite cross. And all the family, awed and good, sitting in a row on the curbing in their Sunday clothes, while Ma put calla lilies in the vases, and pulled up the dark knotting weeds that kept cropping up in the fine green grass of the lawn.

Ma had been pretty then. Rosy and plump in her good black dress, and the widow's bonnet with the little white ruching. Funny she couldn't remember her father. They must have been awfully in love, in spite of the sickness and the poverty. Well, she'd face sickness and poverty, too, if there was anyone who loved her or was ever likely to . . . but since there wasn't.

"I don't know," Mary Paige was repeating unhappily. "I don't know what I ought to say. And you so young. Sometimes I think—"

Loss for Words

She stumbled for words. When she lifted her head to see how Cathie was taking it she saw she wasn't listening. So she stopped. Perhaps, after all, it was for the best.

Just before she left the office Mr. Farnsworth had called Cathie in and given her thick, legal papers to sign.

"This is a marriage settlement," he told her, "and I want you to turn it over to your mother. I think she would be more content to have it so. She will have her own income, independent of me—of us. These are bonds. The income will be sufficient. And since we will have to be proper wedded folk and have a wedding trip and you are bound for some fashionable hotels and so on, you'll need some fashionable clothes and—"

"No! I'd much rather not I—"

"My dear Catherine, you—"

"Mother wouldn't like it," Cathie interrupted doggedly.

"It is necessary, my dear," he told her patiently. "You must learn to trust me in these things. Do you realize that you are marrying a—well—a rather rich man?"

Cathie nodded. "Yes."

He smiled. "I don't believe you do."

"Oh, yes, I know you must be."

"My poor darling. You are not mercenary, are you?"

When she did not answer, he said, after another long pause:

"This little roll of bills, and the little settlement I am making, are but a drop in the bucket, Catherine mine. You will find in your new life that you will need much money, and you will have it. I want to make up to you for the things that . . . that perhaps you will miss."

The things that perhaps she would miss.

Cathie was thinking of them now. Mary Paige who had had them, was thinking of the things that Cathie wouldn't miss. The things

SHIFT 12 IN STATE POLICE SHAKEUP

Transferred

CORP. RAYMOND L. FOLEY, of the Concord state police barracks, was transferred to the Topsfield barracks in one of the most drastic shakeups the Massachusetts state constabulary has experienced in years. In all, 12 officers were shifted.

WOMAN IS HELD FOR FORGERY

Mrs. Anna Margolis, 23, of Chambers st., West End, mother of two children and wife of a Boston attorney, was arrested today for forgery as she left the Forest Hills Hospital following an appendicitis operation.

The arrest was made by Inspector John A. Dorsey on a warrant charging Mrs. Margolis with the larceny of $3,921.94 from the Epstein Drug Co., Scollay sq., where she was employed four years as a bookkeeper.

According to Inspector Dorsey, she raised checks and cashed them over a period extending from Jan. 1 to Aug. 1 of this year, and the total may amount to $8500.

So weak was Mrs. Margolis when she arrived at municipal court that in order to eliminate delay she was arraigned in the traffic session before Judge Francis J. Good.

She pleaded not guilty and was held in $2000 for a hearing on Sept. 19.

Weymouth Baby Falls 20 Feet

Falling headlong 20 feet from the piazza of his home into a lilac bush, Robert E. Goforth, Jr., 4, of 15 Grant st., East Weymouth, was injured yesterday when a branch of the bush pierced his neck, narrowly missing the jugular vein.

ONLY PRAYERS LEFT FOR BOY LONG DEAD

Claudette, Once Milliner to Elite, Guest of American in Visit to Grave

By FRANCES L. BAIRD

Mme. Marie Louise Mieusset visited the grave of her son in Forest Hills Cemetery today.

Behind that simple fact lies a story of a mother's love that has endured for nearly half a century.

Dedicated to that love is a white marble statue of her little boy, enclosed in glass and bearing the inscription "Ci Repose mon Amour," or "Here Lies my Loved One."

There, too, lies practically all of madame's fortune, which was to have been used to educate the boy.

CATERED TO ELITE

Madame Mieusset, once known as Claudette, creator of distinctive millinery modes of Boston's elite, was the guest of the Boston Evening American and the Catholic Charitable Bureau.

When offers of automobiles for the use of feeble old ladies poured into this newspaper office following the appeal for a ride, an extra car was chosen for Madame Mieusset, now 78 and very feeble. Joseph Forest of Louis ave., Arlington, provided his car.

Madame now is alone in the world without friends save the social workers who knew of the sacrifice she has made since she catered to the elite of Boston in her fashionable shop in Copley sq., opposite the Copley Plaza.

BUST IN MUSEUM

At one time she made annual trips to Paris to buy millinery materials. Today her only trips are to the corner store for the necessities of life.

During the trip to the cemetery Madame talked of her lost child.

"I had a marble bust made of my darling," she declared. "You may see it in the Children's Museum, where I placed it for safe keeping three years ago. I called my boy 'Loulou' because that sounds softer than Louis."

As the car swept into the cemetery Madame Mieusset proudly declared that her happiest thought is that she will rest there too, "on the right hand side of my darling's grave."

GRAVE A SHOW PLACE

"There is a statue of my boy at his grave," she explained. "You will soon see it. They have special guards at it every Memorial Day to keep crowds from breaking the glass."

Her companions expected to see a modest grave, perhaps surmounted by a tiny figure, but when Madame excitedly cried "stop opposite a

THIS COSTLY BIT OF STATUARY is dedicated to her son, who died 45 years ago, by Madame Marie Louise Mieusset. It is a likeness of her boy, Louis, and is encased in glass at the Forest Hills Cemetery. Madame Mieusset, who spent her fortune in the boy's memory and is now almost penniless, has made plans to be buried beside the boy.

Crowley's the Big Sneeze as Hay Fever Time Opens

With a whooping sneeze that reverberated through police headquarters Superintendent Michael H. Crowley informally opened the hay fever season today.

Startled officers and clerks bent at their tasks [illegible] from their chairs, but a succession of "Achoos" followed by a glance at the calendar reassured them.

"The super is sneezing very well this year," one of the old-timers remarked, somewhat proudly.

Another [illegible] salvo of sneezes went booming through the corridors of the building [illegible] and [illegible] trucks [illegible].

Fred Dean, stalwart traffic officer on the Stuart Berkeley sts. crossing reported he jumped in alarm and drew his gun thinking a bomb had exploded, but a moment's thought caused him to restore the weapon in [illegible] fashion.

Having just returned from a vacation [illegible] Supt. [illegible] and [illegible] were [illegible] from him.

2 ARRESTED IN 'FAKE' HOLDUP

Dan J. Cosgrove, manager of a [illegible] store at 187 Washington st., South End, who yesterday reported he was held up and robbed of [illegible] by a bandit who also took a [illegible], today confessed the holdup was [illegible], according to police.

Cosgrove and John Carney of [illegible] st., South End, who Cosgrove said [illegible] him into a back room as part of the frame-up, were arrested and charged with conspiracy to [illegible].

The Cosgrove [illegible] confession followed a twelve-hour grilling by Capt. [illegible] M. A[illegible] of [illegible] Station, Officers William J. O'Connell and Francis Mc[illegible].

According to police, Cosgrove, who lives in [illegible] st., South Boston, confessed he had taken $830 from the store safe on Wednesday [illegible].

Police say they recovered $15 from Cosgrove's room and $16 from Carney's.

In Municipal court Cosgrove and Carney were each held in $1500 by Judge Elijah Adlow for a hearing on Sept. 4.

Capt. Ford Guest of Airmen

Army pilots gave a farewell dinner in the Hotel Victoria last night in honor of Capt. Christopher W. Ford, for five years commanding officer of the army air base at East Boston, and Lieut. George R. Geer, both of whom have been transferred to San Antonio, Texas.

SOME TROOPS SAID TO BE IN NEED OF MORE MEN

Changes Become Effective on Next Tuesday to Balance Barracks Forces

In one of the most drastic shakeups in years a dozen officers of the Massachusetts State constabulary have been shifted to new barracks. The transfers go into effect Tuesday morning, September 2.

Capt. Charles T. Beaupre, commanding officer of the State police, is on his vacation, but it was announced at the State House that no particular significance is attached to the transfers. The shifts were ordered [illegible] the different [illegible] barracks have more men than others, it was explained.

It is planned to have about 10 men at each barracks, with four doing traffic work on [illegible].

CORPORALS SHIFTED

One of the most important transfers was that of Corp. Raymond L. Foley of the Concord barracks to the Topsfield barracks. Corp. J. J. [illegible], who has been in charge of the Topsfield barracks, has been transferred to Concord.

All the men transferred have unblemished records. Patrolman Rowland Chamberlain of the Topsfield barracks, who goes to the Wrentham barracks, is considered one of the most able men in the force. He has been active in running down [illegible].

THREE FROM FRAMINGHAM

The others are as follows:

Patrolman A. B. Ford from Framingham to Topsfield, Patrolman Reginald Hallstrom from Framingham to Concord, Patrolman Justin McCartney from Framingham to Concord, Patrolman Joseph Hourihan from Reading to Wrentham, Patrolman R. C. Aleckna from Topsfield to Reading, Patrolman J. J. Regan from Concord to Reading, Patrolman Robert F. Stephenson from Concord to Wrentham, Patrolman C. H. Thomas from Reading to Topsfield, Patrolman D. L. Jacobs from Wrentham to Topsfield.

LOWER REVERE TAX RATE

A reduction in the Revere tax rate of 60 cents, bringing the rate to $37.50, was announced by Mayor Andrew A. Casassa and the board of assessors yesterday. This is the lowest rate since 192[illegible], at which time Revere property was assessed at $48.50, making a total reduction in the past six years of $11.

Revere's assessed valuation is fixed at $41,948,000, an increase over last year of $[illegible].

Four Face Court as Clam Diggers

Four Revere men are to appear in Chelsea District Court this morning as a result of a raid on a group of alleged clam diggers on the mud flats below Orient Heights.

The four men gave their names as Frank Ba[illegible], 29, of Shurtleff ave.; Peter Novelli, 29, of Revere st.; Albert Russo, 24, of Lowell st., and James Giovanni, 21, of Bay rd. They are said to have been digging clams in contaminated waters.

$100 Weekly for News Tips

Do you want to get money for being alert? If so, the Boston American offers the opportunity. Every week $100 in prizes will be given for news tips telephoned in to the News-Tip Editor, at Liberty 4000.

And what is a news tip? It's the information that something of interest to Greater Bostonians has taken place or will take place. Do you know, for instance, that an interesting picture is to be obtained, that an accident has happened, that there is going to be a business merger? That's a news tip.

There will be $25 given weekly for the best, first exclusive news tip received, $15 for the next best, $10 for the next best and $2 prizes for each of the 25 next most valuable tips. Anyone who is alive and alert can win.

"Somebody's mother," killed by an automobile at Washington and [illegible] and sts., when confused by the new traffic signals, was identified today as Mrs Evelyle O'Brien, 69, of 34 Ash st., South End.

Identification was made through the Boston Evening American by her son, Walter O'Brien, of 50 Chestnut st., Lowell, at the Southern mortuary.

O'Brien told Medical Examiner Leary he had not heard from his mother in some time, so when a friend told of reading the story of "Somebody's Mother" in the American, he hurried to Boston.

At the time she was killed, Mrs. O'Brien had in her purse a commutation ticket for Lowell which had expired Aug. 19.

JOYCE IN FIERY ATTACK ON BUTLER

Calls Senate Aspirant's Attitude to Labor Hostile; Scores His Dry Stand

In an appeal to the organized wage earners of the state, William M. Butler, candidate for the G. O. P. nomination for U. S. senator, was denounced today as an enemy to labor by Martin T. Joyce, secretary-treasurer of the Massachusetts State Federation of Labor.

Joyce cited the hostile record of Butler as "prohibitionist, employer, senator, lobbyist and legislator" in a [illegible] pamphlet which is being widely distributed.

"Butler, in 1928 and other years, tried to have the Legislature repeal the protective legislation which permits our women and children to be in their homes at night instead of in the mills," one accusation reads.

CITE BUTLER'S VOTES

An[illegible] read:

"Butler has tried for several years to prevail upon the Legislature to repeal the 48-hour work week for women and children. This legislation was approved by and signed by Calvin Coolidge when he was Governor of Massachusetts. Butler, after having failed to prevail upon the Legislature to repeal this protective legislation, now claims that he will work for a constitutional amendment placing all workers in all States on a 48-hour work week basis."

"Is he sincere?" Joyce comments.

No less than 23 distinct anti-labor votes of Butler as Legislator and Senator are cited in the circular. Among these is his vote against the postal employes' wage increase.

HIS DRY STAND

On the prohibition question, labor being recorded in convention for a change from the Eighteenth Amendment, Joyse said:

"Butler, who does not claim that he abstains from the use of intoxicating liquors, professes to believe that the present system of 'terrorized bootlegging' and 'speakeasies' is mere beneficial than the modification of the Volstead act. Otherwise he would not seek either the nomination or the election pledged to the retention of the Volstead act."

Continuing the circular re[illegible]

"Butler realizes, as we all do, that the open saloon will not be tolerated by the American people. Still, Butler knows there are thousands of concealed (?) 'speakeasies' operating throughout the State, demoralizing our youth and filing insane hospitas. This condition he favors as a political prohibitionist.

"Butler speaks of aiding the unemployed and hoping to find a way to provide work for the millions of American workers at present unable to secure employment. Butler knows that the modification or repeal of the Volstead act will mean the employment of 3,500,000 American workers within one year.

"After reading this record how can any worker or those who sympathize with the workers vote for William M. Butlre?"

"I was afraid it would not look like my Loulou," she said, "but it does. I still have the tennis racquet that you see in his hand; he played with it. And, oh, what beautiful French he spoke—my baby only five years old. He loved the boat going over to see his grand pere and he loved his pet rabbit that sits on the foot of his grave."

And then she knelt beside the grave [illegible] the plot where she desires to be buried and offered a prayer for her darling.

"I used to sit here by him every night, dark or moonlight, talking to my little boy for months after he died," she confided, "but they stopped me and then I could only dream of little hands reaching down to me when I was in despair. Oh, he was the light of my life."

Throughout the years she has caned every speck of dust from the snow-white statue of her boy. Dust [illegible] even under [illegible]

What matters life without the love of someone? I have had no one for years now, and my darling would have been 50 if he had lived."

As she crept back into her cheerless room, shared by a black cat, Madame thanked her host over and over for the ride, which included a drive through Franklin Park.

"If the trees were not so young there are places in Franklin Park that would look like the parks at Passy, outside of Paris," she declared, "and the Fenway is beautiful too, now, but not so beautiful as the Bois Boulogne."

They will return on the Bremen, Sept. 18.

Boy Dying in Fall From Street Car

An unidentified boy is dying at Cambridge City Hospital today as the result of injuries received when he fell from the rear of a street car on Cambridge st., Cambridge, yesterday.

According to witnesses, the boy was "hitching" a ride on the rear of the car, which was bound from Lechmere square for Harvard square. He lost his hold and fell to the street near 1260 Cambridge st. The boy, about 9 years old, has red hair. He was wearing blue overalls, a red jersey with stripes and brown sneakers. It is feared his skull is fractured.

THOUSANDS IN HOLIDAY EXODUS TAX RAIL AND SHIP FACILITIES

AMULTITUDE IS ON WAY HOME, TOO

Revere Prepares to Entertain Million if Weather Is Fair; Police Warn Autoists

By motor highway, rail, water and air the exodus of many thousands from Boston for the Labor Day week-end began today, and railroad, steamship lines, bus companies and air transport organizations were prepared for record-breaking travel.

The Weather Bureau promised the probability of generally fair weather.

Showers were predicted for tonight but the nearest real storm area is over Missouri and will not touch Boston, unless its present course changes, the forecaster said.

It is likely to be warm but not as hot as last year when 94 was recorded on Labor Day. The mercury passed 83 this afternoon.

While throngs were beginning the annual holiday trek to seashore, mountains and country, other thousands, including more than 20,000 boy and girl campers were packing up for the summer-end trip home.

WORK BOTH WAYS

The transportation companies were faced with the necessity of providing accommodations for the flow of travel Boston-ward, beginning tomorrow morning and lasting until Monday night, while also taking care of the "week-enders" who go and return between today and Monday.

Extra trains and longer trains are being run on all the railroads beginning today and the steamship companies report a [illegible] complete [illegible] reservations in advance covering the entire holiday period.

The airplane companies will run their transport planes in several "sections" both in and out of Boston, and between here and New York, Albany, Cape Cod fields and other points.

Hundreds of motor buses will be rolling over New England roads, and State police expect an unusually heavy flow of private cars.

The Boston & Maine Railroad reported that 18,000 boys and girls from summer camps would be carried on its lines between now and Monday night, judging from reservations.

WAITING IS NO GOOD

The New Haven Railroad will run 43 cars, in several sections, on the Cape Codder. Bus lines will run a total of 103 extras.

"Start home early" was the advice of State police officials, who foresee congested roads leading toward Boston Monday afternoon and evening. The usual hundreds will wait until early Tuesday, with the expectation of coasting home unhindered by traffic, but officials report this practice is increasing so greatly in favor that it is no longer of much advantage to wait.

Strict watch will be kept on all roads for speeders and other violators of the motor laws, special orders, in addition to the usual Labor Day instructions, having gone out because of the epidemic of accidents, several of them fatal, during the last few days.

REVERE AWAITS MILLION

With fair weather, no less than 1,000,000 persons are expected at Revere during the three days, and the same number are likely to visit Nantasket under good weather conditions.

Demand for sleeping car accommodations has taxed the facilities of the Boston & Maine. Regular holiday excursion trains to Montreal are being run, together with excursions to Old Orchard and from up-country points to Revere Beach.

The Boston & Albany ran two of its westbound trains today in sections, with extra cars for Cincinnati, Buffalo, Detroit, Chicago and St. Louis. This road will also carry a large number of campers coming home from the Berkshires.

Besides bringing throngs from the Cape to homes in Boston, the New Haven is transferring thousands of others from Cape Cod points to New York and the West.

A number of planes have been chartered by individuals and groups to provide transportation home unbothered by congested rail and water lines and auto roads.

Police Motorcycle Crashes Roxbury Store Window

CYCLE OFFICER HITS WINDOW

Motorcycle Officer Edward A McDonald of the Dudley st. station, escaped injury today in an unusual accident at Blue Hill ave., and Julian st., Roxbury, when his motorcycle crashed into the plate glass window of a chain grocery store.

A defective carburetor was blamed by the officer for the crash.

Aged Couple Burned in Cambridge Fire

An elderly couple were severely burned by fire yesterday when the dress of Mrs. Mary H. Hunnefeldt, 79, of 91 Amory st., Roxbury, was ignited by some papers she was burning in the kitchen stove of her house.

The cotton dress burst into flames and the woman ran screaming to her husband, Henry Hunnefeldt, 82, who was sitting in another room in the house. The husband received serious burns on his hands and arms while he was extinguishing his wife's clothing.

PAGE & SHAW TO DELAY FILING

Filing of the schedules in bankruptcy by officials of the Page & Shaw, Inc., candy manufacturers with the clerk of the U. S. Court, which was expected today has been deferred until Sept. 9, it was announced by Atty. Bartholomew A. Brickley, Federal receiver.

When a voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed by Page & Shaw, Inc. last week, it was said the liabilities will exceed $300,000, assets $200,000. It has since been learned the liabilities will be much higher.

The petition was filed in accordance with a vote of the stockholders headed by Otis Emerson Dunham, with a voting power of 2000 shares, and Henry J. Shaw treasurer, representing 4000 shares of treasury stock, the same being all shares of the corporation capital stock having voting power.

Meetings of representatives of the newer stockholders of the firm, known as class A, were held this week in various parts of the state, as a result of which, it was learned, it was decided to defer the filing of the schedules.

Police Guard for Girls in Labor Row

Police were sent to the Harvard sq. subway last night to prevent representatives of a labor union from annoying a group of employes of M. S. Kondazian & Co. No signs of trouble were seen in the subway station last night but the women were approached earlier in the day.

Blind Man's Dog Guide Disappears

Buddy, constant companion of Vincent Tassinari, of Fort Pond rd., West Acton, is lost, and his blind master is unable to find his way about. Buddy is a white Spitz. The dog strayed August 9 and no trace of him has been found.

BUTLER SCORED BY HOOVER CLUB

[illegible] Hoover Club [illegible] Massachusetts [illegible]

Amos L. [illegible] of a Republican [illegible] the endorsement had no "official standing" and several club members asserted they had been "duped into joining" [illegible].

It was also [illegible] that the president of the club, T. Walter Taylor, is "a paid manager of the Butler forces."

Maj. Roland H. Choate of Milton, a vice-president of the club, in charge of the Draper [illegible] near the Hotel Bellevue, issued the statement:

"The Hoover Club, Inc., has not and never will endorse the candidacy of William M. Butler for that one T. Walter Taylor of 451 Wolcott st., Newton, a paid manager of the Butler forces, whose term expires as president of the club on January 1, without any authorization whatever has attempted to sell out the organization.

"There are many good Republicans who joined this organization in the belief that it would accomplish a worthy purpose. They did not believe they were lending their names to any questionable proceedings. They resent, as I do, this deplorable situation and will promptly either eliminate this Taylor or sever connections with the organization.

"The fact is that no man in the United States did more to try to prevent the nomination of Herbert Hoover than Mr. Butler, then chairman of the Republican national committee. For him to try and trade the name of President Hoover is most distasteful to real friends of the President."

FREAK BIRD DIES IN BATTLE

A fierce struggle with a strange bird ended in the death of the intruder today in a Grove Hall, Dorchester, garage when a flashlight and a broomstick sent it to its doom.

John Cotter of 1 Julian st., Roxbury, night manager of the garage, and Louis Garibaldi of 67 Marion st., Medford, Cotter's helper, were the victors.

The bird attacked Garibaldi when he sought to capture it, and the noise of the struggle brought Cotter to the scene. The two went into a huddle and emerged with the flashlight pointing directly at the bird, blinding it. The broomstick ended the scuffle.

It was a bird of the monkey-owl type and had a wing spread of more than three feet.

WOMAN JUDGE IN GUN CASE

Judge Sarah Soffel, Wellesley graduate and Pennsylvania's first and only woman judge, underwent a baptism of fire in connection with her first case, according to word from Pittsburgh.

After being sworn into office Judge Soffel was to hear a desertion and non-support case, the complaint being brought by Mrs. Clara Palscak, 21, against her husband Steve.

While standing in the court office awaiting trial, Mrs. Palscak took matters into her own hands, and shot her husband, who is expected to die. Judge Soffel was appointed on Aug 4.

Feathered Freak Is Killed in Garage

AN INVASION of a Grove Hall garage by this feathered freak cost the bird its life when it was killed by John Cotter and Louis Garabaldi, workmen at the garage. The bird believed to be of the monkey owl family had a wingspread of three feet. Garabaldi is shown holding the bird killed only after a struggle. (Staff photo.)

FIRE VETERANS AT REQUIEM FOR MEAD

Fox and Sennott of Boston Among Notables to Attend the Rites in Quincy

Many veteran smoke-eaters of Greater Boston and South Shore cities and towns paid honors today to one of their best loved comrades at funeral services for Fire Chief Alfred L. Mead at Quincy.

After [illegible] of [illegible] Quincy, he was [illegible] Cemetery, West Quincy. [illegible]

BOSTON CHIEF [illegible]

Fire [illegible] from surrounding communities manned the Quincy apparatus while the funeral was [illegible] taking stations at the various fire houses under command of a handful of Quincy firemen. All the rest of the Quincy department participated in the funeral [illegible].

Fire Chief Henry A. Fox of Boston and former Chief Daniel Sennott of Boston were among the chiefs who attended the funeral.

FLAGS HALF MAST

Public buildings were draped in mourning and all flags were at half staff. Mayor Thomas J. McGrath [illegible] the honorary [illegible] Chief [illegible] Chief [illegible] of Cambridge, Chief [illegible] of Brookline, former [illegible] Chief Louis K. Fuller of Quincy, State Representative [illegible] of Quincy and M[illegible].

The active bearers were members of the department which Chief Mead commanded for 11 years and of which he was a member for [illegible] years. They were Deputy Chiefs Warner J. Sands and John O'Neil, Capt. Peter Creedon and Lieutenants Edward Henry and Anthony Cain.

Would-Be Robbers Are Held in Bail

Arraigned before Judge Elijah Adlow in Municipal Court on a charge of conspiring to rob the Portland st. store of George D. Wetherell & Co. Inc., the four men forming the gang which was greeted by police posing as store employes were held in heavy bail for a hearing September 3.

Jerry Santoro of Pages ct., North End and Marco L[illegible], 24, of Prince st., were held in $20,000 bail. Spellito Nicoletto, 23, of Albany and Joseph M[illegible], of Hanover st., North End, were held in $2500.

Malden Home Gets $5000 Bequests

Malden Home for Aged Persons will receive the bequest of Mrs. Louise C. Welch, formerly of Malden, who died at Lenox, and left the residue of her estate estimated at about $5000 to the Malden Old Ladies Home.

[illegible] Robinson of Pittsfield decided in favor of the Malden Home for Aged Persons. The Harriet E. Sawyer Home for Aged Women at Malden had contested for the bequest, claiming Mrs. Welch had that institution in mind. A number of Malden people were witnesses at Pittsfield last week.

101st Infantry to Stage Big Reunion

The 101st Infantry's reunion committee at a meeting last night in the YD Club on Huntington ave. voted to hold its first get-together since the World War in the Copley-Plaza Hotel, October 7.

Congressman William P. Connery of Lynn, who served overseas with the 101st, was chosen to serve on the entertainment committee as was Thomas McDevitt of South Boston, organizer of the regiment's shows in France.

Larkin Protests Closing Navy Yard

Mayor Edward H. Larkin of Medford yesterday protested the proposed shutting down of the Charlestown navy yard in telegrams sent to President Hoover and Secretary of the Navy Adams.

The mayor stated that 700 Medford people were employed in the navy yard and that he objected to having them thrown out of work.

12 Stockings Send Him to Reformatory

Alfred Hopkins, alias Alexander Patterson, who gave his address as Bow st., Somerville, was sentenced to the Concord reformatory by Judge Churchill in Dorchester on a charge of larceny of six pairs of stockings from a Fields Corner store. Hopkins was arrested by Special Officer Martin Monahan, station 11.

Will Wed 'Pie' Traynor

THE BUSY PITTSBURGH "PIRATE," "Pie" Traynor, who is making things sad for Chicago right now, will soon marry Miss Eva Helmer of Cincinnati. Traynor, a Somerville sand lotter, met his wife-to-be, at hotel where the Pittsburgh team stays when in Cincinnati. (Staff photo.)

"PIE" TRAYNOR WILL WED

Somerville's "king of the diamond" is to take unto himself a queen.

In other words Harold J. "Pie" Traynor, star third baseman of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is soon to wed. Eva Helmer of Cincinnati, telephone operator at the hotel where the Pittsburgh club stops when there, is the lucky lady.

That information was contained in a special dispatch which came over the wires a few days ago.

Drop of 3000 in Cambridge Voters

The number of Cambridge citizens eligible to vote at the primaries this fall is 38,075, or 3000 less than the figure for last year, it was stated by the board of election commissioners.

During the registration period, July 10 to Aug. 27, only 1341 people came to have their names placed on the voting lists.

VACATION ENDS IN TRAGEDY

The home [illegible] of the seven children of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cooper of [illegible] st., Roxbury, from a vacation was turned to tragedy today when their three-year-old brother John fell 30 feet from a rear piazza to the yard.

The baby was picked up [illegible] [illegible] the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, where [illegible] serious.

A PERSONALITY on the screen that continues to be fascinating is Kay Francis. A year ago when she came to Hollywood there was nothing about her to [illegible] that she would rise from the status of a heavy to that of a leading woman. Today she is in demand for dozens of pictures. She does not play the goody, goody heroine whose life is an open book, but she does always play a character in whom there is [illegible] who is worldly [illegible] Miss Francis will play opposite George Bancroft in his next, a new paper story. MET FEATURE IS 'LET'S GO NATIVE'

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

[illegible] of "the Lane [illegible] doesn't make very much difference really [illegible] where the [illegible] small army of Paramount actors settle down for a brief spell to make whoopee. As a story it's rather a crazy [illegible] pattern as a satire, it ought [illegible] the singing stars off the screen. And everybody in "Let's Go Native" seems to [illegible] better for the general satiric purpose.

Let's Go Native is the Metropolitan's feature picture for the new week. It has a lot of laughs and some [illegible] a madcap movie. [illegible] you are not asked to believe anything [illegible]

In the [illegible] the featured players are [illegible] of Jack Oakie and Jeanette MacDonald, the former is O. K. O. K., while the latter is very sweet, and sings well. But it is William Austin who does the best work out of the whole list; the director permits him to break loose so that he puts across the best comedy he has in him. He has great merit and probably his film will clear the way for better parts for him in the future.

The Metropolitan has its usual good stage show. "Hello Paree" is the title; it bears the good Boris Petroff branding.

HUB STARS AT KEITH-ALBEE TOMORROW

Dispensing the latest song hits in their inimitable voices to the accompaniment of a pair of softly muted ukes, Max Zides and Tom Currier, better known as Hum and Strum of radio fame, will return to Boston, their home town, after an extended vaudeville tour. They are to be seen and heard in person tomorrow at the Keith-Albee as one of the headline attractions.

Max Zides

Both of these boys were born in Boston, one in the Dorchester section, the other in the South End. While they were classmates in the High School of Commerce, and each participated in athletics and other school activities, it was not until an accidental meeting in a radio station five years after graduation, that they each discovered the other was interested in things musical.

At that time, Max Zides, who is the "Hum" part of the popular team, enjoyed a small reputation in radio circles of being a pleasing entertainer with a nice voice and a knack of enticing unusual chords from a uke, but it wasn't until Tom joined in with Max in a little harmony of his own while they were waiting around, that unusual possibilities were recognized in the combination.

Beacon to Show Two First Run Features

Starting tomorrow, the Publix Beacon will inaugurate a new policy of two first run features, with a new show every Saturday. The attractions for the opening will be "Cheer Up and Smile," a talking and singing Fox Movietone radio romance, and "Temple Tower," a thrilling mystery tale of a great jewel robbery and its consequences.

HUNT A HOME AND LAND A YARN

We were out [illegible] apartments this morning. We didn't find a place to [illegible] our Lares and Penates. But we landed a yarn. Aye [illegible].

Tired [illegible] climbing mountainous stairs, asking and being [illegible] questions we sought the solace and restfulness of the sea.

"Drive out along the shore Tom," we begged. "Perhaps a whiff of the salt air will do us both good." We rolled out along Revere Beach.

"There's something about this place," remarked Tom, as he brought the car to a stop, "that is mighty familiar. I can't seem to shake the feeling. Memory is nudging me in the ribs and trying to wake me up."

Tom's eyes rolled over the scene for a few seconds and then, sudden recognition lighting his orbs, he exclaimed:

"Say, do you know we're sitting within a couple of hundred feet from where Jack McAuliffe of Greenpoint and Jem Carney of England fought a 74-round draw for the lightweight championship?"

"Yep, as sure as you're born! Let's see; the old hotel stood over there. The old barn was right back of it. It was in the old barn that McAuliffe and Carney fought for the world's title.

WEIRD RING SETTING

"In the wee sma' hours o' a bitter cold morning. Ye gods, it all comes back to me now. It seems but yesterday. But it was so many years ago I am ashamed to tell. I see the old scene all over again. The rough, barn floor littered with chaff. The kerosene lanterns cast an eerie glare. The horses whinnying in the stalls feel the subdued excitement in the air. We knot some halters together, tackle them to stall posts and stanchions and make a ring. There inside that crude ring, in almost a biblical setting, for our Saviour himself was born in a stable, and in the weird light of the lanterns, McAuliffe and Carney, stripped to the buff, fought on and on with the skin-tight gloves fought on and on until dawn started to gray the dusk outside, and the gang of Brooklyn toughs, who had accompanied Jack, pulled down the ring ropes in the 74th round and broke up the fight."

It was getting perilously near edition time. We had to get back into Boston town and to The American offices. On our way in the conversation drifted to the strides and advancement made in boxing, not so much in the technique of the game as in its setting and direction. It is a far cry from the cellars, barns, back rooms, barge decks and secluded dells of the past to the Boston Garden, Braves Field and Fenway Park of the present.

"I saw another great fight up here in the old days," remarked Tom. "It was between the greatest fighter of his ounces and inches I ever saw, or hoped to see, George Dixon, Little Chocolate, and a worthy foeman, Cal McCarthy."

"Where did it take place?" we queried, just to egg old Tom on.

IS IT STILL THERE?

"Over the bank opposite the Cathedral on Washington st.," answered the white-haired veteran. "Before I leave Boston we'll go down on Washington st. and see if the old bank and the old church are still there.

"The Dixon-McCarthy go like the McAuliffe-Carney mill," explained Tom, "was a private one. All the fights in those days had to be on the quiet.

"All the sporting editors of the local papers, with the exception of The Record had been tipped off. That paper then was an anti-sport sheet which had been carrying on a crusade against prize fighting.

Before the fight started however a face appeared at one of the windows. Who was it but the reporter from The Record.

The fellow somehow or other had got to the roof of the building next to the bank and then climbed up a galvanized iron conductor that led to the roof.

"'Throw him out! Throw him out!' some of the crowd yelled when the reporter was recognized.

"'Throwing him out,' meant dropping of at least one story and perhaps three. We were on the third floor of the old bank building you must remember.

NO HOLD WAS BARRED

"I jumped to the window and opened it. Grasping the reporter by the scruff of the neck I yanked him into the room querying:

"'What are you trying to do, kill yourself?'

"'No, I want to live a long while yet,' he coolly replied. 'I just want to see the fight.'

"'Well, anyone who wants to see a fight as badly as you have shown you want to,' I answered, 'deserves a ringside seat.' The rest of the gang agreed with me. We set two fellows to watch the reporter to see that he didn't get out and tipoff the police before the fight was over.

"The Dixon-McCarthy duel was one of the fastest and fiercest in ring history. They went seventy rounds with the two-ounce gloves. It was after midnight when the fight started. Dawn was roseying the rooftops when the police official who had given us the unwritten permit to stage the mill told us we would have to stop and pull out pronto.

"The boys had agreed to a finish," concluded Tom. "When the cops stopped it there was nothing for Referee Al Smith—Al Smith, a New York gambler and sporting man, not the Al Smith of New York, who should have been elected President a couple of years ago, and may be a couple of years hence, to do, but call the fight a draw."

Seventy rounds. Seventy rounds with the two-ounce gloves. And if a boxer goes fifteen rounds these days he thinks he is doing a Marathon. Truly fighters had the bark on in those days.

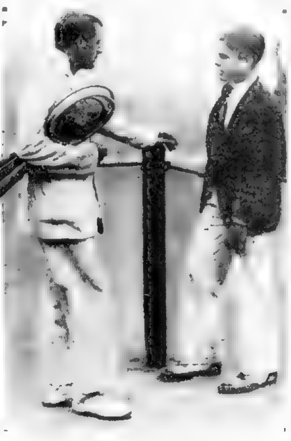
North Adams, Aug. [illegible]—Tony Shucco of Boston won the decision over Tut Jackson of Jersey City, in the main bout of 10 rounds at the Meadow Brook arena here last night.

STRAINED FACES CHANGE TO SMILES OFF THE COURTS

MR. AND MRS. WILMER ALLISON of Austin, Tex. Here's Wilmer Allison, finalist with John Van Ryn in the national doubles tomorrow, chatting with his charming wife after conquering Berkeley Bell and Gregory Mangin in the semi-final match. Mrs. Allison plays little tennis but is always in the stands, rooting for her hubby.

LIKE THE KING OF SWAT the Queen carries three "bats." Miss Betty Nuthall, pretty English girl who took over Helen Wills Moody's American tennis title when Helen vacated it, is also looking a good deal relieved after she and her partner, Helen Harlowe, just behind her, had nosed out a hard match with Miss Morrill and Miss Cross.



THE GRIM DETERMINED LOOK is gone as Bill Tilden, the king of the courts, passes pleasantries with Ralph Pope, one of Bill's latest proteges and one of the finest young prospects in the net game. A few moments before this picture was snapped Bill was growling in the battle with Lott and Doeg. But it's all over and Bill is smiling now.

Notes of the Sandlots

Hub Twilight League fans are warming up to the second half race, which is fast drawing to the closing line, Sunday, with four teams still in the fight for the flag.

R[illegible] leading Allston team tonight at Paul Revere Park. Allston is fighting desperately for the title and will have to go some to beat Revere for Frasier is due to pitch for the latter team.

Frasier is Revere's ace-in-the-hole for just such important games as this. Though he has been on the team's playing list all season he seldom works unless the team is hard pressed for victory.

Allston will use big Eddie Mannix who has been a hoodoo to Revere during the second half Hub Twi scramble.

Somerville and Newton Upper Falls the latter team winners of the first half [illegible] Falls. Both Somerville and Newton are within striking distance of the top.

St. Augustines will play their final home game of the season in South Boston with Jamaica Plain.

The Shawmut S. & A. Club is looking for a Sunday game. Any [illegible] pro team that desires a good attraction can [illegible] Christoforo, Charlestown 2338-M after 9 o'clock at night or write to 11 Summer st., Charlestown.

The Mahoney Club of Roxbury will meet the Everett City Club at Shirley st. tonight. Jock McGonigle who defeated the Philadelphia Colored Giants, will toil on the mound for Everett. Everett City Club is also trying to book a game for Sunday away from home and a Labor Day game at home. Get in touch with Vincent O'Leary at Everett 1020 between 6 30 and 8 P. M.

Tomorrow afternoon the Geneva Pals will tackle the strong Mayor Rock Club of Dorchester at Dorchester. The Pals will have Joe Sluzas, former B. C. high boy, and Miffs Guarino in their lineup. Guarino used to aid Gus Sonnenberg in flying tackles at Dartmouth and is playing with the Pals as a "guest artist."

Penn-Ohio State to Clash on Grid

[illegible] the first time in football history Pennsylvania and Ohio State are to meet in football.

A two-game home and home series was announced today by Sydney E. Hutchinson, chairman of the Red and Blue Council of Athletics which calls for the first game at Franklin Field here, Nov. 12, 1932 and the second at Columbus on Nov. 11, 1933. This follows out Penn's new policy of arranging as many intersectional contests as possible.

For the past few years Penn and Ohio State have been meeting in intersectional basketball games, and baseball was started last spring.

BABE HUNT IN HUB WORKOUT

By RINGSIDE

Babe Hunt, who likes to be referred to as "The Big Gusher from Oklahoma," was to train at Kelley & Hayes' Gym on Hanover st. this afternoon for his ten-round bout with Ernie Schaaf which will be staged by the Argonne A. A. at Fenway Park on Tuesday night.

Hunt did his preliminary work at Atlantic City. He was a member of Primo Carnera's staff and gave the giant Italian his hardest workouts.

Hunt will scale close to 198 pounds for his meeting with Schaaf.

It will be Babe's third Boston appearance. He knocked out Paul Pantaleo and outpunched James J. Braddock.

Tom Kirby of Roxbury has joined Schaaf's staff of sparring partners. Phil Schlossberg is confident Kirby will speed Schaaf up. Rocky King and Tiger Thompson are also working with Schaaf.

Duxbury Ladies Finish Yacht Series

Duxbury, Aug. 29—The ladies Duck fleet sailed the last race of their series here in a light east wind. Peggy Mowry skippered the Eagle to victory. The Eagle was well ahead at the windward. Peggy Farnsworth's Shoal Duck, finishing third held her high average and won the series, while the Eagle's first gave her second cup.

What the Stars Did

By the Associated Press.

High, Cardinals—His single in 20th inning scored run that beat Cubs.

Lisenbee, Red Sox—Held Athletics to six hits and beat them, 2 to 1.

Ferrell, Indians—Won 23d victory of season, beating White Sox, 10 to 5.

Longwood Lines

It was learned yesterday that Rogers, the Irish entry in the national doubles, is not only the longest Davis Cup player in the world, being six feet six inches in height, but also has the longest name in the tournament. His closest friends call him George Erskine Gumbleton Littleton Rogers.

An autograph hunter, and there are just as many in tennis as in any other sport, made the discovery when he had Rogers sign a tennis ball, and the giant son of Erin scribbled his complete moniker on it. There wasn't room for any other.

Rogers will enter the national singles at Forest Hills next week. He has been troubled with a strained wrist, but states that he feels he has fully recovered the use of his arm. He'll be a real foreign threat for the national title.

Bill Tilden refuses to go down to defeat without a hard battle, be it on the courts or with the referee. Yesterday he put up a protest about a ball, claiming that it was damaged and that Lott shouldn't have served it to him.

Tilden held up the match for [illegible] minutes for this [illegible] [illegible] don't take offense [illegible]

Lott again showed the [illegible] accuracy of his throw [illegible] he exhibited when [illegible] of the Chicago University baseball team, by tossing the disputed ball from the court right into the hands of Referee Richard Bishop, in the referee's stand on the top of the Sheafe Memorial Bowl.

The Edith Cross-Wilmer Allison vs. Dorothy Workman-Jack Tidball mixed doubles engagement had to be called on account of darkness. The teams were tied at 13 games all in the third set and there was no sign of either team breaking. So Referee Bishop put a stop to it and scheduled the entire match replayed today.

Mound Star of Cubs Hurt: Team Boss Confident Yet

Chicago, Aug. 29 (US)—Charley Root, one of the big four of Joe McCarthy's Cub pitching staff, will be lost to the club for at least 10 days and perhaps for the remainder of the season as a result of a sprained muscle in his flinging arm.

Root suffered the injury in the first inning of yesterday's game with the Pirates. His pitching at a future date ought not to be impaired but his absence at the present is a heavy blow to the champions.

"We've been socked right and left by injuries and misfortunes all season, but we'll pull through and beat them yet," McCarthy declared tonight.

"It certainly is fortunate that we have Teachout to fall back on and have just acquired Petty. It also means that other members of the pitching staff will have to shoulder an extra burden but they can, and are more than willing to pitch their heads off."

Mighty Mite of Yale Set for Great Grid Season

New Haven, Aug. 29 (US)—Albie Booth, Yale football sensation of last year, will report for the Yale squad about September 15, it was learned today. Albie has taken off several pounds of the excess weight which he has been carrying since spring and will weigh in at about his usual playing weight.

The speedy rescue merchant insists that he will have more than his old springtime ability when Yale meets old enemies on the gridiron this fall.

Although Albie was difficult to catch once he slipped loose last year, and experts said he had everything a back of his type needed, Albie has been working to improve his change of pace and footwork.

The small Yale flash has the benefit of last year's experience, too, and this should help make him even more dangerous on the gridiron than he was in 1929.

NEW GOLF STARS RISE IN GREAT HEARST TITLE PLAY AT WOLLASTON

FUTURE STARS BATTLED AT WOLLASTON

By BILL GRIMES

Major honors in the second William Randolph Hearst Junior championship of New England were awarded to two Wollaston boys yesterday, when Leon K. "Bunny" Emerson defeated John Quinn to win the title and Robert G. Hopkins captured the four-cornered playoff for the qualifying round medal.

Oddly, Emerson and Hopkins are not only members of the same club but they are also schoolmates at [illegible] next [illegible] and inseparable [illegible].

Bill Grimes

The second Hearst [illegible] of New England [illegible] the [illegible]. [illegible] 471 entries were received from junior [illegible] throughout New England by the Boston Evening American, only 458 were accepted and of these 407 played the qualifying [illegible] Wollaston [illegible] Club [illegible] one course [illegible] water mark [illegible].

Although [illegible] "[illegible]sters" weathered the [illegible]tions, after the first round the field was exceptionally fast. An idea of the calibre of juniors who competed in the second Hearst can [illegible] from the qualifying figures. 82 When it requires an 82 to be within the first 32, [illegible] question as to the ability [illegible]ants.

Bobby Hopkins, [illegible] Gene Dolan and Sam [illegible] were tied with 76s a [illegible] qualifying round [illegible] by the [illegible] three rounds of match play. In the playoff for the medal yesterday Bobby Hopkins staged a [illegible] [illegible] tips in golf.

Emerson Had Easy Time in Three Matches

Leon Emerson and Johnny Quinn went through to the finals. Emerson did not [illegible] in three of his five matches. He opened up with a win over Dick [illegible] but he was forced to bear down to eliminate Arthur V Rogers jr., a 14-year-old boy from Scituate.

Then Gerard W. Moore, Woodland, threatened to make serious trouble for Wo[illegible] quarter finals [illegible] 17 [illegible]

Johnny Quinn faced and defeated three fine golfers before he went out at the hands of Leon Emerson. "Yama" began his dash to his first championship finals with a win over Stanley Neptune, South Shore and for the next three rounds he met golfers of marked ability starting with Paul McGrade who was only able to hold on for 14 holes against the Brookline boy.

Next came Johnny Barbour, a boy who will be heard from in the near future. Quinn and Barbour battled for 18 holes and the former was obliged to put on a two birdie finish to win by a one hole margin. The ease with which Quinn downed John Brown, runnerup in the Maine amateur championship, boosted his stock to such an extent that he was a slight favorite over Emerson at the start of the finals.

Steadiness Won Crown for Emerson

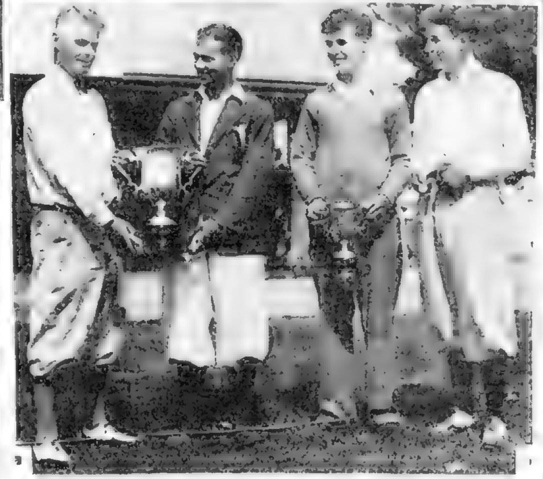
Emerson's steadiness was responsible for his victory. He did not play as well as usual but he always had just enough in reserve to check Quinn's few serious threats. Quinn was very nervous. He was unable to get his shots rolling off his clubs as they had during the previous matches.

This was true of his woods as well as his iron but the latter weapons were especially sour.

Despite the fact that more than 400 boys played Wollaston during the qualifying round, there was scarcely a mark on the course. The Wollaston members and Dennis Crowley, the greenkeeper, had nothing but the highest praise for the conduct of the contestants. Every divot was replaced and all exercised rare caution in taking practise swings so as not to tear up the turf.

The Boston Evening American wishes to take this occasion to thank the members of the Wollaston Golf Club for extending the privileges of their course to the juniors and for their whole heart and cordial co-operation during the championship. Appreciating the heavy daily play at Wollaston, the Boston Evening American fully realizes the great sacrifice made by its members when the course was turned over for the qualifying round.

HOPKINS COMES THROUGH. Scene above shows Bobby Hopkins, winner of the medal in the Hearst Junior Golf Championship at the Wollaston Golf Club, picking his ball out of the cup at the 18th green after sinking his final putt in the 18-hole four-cornered playoff of the qualifying round tie. Hopkins scored an 81 to win the medal. He is a pal of Leon Emerson, who won the Hearst Junior Golf Championship.



Bill Grimes Leon Emerson John Quinn Bobby Hopkins

EMERSON CROWNED CHAMPION. Bill Grimes, widely known golf authority and golf expert of the Boston Evening American, is shown presenting the cup emblamatic of the William Randolph Hearst Junior Golf Championship of New England to Leon K. Emerson of Wollaston. Johnny Quinn, Chestnut Hill, who was beaten by Emerson in the final round, holds the runnerup prize. Bobby Hopkins of Wollaston, medalist of the tournament, is at the right. From the smiles above, everyone seems happy. The tourney was one of the greatest, junior or senior, ever conducted anywhere in this country.

Bad Polo Smashup Fails to Conquer Al Hart

By BILL CONNELL

"My only worry now concerns the date when I'll be able to get back into polo again," said Al T. Hart, noted Boston sportsman, polo star and automobile dealer, today.

Hart, who is chairman of the athletic board of the Boston Athletic Association, was seriously injured last May in an accident during a polo game at the Dedham Polo and Country Club.

Bill Connell

For 29 days Hart lay unconscious in a room at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, hanging between life and death. His name was on the danger list and few of his friends held out hope for his recovery.

It was asserted that never again would he be able to play any strenuous game, even in the event of his regaining health and strength. But, almost a month unconscious and then another month in the hospital, could not break his spirit.

"I knew I would conquer my weakness and come back and play polo again, as soon as I got my bearings," said Hart with a laugh. "If one lets a thing like that accident stop him it only means that one is letting old age or weakness slow him down. And I'm too young to get old, for quite a while yet.

"I'm going to play polo again, and this winter, too."

It is well to give a few details of the unusual accident which sent Hart to the hospital. He was riding down the field, and took a back hand swing at the ball with his polo mallet.

Another player, inexperienced in the game, came from behind, and crashed his horse full on against the rear of Hart's pony, Australia. The latter pony went over, on top of its rider. That was the shock which injured Hart's shoulder and side. From that terrific smash alone he might have recovered soon.

But just as Hart made his swing another player made a forehand drive at the ball. And this player's mallet crashed with terrific force on top of Hart's head. The latter's pony, Australia, sprang to its feet and trotted a few paces away to wait for its owner to mount again, while players and attendants at the club rushed to Hart, who was unconscious on the field.

Polo Star Back at Work Once Again

Then came the long stretch in the hospital and the gradual return to health.

Just a short while back he went to see two of his favorite polo ponies, High Strung and Australia.

They'll be back in action when the indoor polo season opens at the Commonwealth Armory this fall. And Al Hart will be back in the saddle, playing his old hard riding, hard hitting game, after one of the greatest comebacks ever made by anyone in the history of sport.

BACK BRITISH GIRL IN SPEED REGATTA

Detroit, Aug. 29 (AP)—The British delegation here for the Harmsworth regatta appears confident that Miss Marion Barbara (Betty) Carstairs will succeed in wresting from Gar Wood the trophy emblematic of the world's speedboat championship.

During the ten years Wood has held the trophy hard luck has kept the challengers from finishing the race in every case. Wood admits he has been lucky. A piece of driftwood is enough to wreck a hydroplane and challengers have been wrecked by driftwood. But Wood also has shown foresight in having more than one boat in the race, so that if one was disabled another could carry on.

Miss Carstairs is better equipped than any challenger has been. She has two boats designed similarly to Wood's craft and with more powerful engines.

"It is regrettable," she said, "that we do not have Sir Henry Segrave with us to aid in this race with Commodore Wood, but I have full confidence in the British team and confidently look for victory."

Sir Henry Segrave was killed in an accident on Lake Windmere in England, while preparing for the Harmsworth trophy event.

Miss Carstairs said: "We of the British team are grateful for the compliment paid us by Mr. Wood in deeming it necessary to enter a third boat to compete with us."

Wood entered the Miss America V for the race in addition to the Miss America, VIII and IX, which were his first entrants.

Wood's reply to Miss Carstairs was: "We always have longed for competition. Now it looks as though we are going to get it. The British boats are really good ships and may the best team win."

Champion Athletics Don't Look as Strong as in 1929

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

OUTPLAYED BY SOX IN FIRST TILT

By JOE CASHMAN

The champion Philadelphia Athletics don't look as formidable as they did at this time last year.

The lineup of the team is the same, with the sole exception of Homer Summa, who is subbing in the outfield at present for the injured "Mule" Haas, but the many signs of invincibility which the champions displayed last fall are no longer in evidence. Neither are the dash and spirit which featured their work.

Joe Cashman

And few of the players are performing as well at the bat and in the field as they did a year back.

Jimmy Foxx doesn't come close to being the great slugger he used to be and Jimmy Dykes and "Bing" Miller have fallen off with the stick.

The only hurlers Connie Mack seems to have any faith in are Earnshaw and Grove. Quinn, Rommell, Walberg, Mahaffey and Shores, whether it's because they are in poor shape or because the veteran pilot doesn't want to take a chance of losing a single game, rarely start a contest.

The A's aren't weak or anything like that. They are still one of the greatest outfits in the game. But they have been greater.

Lisenbee Humbled Bats of Team's Best Sluggers

In the opener of their current three-game series with the Sox, with Earnshaw pitching, they were blanked by "Hod" Lisenbee for six frames, took the lead by scoring a fluky run in the seventh, allowed the Sox to go in front by one run in their half, and never threatened thereafter.

Last season, the champs were beaten by the Sox now and then, but they were never outplayed in every department or suffered so in comparison with the lowly natives as on this occasion.

With a lead of 8½ games the A's don't have to worry much about winning the pennant and they ought to be able to repeat their triumph over the crippled Chicago Cubs in the World Series, but they will have to improve considerably if they are to rule the baseball universe for years to come, something they appeared certain to do at the close of last season.

Our Red Sox, incidentally, would be far more successful if they showed the fighting spirit they displayed against the Macks a little more often.

Though they outclassed the visitors and deserved to score a shutout victory, they wouldn't have won if they hadn't outfought the enemy as well.

The winning run scored because Charlie Berry hit Jimmy Foxx like he used to hit gridiron opponents when he was all-American end at Lafayette a few years back and caused the hostile first-sacker to drop the ball.

And just before that, with an enemy on third and nobody out, the Wagners pulled themselves together and held the runner away from the plate while they retired the next three batters.

AMERICA'S HARD RIDING HORSEMEN PREPARE

BRING ON THE BRITISH. America's princes of polo are ready for the invasion of the English four in an international series to be played next month. A spirited bit of action by two teams chosen from members of the United States squad, is shown above. They're putting on the finishing touches at Locust Valley, Long Island. The probable American team is that of Eric Pedley, Tommy Hitchcock, Winston Guest and Earl Hopping. This quartet can play fine polo.

3 AMERICANS IN CYCLING DERBY

The Cycling Derby, considered the greatest of all motor pace racing tests, will take place tomorrow night at Nat Butler's Revere track. Six of the leading motor followers who are at the present time battling for points and leadership in the championship are down to start.

America has three entries in George Chapman, Charles Ja[illegible] and Frank Keenan. Franco Georgetti will carry the colors of Italy. Letournier will represent France and Franz Duelberg will sport the colors of Germany.

In addition to the 62-mile pace race Manager Butler has arranged an exceptionally strong preliminary card. Charles Ritter, who recently beat Charles Hodder, will race Cecil Walker and Avansi Marcinetti in a special sprint match to be decided in three heats.

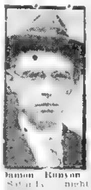
DAMON RUNYON SAYS

By DAMON RUNYON

New York, Aug. 29 (US)—Over in Atlantic City the wheelchair concessionaires have politely requested that Signor Primo Carnera either refrain from appearing on the boardwalk at all, or that he move along spraddle-legged, so that the chairs can pass between his legs, thus maintaining some continuity of traffic.

As it is now, Signor Primo Carnera impedes navigation on the big plank no little. The walk is not wide enough for the chairs to pass around him and they certainly can't roll over him. The only solution is for him either to assume the posture of Colossus of Rhodes or keep off the walk altogether.



Damon Runyon

Signor Primo Carnera is in Atlantic City for the purpose of doing some [illegible] Saturday night against a fellow [illegible] known as Signor Riccardo Bertazzolo, the man with the [illegible] whiskers. Somehow I anticipate much trouble for Signor Riccardo Bertazzolo, but I would hate to miss it. I [illegible] to see those big guys fall.

ABLE MAN IN CHARGE

Signor Carnera and Signor Bertazzola, both as one in the thought that Mussolini is a great man, are appearing for the benefit of a charity conducted by those sprightly Atlantic City newspapers, the Press and the Union. They hold a fistic bazaar every year for the charity. This year the show takes place in the famous Atlantic City Convention Hall, hard by the sad sea waves, which cost $15,000,000, and seats 42,000 persons.

As proof that it is the largest auditorium in the world my operative in Atlantic City informs me that the house may be sold out. It has been scaled quite moderately for this show, and tonight the advance sale had reached $20,000, which argues a gate of at least $40,000.

Herman "Muggsy" Taylor, of Philadelphia, one of the able promoters in the East, is promoting the show with the assistance of the nimble Louie Greenberg, sports editor of the newspapers.

GARDEN MISSED OUT

Taylor at first tried to get Vittorio Campolo, the beanpole of the Argentine, to meet Carnera in this show, and it is my belief that the bout would have drawn $200,000.

Taylor approached representatives of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, which controls Campolo, and offered a guarantee of $25,000 to Campy with a privilege of 17½ per cent of the [illegible]. The Beanpole is taking a lot less to fight Sharkey.

Moreover, Carnera agreed that if he beat Campolo he would fight Sharkey in September, under the auspices of the Garden Corporation, a bout that would have drawn at least $750,000. As the Garden already had Campolo if he won, it sounded like a great business deal for the Eighth ave. concern, especially as the winner of the September fight would have been available for Miami.

If Carnera chanced to beat both Campolo and Sharkey, the Garden couldn't have missed a $500,000 gate with him against Stribling in the winter.

BRITISH FOUR IN FINE FORM

Westbury, N. Y., Aug. 29 (US)—Finally getting into something resembling the form they will be expected to show in the international polo challenge cup series starting a week from Saturday, the British polo players swamped Old Aiken 13 goals to 5 in their third formal test match on Cochran Field at Meadow Brook here.

The English quartet, with Barney Balding, latest recruit to the invading forces, riding at No. 1, gave a remarkably strong exhibition. The team, for a welcome change, played as a unit and presented a strong passing attack.

There were two accidents. Barney Balding was hit with a ball on the temple in the first chukker and toppled out of the saddle. His brother, Gerald, the No. 2, lost his balance and fell from his pony, suffering a cut or two on the thigh. Both players climbed aboard their ponies again after a short rest and continued.

It was announced that the American [illegible] played [illegible] tomorrow with Pete Wa[illegible] [illegible] former player [illegible] the disputed No. [illegible]

Earle A. S. Hopping has been shifted to the second team for the match after seemingly having clinched the position in Wednesday's trial at Piping Rock.

Vernier to Join Columbia Staff

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 28 (AP)—Elmer Vernier, assistant coach at the University of Cincinnati the past three years, will become a member of the Columbia University coaching and physical education department this year, it was announced here today. Vernier coached football, basketball and baseball at the University of Cincinnati.

MR. BOSTON by JACK CONWAY

Jack Murphy of Lynn, Nashua, P[illegible] strolled in to hello Mr. Boston. Jack [illegible] matchmaking, promoting and [illegible]

[illegible]

Jack Conway

"I marvel at your cheerfulness," Mr. Boston said to Murphy. "You do not appear to be upset over the so-called business depression."

"Why should I?" stormed Murphy. "I have been promoting boxing shows in Brockton and have been setting up new box office records.

"I drew $4,000 when Allen and McCarthy first met in Brockton and $3,600 for their second skirmish. That isn't peanut money for New York or Boston, but it's big dough for Brockton. It helps to keep the wolf off my front lawn.

"I have Ring Larsen battling Freddy McGrail at Highland Park on next Thursday night. They will also draw a good gate."

"What is your secret of matchmaking?" pressed Mr. Boston.

"I feature local boys when possible," replied Murphy. "Allen comes from Brockton and has a big following, while McCarthy lives in Roxbury.

"McGrail is a Brockton youth, while Larsen is a product of Quincy and a red hot South Shore favorite.

"I wouldn't give a dime a dozen for out-of-town boxers. They lack the personal following which is necessary if the small town club is to keep out of the red."

Murphy Has Discovered Many a Tank Town

"You have barnstormed in many a spot," chirped Mr. Boston.

"I have traveled," asserted Murphy easily. "One must keep moving to keep up with the American dollar. It leads one a merry race.

"I am always hoping that some day I shall discover a boxer who will become a champion. I guess this thought is what keeps most of us fellows going in the boxing racket.

"We figure every kid we start along the fistic trail has a chance to reach the top. The boxing game pays fortunes to the headliners, but the pickings are rather slim for the boys at the bottom of the ladder. Maybe some day I shall discover a champion. Meanwhile I'll keep grinding away in the small towns.

"If you have an opening, drop down to Brockton next Thursday night. We shall give you a good show."

Failures of Boxing Game Are Numerous

"Much is written," said Mr. Boston, "of the success gained by the headliners of the boxing game. Sport writers dwell at length upon the fortunes made by Tunney, Dempsey, Sharkey and the other bright lights of the ring.

"For every outstanding success there are 1000 failures. Drop around to any of the local gyms any afternoon and take a peek at the hundreds of boys who are training. They are preparing for bouts which pay them from $40 to $150. When they give their manager his cut and pay the expenses of training they have barely enough money left to keep body and soul together.

"Each youngster, however, feels that if given a break he will reach the heights. It is probably just as well they feel this way. If they could see the true picture of their futures, they would lose courage."

Judy Decides It Was No Common Thief That Searched Cabin

CHAPTER 33

THE CABIN had been searched. Every drawer, every box, every piece of baggage had been overturned.

Judy's first thought was [illegible]. They had so little since Peggy had blown [illegible] for this trip. But [illegible] had wanted [illegible] hind who fancied [illegible] dressed up in [illegible]

She went [illegible] the wardrobe, the trunks. She found [illegible] tiful garments her mother had not mentioned [illegible]. But nothing was gone. Peggy's [illegible] passed on from Grandmother Archer, was safe; the [illegible] and black enamel bracelets were safe.

Puzzled and bewildered she put things to rights as she went along. Peggy must not not know of this. Peggy would be upset. It would spoil Peggy's pleasure in their holiday.

Puzzled
Judy Looks Around

There was a little roll of bank notes hidden away under Judy's handkerchiefs. Stupid thing to do, to leave nearly all the money she [illegible]

But the notes were there. A hundred and fifty dollars in tens and twenties.

She sat down to think it over. No common thief had been here. Whoever had searched the cabin had not been looking for ordinary plunder. But what in the world did Peggy or herself possess that any one would want? Who would think they had something worth stealing? Who had come in here?

There were two keys; Peggy had one and the other was in Judy's handbag. The room steward was a mild, conscientious little Frenchman whose big interest in life seemed to be that of keeping them supplied with towels. Furthermore, the steward had plenty of opportunity to go through their belongings in a leisurely manner if he wished; he would not have overturned things, invited suspicion.

It was not the steward. Someone with a deep, urgent purpose had prowled here.

Judy examined the windows. They opened like Pullman windows by releasing bolts at the sides. She remembered they had been left down, but the heavy shutters had been pulled up and fastened securely. She ran her hand along the top of the shutters, felt the sharp edge of splinters, a break on the outer side.

Someone had climbed the roof of the ballroom, elevated above the sun deck and, working under the ledge of the hurricane deck, had forced open the shutter.

But this did not help much. Who had scorned a roll of a hundred and fifty dollars and bits of jewelry [illegible]

[illegible]

Peggy [illegible] she was not as young as she had been.

"You're all right, Judy? I've —sort of—worried about you. Guess I'm beginning to take motherhood seriously after [illegible] these years."

"Don't be a goose. Remember what Mrs. Rowe says if ever you're inclined to turn into an anxious parent. 'No nonsense about Judy Archer.'"

"But that was in Lyall, lamb. A long time ago."

A long time ago! Peggy felt it too, then. You didn't measure time by hours but by what went on in your mind.

Morning was a gray shadow in the room when Judy sleepily answered a soft tap at the door. She peered through a crack at Kit Camp's pleased grin.

"Come on deck, landlubber. Something you mustn't miss."

"Of all the nerve!"

Look, Quebec!
Kit Shows It to Judy

She closed the door, dressed swiftly, found him at his old place in the bow calmly waiting for her.

"It had better be good, whatever it is. Why I always jump to do what you say I can't imagine, Kit Camp."

"Ah, the kitten! Want me to tell you why? Some day I will, some day when the claws are all drawn up in the fur." He caught her hand through his arm, pressing it against his side, gave her his frank, boyish grin.

"Look, Judy—Quebec." He waved at the shore as if he were presenting her with a treasure.

In the early morning gray she saw a city of roofs some sagging as under the weariness of great age, some sagging to sharp little turrets in the Normandy style. Little houses clustering at the base of the stately Chateau, all its colors softened by winds from the four corners of the earth.

A bell tinkled far away. "Now!" Kit exclaimed. "Day comes this way. Listen, Judy—"

Another bell sounded—another and another. The whole world seemed full of silver chimes, the notes blended in a gay flood of sound. Suddenly a deep note reverberated with solemn insistence.

"The Citadel," Kit said.

As if it were a signal hundreds of swallows arose from everywhere and wheeled in a fluttering cloud. High above the cliff, above the turrets, catching the first rays of the sun on their wings. They dashed in headlong flight over the river, over the city settling down only when the bells were stilled.

Judy drew a breath of rapture.

"Wonderful—oh—a living poem! And this happens every day!"

"Every day. Glad I called you now? Well, was it good enough?"

"Oh, Kit! I'm sorry I'm so snappy sometimes. My disposition is all prickly. I'll be good."

"Not too good." He laughed and flung his arm around her. There was nothing of the lover in the gesture, only a carefree youngness, half-teasing, very casual. "You see I like a dash of pepper. Do I recall that there was a hard word or two over our trip to Ste. Anne's?" He went on more seriously, "I'd like to take you, Judy."

Still under the spell of the singing bells she answered almost humbly, "And of course I'd like to go." In a little uprush of friendliness she clasped her hands about his arm.

This seemed very far away then. Unreal and far away. Yet when she found a florist's box at the stateroom door and lifted out dozens of deep red roses, buried her face in their cool fragrance, his vivid charm came surging back into her heart.

She wished then she had not promised to go out with Kit Camp. She half resolved to telephone him that she would not go.

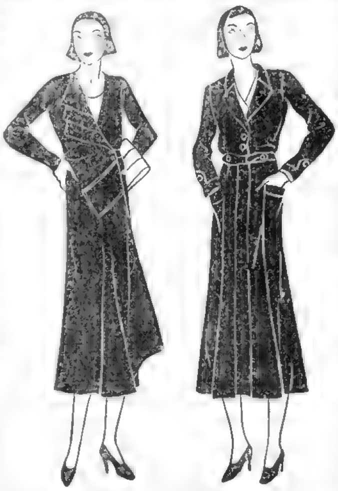
What's in Fashion?
The Coat Dress

Directed by AMOS PARRISH



NEW YORK, [illegible] the women you're going to [illegible] on fashionable [illegible] month. Watch [illegible] ticularly.

But lots of [illegible]

You're right [illegible] made to look like [illegible] of the smartest [illegible] ing to find for the [illegible] to-warm not [illegible]

Watch them [illegible] they? [illegible] fitting [illegible] Well wrapped waists [illegible] skirts. Good to walk in. They're a practical fashion [illegible]. And every woman likes [illegible] so you're going [illegible] see lots of them.

Put on just like a [illegible] of them. Instead of [illegible] over the head. (Great [illegible] the hair from getting mussed.)

Fastened like a [illegible] In fact you can even wear them as a coat over a [illegible] if you want to.

Others go on like any dress but have coat like [illegible] notched lapels [illegible] wrapped skirts.

In the new [illegible] they're a joy [illegible] plenty warm enough even for [illegible] ish days. Just as [illegible] . . . because they give the [illegible] finished" look a coat gives.

Good for Everyone

Anybody can wear a coat dress. They look well on any type of figure. But there's one woman who's going to hail them with [illegible] cheers. Because every one of them is not only becoming but actually helps her figure look younger, slimmer!

And that's the larger woman. The surplice line so many of them have is one of the best lines she can wear. The wrapped skirt [illegible] comfortable for [illegible] She knows the value of lapels and deep V necklines [illegible] and they are coat dress details.

The sketches show the two kinds of coat dresses we mentioned [illegible] the one that's put on like a coat and the one that's put on like any dress but has coat details.

Look at the [illegible] at the left. It fastens with buttons way over at the left side. It has a [illegible] effect like a coat. The skirt is draped as a [illegible] wrapped [illegible] might [illegible]

The other dress [illegible] put on like a dress [illegible] but notice its coat details. The [illegible] with the crossed vestee that looks like the [illegible] The buttons down the front. The [illegible] pocket. The comfortably [illegible] skirt.

Is it any wonder [illegible] make [illegible] takes and [illegible] Or that they find them such practical fashions [illegible] fall.

How to Keep Well
By DR. R. S. COPELAND

Light Diet For Jaundice

THERE ARE many disturbances which act like indigestion, and yet have no connection with the stomach. One of these is jaundice.

Dr. Copeland

Jaundice is a yellow discoloration of the skin due to the deposit of bile pigment in the tissues. It is really only a symptom of some obstruction to the normal flow of bile.

When the bile cannot escape into the intestines in the usual way it is absorbed by the blood. Then it becomes deposited in the various tissues. This condition, as I have said, is due to some obstruction such as swelling of the mucous membrane lining the tubes which carry away the bile substance.

The swelling may come on after a chill or from eating some irritating or indigestible food. The obstruction may be due to gall stones or even to pressure from some abdominal growth.

The yellow discoloration is the first symptom to attract notice. In severe cases this may become pronounced, causing a bronze or deep olive color. With it is disturbance of the digestion. The tongue is coated, the appetite fails and there is a feeling of nausea, aggravated especially by eating fats.

Of course, the first thing to do is to find the cause of the obstruction. X-ray examinations will determine whether gall stones are present.

In treating jaundice first consideration is given the diet. Fats, pastries, highly seasoned foods and sweets should be avoided. Buttermilk, vichy and lemonade may be given, as well as plenty of water.

The patient should be as quiet as possible. If the attack is at all severe he should be kept in bed. See that the intestinal tract is clear. Your doctor will prescribe the necessary medication when the source of the trouble has been determined.

For the itching which usually accompanies jaundice, hyposulphite of soda, three tablespoonfuls to a quart of water, will be soothing when applied to the skin. It is worth while to remember this because the itching is likely to be intense.

Charm in Poise of Head
By JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON

NOTHING gives away a woman's age or temperament so much as the coloring, texture and lines of her throat. The attitude a woman has toward herself is definitely expressed in the manner in which she poises her head, and this has a great deal to do with the condition of her throat.

Josephine Huddleston

A woman who has lost interest, or is worried, is inclined to let her chin drop, thus encouraging sagging under the chin and generally relaxed throat lines. But the other extreme, tilting the chin too high, gives a taut and strained expression to the throat that eventually will cause the same sagging. Tilt your chin at a natural angle and keep the throat beautiful.

It is important to make throat treatments a definite part of one's beauty routine whether the methods employed are for preservation or rejuvenation.

The judicious use of creams and lotions together with daily exercises are the infallible guide to throat beauty, and if followed carefully they will bring your beauty a little nearer your heart's desire!

If you are interested in preservative measures the only preliminary treatment to the exercises is the use of cleansing cream, preferably one that has slightly nourishing ingredients in its formula.

After your regular nightly use of cleansing cream follow its removal with a generous application of skin food or tissue-building cream, both types are splendid nourishers. After the evening routine remove most of the cream, leaving a thin layer on overnight. To finish off the morning toilet, however, apply a generous amount of skin tonic after the nourishing cream has been removed.

The exercises should be taken in a well-ventilated room and near the window. In this day and age it is unnecessary to mention that the body should be unhampered by tight clothing!

Stand erect with the heels about two inches apart and the body drawn to its full height, the arms hanging relaxed at the sides. This position is maintained throughout the routine.

Exercise 1: Breathe deeply, then slowly let the head drop forward until the chin definitely touches the chest. Exhale and while the chin is still touching the chest inhale and stiffen the muscles, then slowly raise the head, pushing it back as far as possible before exhaling. Bring the head back to an erect position and repeat ten or fifteen times.

Exercise 2—Push the chin out and tense all the throat muscles before inhaling deeply, then bend the head over to the right as far as you can. Exhale and then slowly bring the head back to center position, inhale while bending the head over as far as the left as possible. Exhale, come back to center position, inhale, bend to right, exhale and continue in this way until you have bent the head ten times to the right and ten to the left.

Exercise 3—Hold the head erect, inhale and tense the muscles and then turn the head as far to the right as you can, looking back and up over the right shoulder. Exhale and return to center position, inhale and tense the muscles, turn the head far to the left and look up and back over the left shoulder, exhale and return to center position. Repeat until you've turned the head ten times each way. While doing this exercise, be sure to push the chin around to the side as far as you can so that you feel a definite pull in the back between the shoulders.

Ten minutes should be devoted to the routine twice each day.

THE BEAUTY BOX -:- -:- By HELEN FOLLETT

GIRLS WITH weak ankles should be pussy footers. They must trot around on tiptoe with feet bare. The bad habit of standing with the weight all on one foot—usually the right one—weakens the other ankle. Lifting up on the toes and down again is a good stunt, especially if the supplicant for beauty honors keeps the hands on the hips, and takes a long, deep breath on every upward tilt.

Have you finger tips that are too plump? Buy yourself a dozen small clothespins, such as are used in the nursery or can be found in the toy department. Put them on the fingers and thumbs at night when going to bed. It is unbelievable but the pressure does do away with finger tip spread.

Tight brassieres should never be worn. Continued pressure destroys the delicate glands of the breasts. Vigorous massage is harmful. If development is desired, annoint with cocoa butter and massage lightly with flattened palms, pressure being firmer with the upward movement.

A double chin can be rolled into one by persistent treatment. Anoint with a heavy cream, pick up the flesh in small folds and roll firmly between thumb and first finger. But do not fail to finish up with an ice rub. Otherwise, there will appear the gobblers throat. Not pretty.

There is a great hue and cry now about toning lotions which have much the same effect as astringents. A simple one can be compounded at home. Get an eight-ounce bottle and pour into it seven ounces of rosewater, one-half ounce of rubbing alcohol and one dram of simple tincture of benzoin. Shake well. The best time to use it is after the cold facial rubbing in the morning. Apply with cotton.

Pointers on Etiquette
By MRS. BEECKMAN

Taking Pictures

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—Would it be all right for the mother and sister of the bride to wear street dresses and hats at a church wedding at 7 in the evening? (The bride will wear white with veil and the attendants will wear formal dresses also.)

2—Is it permissible for the bride and groom to have their pictures taken before the ceremony?

A. C. W.

1—A 7 o'clock wedding is considered an evening wedding usually, and therefore the mother and sister of the bride should wear evening clothes. Doesn't the bride in this case consider that she is having an evening wedding?

2—Yes or after, whichever is more convenient.

Anniversary Celebration

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When entertaining guests for a tenth wedding anniversary, would you suggest a seven o'clock dinner, or just a social evening? Which is customary?

C. S.

To my taste nothing is so charming and socially delightful as a perfectly-planned dinner—and so, of course, I would suggest that, if this is convenient, it would be the form of entertainment. To celebrate this important event a dinner to one's close friends is a glorious form of commemoration. Seven o'clock is a bit early for such a dinner. Wouldn't eight o'clock be a more interesting hour? Of course the reception is in just as good taste, and has the added advantage of accommodating far more people.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette by readers.)

that every woman longs for. The things she had never had.

She [illegible] up stiffly. They looked at each other, these two, who had been so close, who loved each other so well. And each wondered, half ashamed, what the other was thinking.

"Well, it's time I was thinking about dinner," the mother said.

"I'll help," Cathie offered.

* * *

Ruth couldn't believe it. "I never heard of such a thing. He must be crazy!"

Cathie laughed joyously. "That isn't very complimentary to me," she said. But she knew what Ruth meant. It WAS queer, a man like Mr. Farnsworth. . .

"I wonder if I'll ever get used to being rich!"

Decent Clothes

"Well, there's one thing," Ruth said grimly, "I'm going to have some decent clothes. I'll be able to afford it now that I don't have to support the family . . . I wonder if I'll ever get used to THAT? I'm going to dress better. Not gaudily, because Mr. Browning hates to see the teachers dressed like chorus girls. He hardly ever says anything, but I can tell. When Miss Carson—she's that new sixth grade teacher I told you about, came into the office today with a red sport suit on, and red shoes—RED, mind you, I saw him look at her, and after she had gone he touched the eucalyptus boughs I had in the bronze bowl the class of '26 gave, and he said, 'So restfully gray green, aren't they?'—so I was thinking—"

"Fur coat. You! A baby wanting a—well! Of all the nonsense!"

But Cathie laughed, "Oh, ma, why shouldn't she have what she wants? Lord knows it's the first time any of us ever could—"

Real Silk Continues at Capacity Output

All plants of the Real Silk Hosiery Company are still running day and night according to Porter M. Farrell, president.

"Business of the company has shown an increase every month this year," said Mr. Farrell, "as compared with 1929, including the month of August. The outlook for the fourth quarter of this year is for a continuance of capacity production."

Directors also declared the regular quarterly dividends of $1.25 on the common, and $1.75 on the preferred both payable October 1, to stock of record September 12.

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in Federal Court yesterday by the Amalgamated S[illegible] Corporation, one of the largest silk factors in America, which was incorporated in Delaware.

RAILS SEEN AS PAST WORST CONDITIONS

By FRANK H. MELOON

A rumor has been circulated in [illegible]

The railroad stocks showed a stronger trend today despite the poor earnings reports for July. The July earnings, however, while considerably below 1929 figures, were not much under those of July 1928 and furthermore July, 1930 showed an increase over June, 1930 in the composite earnings of the leading roads. Railroad carloadings of this week showed an increase of more than 18,000 over the previous week. These figures show that while comparisons with 1929 are unfavorable the worst conditions in 1930 have passed in the railroad field and there are prospects for fairly good earnings in the last four months of the year. Leading dividend rails, therefore, seem cheap for investment and for long pull profits.

Hershey Chocolate Sales' Outlook

Although many continue optimistic on the outlook for Hershey Chocolate, there have been downward revisions in estimates of earnings for recent months on the theory that the hot weather during July and early this month caused a reduction in sales of the company [illegible] practically offset the lower costs of materials used. Much depends on favorable earnings this month so far as results for the current quarter are concerned.

Foreign Selling in Int. Telephone

Following the liquidation in International Telephone by domestic holders there has been evidence of a foreign supply in the stock which has been responsible for the latest reaction in the issue. The selling is generally attributed to English holders.

Earnings for the second quarter will probably show a decrease from corresponding periods last year as business has been affected by unsettled conditions prevailing practically all over the world. Many stop orders have been uncovered in this stock during its decline.

Paramount Sees Favorable Earnings

Officials of Paramount are reported anticipating favorable earnings this year with prospects favoring a new record. Cooler weather is expected to increase attendance in the company's houses because of the quality of the pictures which will be shown. Some estimates have been heard that the earnings for 1930 may reach as much as $7 a share. Conservative interests in Paramount are not looking for any increase in the current $4 a share dividend rate in the near future.

Montgomery Ward Outlook Promising

Advices from Chicago say interests usually identified with the market for Montgomery Ward believe the outlook is promising. They point out that some unprofitable units are being eliminated and the company is likely to get some good business as a result of the Fall catalogue which has been distributed. In Wall Street it is said the stock still has quite a short interest.

The big group which has been [illegible] in R-K-O for some time has been quite active. The stock has been attracting a moderate outside following. It has been one of the most active on the list recently.

Highway Construction at Record Level

Based on the contracts awarded in square yards, the construction of concrete roads and streets throughout the United States during the first half of 1930 is compared with the corresponding figures for the past nine years. Source: Highway Bureau, Portland Cement Association.

Highway improvement, as indicated by contracts for concrete roads and streets, is breaking all records this year. This means not only a present prosperity for the contractors and certain industries, but also an unprecedented progress in the development of one of the nation's principal transportation assets. Paving roads is paving the way to better and sounder economic conditions.

CURB MARKET DULL ON EVE OF HOLIDAY

New York, Aug. 29.—The curb market lived up to expectations today for a session that preceded a three-day suspension for the holidays.

Price movement and trading were dull. A fairly steady tone was in evidence and here and there a stock attracted bids up to a point above the previous final.

Utilities displayed a firm undertone. A few weak spots cropped out. American and Foreign Power Warrants suffered from realizing on its recent advances, and Tampa Electric, which has been inactive of late, worked lower.

The main trend, however, was upward, and Electric Bond and Share worked up during the morning to about a point above yesterday's final.

Brazilian Traction, Utilities Power and Light, and American Gas & Electric were firm. Middle West, Kansas Pipe Line, American Cities B, Niagara Hudson and American Superpower fluctuated narrowly.

Cities Service was the most active stock in the petroleum group and was well bought. Texon Oil & Land continued strong. Standard Oil companies moved narrowly. Vacuum showed a receding tendency.

In the investment and trading group, Goldman Sachs and United Founders were most active and firm.

Small changes took place in active industrials for the most part. Mead Johnson and A. O. Smith were weak.

Copper Market Is Lacking in Buyers

The copper market continues extremely dull. Larger producers are holding firm at 11 cents but custom smelters will sell at 10¾. In absence of any real buying practically all the copper sold for domestic shipment is going at 10¾ cents, although in some special instances it has been sold by producers at 11 cents. The price therefore remains nominally 10¾ cents bid, 11 cents asked.

With extremely light sales for domestic shipment and export sales this month of only about 45,000,000 pounds, it is probable another increase will be shown in stocks as of September 1.

Confirm Merger of Italian Banks

San Francisco, Aug. 29.—Cable reports from Rome that the Italian bank Italo-Britannica, was about to be acquired by Banca d' America e d' Italia were verified in substance in San Francisco today. Banca d' America e d' Italia, controlled by Transamerica Corp., has its headquarters at Milan and 29 branches in the principal centers of Italy. Strong British interests are understood to be associated with Transamerica in the acquisition of Italo-Britannica will, it is believed, be represented on the directorate, as well as in the executive management of the acquired bank.

Steel's Profits $585,909 in Half

New York, Aug. 29 (AP).—Keystone Steel & Wire Co. today reported for the fiscal year ended June 30 net profit of $585,909, excluding equity in subsidiary earnings, equal to $2.20 per common share, compared with $1,237,417 or $5.52 a share, in the previous fiscal year.

International Products Corp. in the first half had net income of $427,626, equal to 55 cents per common share, compared with $487,704 or 64 cents, in the first half last year.

Crosley Radio's Output Is Raised

Cincinnati, Aug. 29.—Crosley Radio Corp. has increased its production schedules nearly 100 per cent the past month and is now turning out between 1700 and 2000 sets daily. This schedule is being stepped up to care for increased demands and to reduce the company's back-log of orders.

Pres. Powell Crosley, Jr., stated that the company is now making money and the way things look by September will be ahead of September last year.

August Call Rate Average Lowered

Average renewal rate for call money in August was 2.177 per cent, against 2.226 per cent in July and 8.19 per cent in Aug. last year. High for call money in Aug. was 2½ per cent and the low 2 per cent. This August's average rate was the lowest average monthly rate since Sept., 1924, when the rate was 2.08 per cent.

Tire Reclaiming Plant on Full Time

Reclaiming plant of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company at Gadsden, Ala., is operating on full time.

Latin Bond Selling Causes Recessions

New York, Aug. 29.—Unsettled conditions in Argentina led to further selling of Latin American bonds in the listed bond market. Argentine, Chilean, Bolivian and Brazilian issues suffered from the selling movement and losses in some instances were extended to a point or more as investors disposed of their holdings. The price movement in the domestic section was narrow, irregular.

Niagara Hudson's Output Is Larger

New York, Aug. 29.—Niagara Hudson Power Corp. electric output for 1930's first seven months was 4,135,030,438 k. w. h., against 4,120,966,037 in the like period in 1929; 12 months' output was 8,596,420,400 k. w. h., against 8,026,564,800 in preceding 12 months.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Today's Complete Prices and Dividends

RAILS MAKE GOOD GAINS IN WALL STREET TRADING

New York, Aug. 29—Rails made good gains in Wall Street trading today.

Bears who waited until the last day before the three-day week-end suspension to close out their short contracts found stocks could be bought only at increasingly higher prices in today's stock market.

Rails, which had been heavily sold by the bear crowd because of the low summer volume of freight traffic, the lowest in eight years, made one of the most pronounced upturns of the summer.

TRADING IS DULL

A long list of important industrials, utilities and merchandising shares made moderate headway. Trading was extremely dull, however, as many operators had already left town for the week-end.

The advance was notably sharp in many shares believed to harbor short interests, but a wide range of pivotal shares ganied 1 to 2 points or more.

Motion Picture shares were strong in the late trading. Most of the day's gains were recorded in the earlier hours of the day, but htey were well maintained.

Shares selling up 3 to 5 included Coca Cola, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Loews, Eastman, Westinghouse, Rock Island, Southern Railway, Canadian Pacific and Case.

Shares gaining 2 points or more included U. S. Steel, Atchison, Union Pacific, New Haven, Air Reduction, Macy, Safeway, Vanadium and Warner Bros.

The closing tone was strong.

Transamerica made one of the best gains since its transference from the curb, getting up more than 2, coincident to announcement of expansion abroad. Packard, however, eased under considerable liquidation.

The bull leaders probably applied some pressure to the bear faction, to give the list a firm tone at the end of the week.

Prominent speculators for the advance have been hoping for a better market after Labor Day, but it is acknowledged that the extent of the progress to be made will depend upon successful restoration of public confidence in the stock market.

NEWS IS DISCOUNTED

The day's corporate news was light, and inclined to be unfavorable, but it involved situations apparently already discounted. Most conspicuous were announcements of passing of the Oliver Farm Equipment participating preferred dividend, and the Celotex preferred dividend.

The advance in the rails may have represented more than short covering, for July earnings statements, while showing a reduction of about 30 per cent from last year, are running a little better than June, as compared to 1929, and more than 60 class 1 carriers have already reported.

Wall Street was inclined to place a decidedly favorable interpretation on the brokerage loan figures, showing for the second week a moderate reduction for a period of rising stock prices.

If the buying has been entirely of a professional character, as some of the more pessimistic observers have felt, the figures indicate that professionals were paying cash.

While a reduction of $26,000,000 is moderate, bulls point out that the volume of trading has been small.

Call money continued abundant at 2 per cent, as eagerness to place funds for the three-day period offset withdrawals to meet holiday currency requirements. The federal reserve condition statement showed a reduction in the volume of credit outstanding for the latest week.

The system will be able to offset any credit tightening, which may appear next week. The pinch of month-end settlements is usually felt a few days after the first.. A resumption of the gold movement to France caused no concern in banking circles.

$524,100,000 PAYMENTS

Journal of Commerce compilation shows investors during September will receive $524,100,000 in interest and dividends, compared with $530,200,000 in September, 1929.

Losses due to industrial accidents in the United States exceeded $4,000,000,000 a year and those due to industrial sickness $5,000,000,000 a year, according to the Index published by the New York Trust Co.

Texas & Pacific for seven months ended July 31, shows net of $2,013,157 after taxes and charges, equivalent after dividend requirements on 5 per cent preferred to $3.41 a share on 387,551 shares of common, against $3,607,002 or $7.52 a share in seven months of 1929.

Detroit Street Railways reports July net loss of $278,527 after charges, against net of $46,641 in July, 1929. For 12 months ended July 31, 1930, net loss was $887,468, against net income of $568,618 the preceding 12 months.

Brown Fence & Wire Company for year ended June 30 reports net profit of $450,000 after interest, depreciation and federal taxes, against $624,930 in the preceding 12 months.

World Wheat Crop for 1930 Larger

Rome, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Institute of Agriculture announced today the world's 1930 production of wheat will be 712,000,000 hundredweight, compared with 677,000,000 last year.

Parke, Davis "Extra"

Parke, Davis & Co. declared extra dividend of 10 cents and regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents, both payable Sept. 30 to stock of record Sept. 19.

ADVICE TO INVESTORS IS FREE

Before you buy or sell stocks or bonds, you ought to secure unbiased expert advice. Send your investment inquiries with stamp to Frank H. Meloon, Financial Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston. All replies are made by mail direct.

$29,000 TO INVEST

Mrs. R. O., Boston—I am a middle aged widow and have received $29,000 from the sale of real estate. This represents my entire cash surplus, and I want to invest in sound securities.

Ans.—Here is a diversified plan: $3000 each S. W. Straus first mortgage 6s, Prudence Company 5½s, Lawyers' Title and Guaranty 5½s, Suffolk Title and Guaranty 5s, and Title Guaranty and Trust 5½s; add 20 shares each American Typo Founders preferred, Bangor & Aroostook preferred, Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific 7 per cent preferred, Utilities Power and Light preferred, West Penn Electric 6 per cent preferred and 25 Standard Gas and Electric $4 cumulative preferred. The total expenditure is $27,100 and you will get a combined annual income of $1620. You should keep the remaining $1900 in a savings bank as a protection against emergencies.

DIVIDEND CUT

F. T., Wellesley—I own some Kennecott Copper at higher levels. Can the dividend rate be maintained?

Ans.—With quarterly payment of 75 cents a share July 1, Kennecott Copper has been on a $3 annual basis, contrasted with $5 paid from July, 1929. The company is the world's largest copper producer, and dividends at various rates, have been distributed since 1925. In 1929 net, before depletion, equalled $4.54 a share, compared with $5.01 in 1928 and $3.00 in 1927. Though the demand for copper is good, earnings for 1930 may be seriously affected by the decline in metal prices. Price of the stock does not indicate much confidence in the $3 rate. Whether the stock will advance or decline still further is any one's guess.

STOCKS FOR INCOME

J. G., Boston—I should like to know if now is the right time to buy stocks, or do you think they will sell lower? I am a working man and have saved $5000, of which I want to invest $4000.

Ans.—An investor should be more interested in income from stocks than in fluctuations. Only speculators try to call the turn. If you really want to invest $4000 of your fund, buy 10 shares each Cities Service preferred, Standard Gas & Electric $6 preferred, New York Steam 6 per cent preferred, and West Penn Electric 6 per cent preferred. The cost will be a bit less than $4000 and you will get an annual income of $240. We doubt these stocks will bring quick profits, but you can rely on the regular income.

PLAN APPROVED

Miss D. G., Ipswich—I am self-supporting, without dependents. I want to invest $2000 from my savings. Would you approve Morris Plan 5s?

Ans.—Yes. Morris Plan certificates, paying 5 per cent, are sound. A $2000 purchase will give you an annual income of $100. We presume, of course, you will keep a substantial amount of cash in the savings bank for an emergency fund.

NO INCOME

M. M., Quincy—I want to buy ten shares of Radio. What is the cost and annual income?

Ans.—Though regular dividends are paid on both classes of Radio preferred, the common stock pays nothing. It is a speculation. We never give speculative advice. If you have $3000 in a savings bank, we shall be glad to suggest a sound stock for $1000.

FINANCIAL

BOSTON STOCKS MOSTLY HIGHER AND QUIET

Boston stocks sold mostly higher today with trading quiet on the local exchange. Pond Creek Pocahontas among the coalers sold at a new high for the year, up fractionally. American Founders eased a fraction to a new low for 1930.

Boston & Maine prior preferred rose 2 at 110. Boston & Albany, selling ex-dividend, held steady. New Haven was up around 2 points. Pennsylvania added a point.

United Fruit, Boston Edison, General Electric and New England Telephone all tacked on a point or more.

American Woolen preferred rose 2 points. American Telephone was up around 2. Anaconda added around a point. Gillette moved over a range of a little over a point.

Hodges Carpet Co. of Indian Orchard seldom appears in security markets, but its earnings during the depression have held up relatively much better than those of the bigger carpet companies, such as Mohawk and Bigelow-Sanford.

Hodges reports earnings after all charges but before federal taxes for 28 weeks ended July 12 last, of $75,700, equivalent to $7.57 a share on the 10,000 shares of stock. This compares with $66,491 or $6.65 a share in the same period last year, an increase of 13.8 per cent. Net quick assets exceed $79 a share, as against market price of around 35-[illegible] for the stock.

Massachusetts cranberry crop is expected to total 395,000 barrels compared with 400,000 barrels harvested last year and an average crop of 378,000 for the five years 1924-1928. Barnstable County growers are expecting a slightly larger crop than was harvested a year ago while those of Plymouth County are expecting a somewhat lighter crop. On account of hot and dry weather during July and August berries have not reached their usual size.

Present outlook for cranberries in United States is for a crop totaling about 783,000 barrels compared with 518,000 barrels harvested last year and 596,000 barrels the five-year average 1924-1928.

SPECTATOR'S FAVORITES

By SPECTATOR

Wall Street Spectator's favorites today are as follows:

Speculative interest is reported leaning to merchandise shares, since this group will be one of the first to enjoy a seasonable pick-up in trade. Woolworth, one of the strongly entrenched organizations in this field, is regarded as a logical leader in any general upturn of this list.

Differing strikingly from most chain store companies, Woolworth is understood to have shown a betterment in profits over last year, despite a 4 per cent smaller gross business in the first seven months.

In an analysis of this company's position, one banking source points out that, with costs of merchandise declining, it should become easier for Woolworth to resume its former rate of growth in earnings.

When costs were higher, there doubtless was difficulty in maintaining five and ten-cent prices and share earnings of $3.66 in 1929, $3.63 in 1928, and 3.62 in 1927, were almost stationary. These earnings, however, are 50 per cent over $2.40 dividend requirements. Stock around 60 affords practically a 4 per cent return.

Banking interests familiar with Warren Bros. affairs have officially stated that so far this year earnings are running well ahead of the 1929 showing, with every indication that net for the year will equal $6.50 a share on the common stock. This would be the ninth successive year of increasing earnings for this outstanding road-building organization.

Among the favorable factors stressed concerning the outlook for the latter half of the year are the continued ease in money tending to stimulate road-building, and the tendency to build more roads during periods of unemployment. The stock affords a return of slightly under 6 per cent. at prevailing levels on the $3 annual cash dividend.

One of the economic services known for the cautionary attitude it has taken towards the market for some time has come out with a statement that regardless as to whether business gets better or not, indications point to some sort of an autumnal rise in the market.

Sound stocks to buy in its opinion are U. S. Steel, Sears Roebuck, Standard Gas, Atchison, American Can, Beechnut Packing, Public Service of N. J., American Tel. and Tel., Woolworth, Harvester, Liggett & Myers, Borden, First National Stores and Timken Roller.

N. E. Power's Big Line Is Completed

The longest high voltage transmission line in New England is completed. Engineers of New England Power Association are conducting tests on the line at the Tewksbury sub-station and at other points along the 126-mile right-of-way across New Hampshire to the new Fifteen Mile Falls power station on the upper Connecticut river. The line will be the first in this part of the country to operate at 220,000 volts.

Clearing right of way was a sizeable lumbering operation as only 600 acres of the 5345 acres involved traversed open country. To build the 2200 steel structures required 600 carloads of material, while 1280 miles of cable were used.

Concerning Radio

Edited by BILL WHIPPLE

Because of its prominence in the world of radio broadcasting, of necessity affairs of the National Broadcasting Company are very frequently mentioned in these columns; that institution furnishes many topics which we believe are of interest to our subscribers. In fact, were it not for the two major broadcasting chain-operators, which includes the Columbia System, it is quite possible we would be obliged to scratch pretty hard for interesting material. Sometimes we have to scratch anyway.

But for all his exalted position as president of the famous NBC, M. H. Aylesworth seldom gets into the limelight. That is usually the way with the real "doer," he shuns publicity, letting the results of his brain and executive ability speak for him.

However, what it has taken us two paragraphs to say is that the very able Mr. Aylesworth delivered an address yesterday before a luncheon of directors of the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto. And in his address he expressed a truth which we believe will bear repeating in our section. This excerpt from his speech says:

"Radio broadcasting has a very delicate, and at the same time important, task to perform when its programs cross international boundry lines. It carries a message that no other medium can convey. We will never be really acquainted internationally, nor will it be possible for us to understand each other fully, until we know and love each other's songs, each other's humor, and each other's cultural entertainment. The printed page alone cannot perform that task. It is a colossal undertaking. It means that the people of one group must hear a sufficent number of representatives of all the arts of the other group to get a real understanding of what these people feel about life."

We are in receipt of a letter from one whose initials are A. G., and who hales from Maple ct., Roxbury. Also a stamped envelope for a reply. We're going to be thrifty, keep the stamp and answer the letter here. It follows:

"Dear Sir: I have a brand new 7-tube (3 screen grid) set. I get a fine reception from Station WEEI. It's always wonderful and clear from that station. (Hurrah! for WEEI—Ed's note). But recently I've had trouble in getting good reception from stations WNAC and WBZ. Just at present WNAC comes in better, but WBZ is still unsatisfactory. This condition is apparent only in the day time. At night the reception is very good from all stations. Can you explain this for me? I don't think there can be anything wrong with the set because it is brand new. In fact, we've got it only three weeks."

The mechanics of a radio receiving set, Albert, are pretty much of secret to us. It is just a collection of doodads and thing-a-ma-jigs as far as we are concerned. We do know enough to get a tube stuck into the proper place and can, after a few trials, get the plus and minus poles of the battery hitched to the right wires. Beyond that our knowledge ceases even though we do have the distinction of being radio editor.

But it seems to us your difficulty is apparent. The first reason is—well, you've heard lots of otherwise intelligent men say they couldn't read in the daytime because they when to night-school. There you are, Albert, probably that instrument you have is perfect in every way but it was constructed by a night crew. The second reason may be no reason at all, but isn't it possible that WEEI are in cahoots with the manufacturer of your radio, and have prevailed upon him to construct his radios so only reception for that station will be excellent. Probably we are wrong but competition makes strange radio-fellows.

The newly created "RKO Theater of the Air" starts tonight at 10:30 over WEEI, and offers a novelty program called "Harlem's Salute to Amos 'n' Andy." The entire program will be made up of colored artists whose names ring true to theater goers. Included in the broadcast will be Bill Robinson, Adelaide Hall, Ada Brown, Shelton Brooks, the Southernaires, James Lilliard and Cab Galloway's orchestra.

RADIO Personalities

Every conceivable form of occupation has occupied time on the air, whether it was a policeman, a doorman or a peanut vendor. And with a lone exception almost everything has been advertised on the air. The exception is undertaking. . . . Announcers have their favorite introductory remarks—"here they are," "Let's have it," "Shoot" and "Let's go." But the king of them all is HENRY BURBIG'S "Play slaves." . . . KNX in Los Angeles claims a record mail for a regular feature. The REV. DUNCAN received a total of 1,050,053 letters in the year ending July 1. The Rev. Duncan's first name is ETHEL. . . . HENRI THERRIEN, tenor, rejoins Roxy's Gang Sept. 1, after a year's absence. . . . COLIN O'MORE, latest CBS addition, directs the Ballad Hour and the voice of Columbia, so blame or bless him as you see fit. . . . The Federal Radio Commission investigated 250 broadcasting studios and reported that 90 per cent of these stations suffer interference from other stations. . . . HAROLD STURR, Ted Fiorito's sax-man, can always be stirred into anger by reminding him of the time he won first prize in a baby show.

A Private Passenger automobile used by a traveling salesman in the course of his business to carry passengers occasionally for a consideration, express or implied, shall be written at the Private Passenger car rates plus 50% thereof.

Carrying Fellow-Employees

A Private Passenger automobile used by its owner to carry fellow employees to and from their place of employment for a consideration, express or implied, shall be written at the Private Passenger car rates plus 50% thereof.

Auto Homes

Automobiles equipped as living quarters, popularly known as "Auto Homes," shall be written at the Class 4 "Light" commercial rates.

Passenger Carrying Use

Commercial automobiles used ordinarily in the daily business of the owner and occasionally used for picnics, outings or games, and for which no fare is charged, shall be rated as follows: A regular commercial car policy may be extended by endorsement to cover a particular picnic, outing or game at a minimum premium of $10.00 per day.

Commercial automobiles used ordinarily in the daily business of the owner and occasionally used for picnics, outings or games, for which a fare is charged, shall be rated as follows:

A regular commercial car policy may be extended by endorsement to cover a particular picnic, outing or game at a minimum premium of $15.00 per day per car.

Carrying Fellow-Employees

A commercial automobile used by its owner to carry fellow-employees to and from their place of employment for a consideration, express or implied, shall be written at the rates shown under Public Automobiles, Private Livery—Specified Car Basis.

Private Livery Automobiles

A Private Livery Automobile is an automobile of the private passenger type, not to exceed a designed seating capacity of seven persons including the chauffeur, rented with a chauffeur in the employ of the Assured in attendance from a garage only and the use restricted to social functions, funeral purposes, shopping trips, touring and similar purposes.

No automobile shall be written under the private Livery classification and rates if any of the following conditions apply:

Operated for hire from a stand, hotel, station, dock or place of public resort.
Operated on a schedule such as a bus or jitney.
Carries any sign or other identification indicating that such automobile is for public hire.

Taxicabs or Public Livery

An automobile of the taxicab or private passenger type, not to exceed a designed seating capacity of seven persons including the chauffeur, whether or not equipped with a taximeter, rented for hire for general passenger carrying use, but not operated on a schedule as a bus or jitney.

Transportation of Employees

Occasional Transportation of Other Passengers—Picnic and Outings

The following rule applies only to automobiles owned by employers and used by them to carry their own employees:

Automobiles of any type used to carry persons in the pay of the assured (including members of such persons' families and friends) to and from their places of employment and occasionally to and from picnics and outings shall be rated in accordance with the following provisions:

1. An automobile of the employer used to transport employees to and from their place of employment and for the occasional transportation of other persons at the same time; the automobile not to be used for regular jitney or livery purposes and no fare to be charged.

(a) If a Private Passenger automobile—the regular private passenger car rate shall be charged.

(b) If Commercial automobile, station car (Beverly body or Beach wagon) bus or jitney—the private livery rate less 33 1-3% shall be charged.

2. An automobile of the employer used to transport employees to and from their place of employment, also to transport other persons that may ride at the same time, but not used for regular jitney or livery purposes; car also used for picnics, outings or games and a fare charged.

(a) If a Private Passenger automobile—the private livery rate less 33 1-3% shall be charged.

(b) If a Commercial automobile, station car (Beverly body or Beach wagon), bus or jitney—the private livery rate shall be charged.

3. An automobile of the employer used ordinarily in the daily business of the employer but occasionally used for picnics, outings or games, members of the family of the employees and others also may ride, no fare is charged.

(a) If a Private Passenger automobile—the regular private passenger car rate shall be charged.

(b) If a Commercial automobile or station car (Beverly body or Beach wagon)—the regular Commercial car policy may be extended by endorsement to cover a particular picnic, outing or game at an additional rate charge based upon the pro rata Bus rate for Public Liability coverage for the period of such extension; subject to a minimum rate of $10 (standard limits) for each extension. For the purpose of this rule a "Light" Commercial automobile or station car (Beverly body or Beach wagon) shall take the rate shown on the Rate Sheets for Busses—"0-7 Passengers." A "Medium" Commercial automobile shall take the rate for Busses—"8-20 Passengers." A "Heavy" Commercial automobile shall take the rate for Busses—"21-30 Passengers."

The above proposed rules relating to Transportation of Employees shall not operate to reduce the rates ordinarily applicable to the classes of work for which such automobiles are used.

Automobile Finance Companies

A person whose business is financing the purchase of, or insuring motor vehicles, to whom Dealers' or Repairers' registration plates have been issued by the Registry of Motor Vehicles, shall be charged the "Y" passenger car rate for each set of plates so issued.

Trailers. Semi-trailers—Two-wheeled trailer attached by means of a kingpin or fifth wheel to tractor without body.

Semi-trailers (see definition above) shall be covered at 10% of the Public Liability rates for the tractor to which the semi-trailer is attached, subject to one-quarter of the semi-trailer rates on each of the semi-trailers in excess of the number of tractors, and subject further to a maximum charge of 20% of the total Public Liability premium when there are more than twice as many semi-trailers as there are tractors to which the semi-trailers may be attached.

Trailers used for Pleasure Purposes

Trailers used for pleasure purposes attached to private passenger cars may be covered for a flat charge of $2.00 per trailer by endorsement on the policy covering the car to which the trailer is attached. This charge is for the 5|10 Public Liability coverage and includes Extra-territorial coverage if this coverage is included in the policy covering the car to which the trailer is attached. The charge shall not be pro rated nor short rated for any period of time and the coverage shall not extend beyond the expiration of the policy to which the endorsement is attached.

Out of State Cars.

Any car regularly garaged outside the State, which requires Massachusetts registration shall be charged a rate in accordance with the manual rule which will designate the Territorial rate which approximates the "average."

Commercial Cars Rented

No additional charge shall be made for occasional renting to others, of Commercial automobiles with drivers, provided they are used (when rented) in the kind of work described in the policy.

Commercial cars rented without drivers shall be written at Class 3 rates.

Electric Automobiles

Interurban Express

Interurban Trucks regularly used in freight service between cities and towns in Massachusetts shall be rated in accordance with the highest rated territory through or in which the trucks operate.

Interurban Trucks regularly used in freight service between a city or town in Massachusetts and a city or town outside Massachusetts shall be rated as follows:

For Statutory coverage the rate shall be the rate applicable to the highest rated territory in Massachusetts through or in which the trucks operate.

Interurban Jitneys

It is proposed to continue the present rules.

Policy Periods and Premium Payments

All policies must be written for a term which is at least co-terminous with the period of registration and when such period is less than one year the policy shall be written at proportionate short term rates.

The minimum charge for Statutory Public Liability coverage on any Massachusetts Motor Vehicle Liability policy shall be five dollars ($5.00) regardless of the term of such policy.

All automobile policies governed by this Manual shall be written in consideration of the full premium for the entire term of the policy being due and payable at the beginning of the policy period, except where the Deposit premium would exceed $200 according to the Rules in effect for the year 1930.

Surety Bonds

NOTICE is further given, as required by said section 113B, the schedule of premium charges and classifications of risks, proposed to be fixed and established as aforesaid for motor vehicle surety bonds are as follows:

1. The premium charges for Motor Vehicle Surety Bonds shall be fifty per cent (50%) of the premium charges for Motor Vehicle Liability Insurance Policies.

2. No Motor Vehicle Surety Bonds shall be issued unless or until the applicant (owner) has satisfied the company of his ability to pay judgments to the extent of twenty thousand dollars ($20,000) for each car covered. The right of recovery by the surety against the principal shall not be waived.

3. The classifications for Motor Vehicle Surety Bonds shall be the same as for Motor Vehicle Liability Insurance Policies.

All persons and insurance companies desiring to be heard on the foregoing classifications and schedule of premium charges should appear as aforesaid, and they may then and there show cause, if any they have, why the said classifications and schedule of premium charges should not be fixed and established for the year 1931. Written communications will be given consideration if received at the office of the Commissioner of Insurance, Room 312, State House, Boston, before the hearing.

DATED at Boston this 28th day of August, 1930.

MERTON L. BROWN, Commissioner of Insurance.

NOTICE TO AUTOMOBILE OWNERS

Right now the automobile merchants of Greater Boston are making drastic price reductions on all Used Cars for the sole purpose of clearing their salesroom floors.

To the man owning an old model car such as 1924, 1925 or 1926, we offer the following suggestion that he may realize the utmost on his present investment toward the purchase of a late model Used Car.

The automobile merchant cannot make a large allowance on these older cars, but you can sell the car independently of him, and after receiving the down payment, the dealer from whom you plan to buy a late model Used Car can finance the balance of the payments owing to you.

Certainly this is a fair arrangement. It permits you to buy a later model car than the one you now own plus taking advantage of the drastic price reductions now in effect, and allows the dealer to give you an additional discount because he does not have to pay a salesman's commission on the resale of your old car.

Turn the Searchlight on the Evil Force in Government Exerted by the Crooked Lawyers

(This editorial is reproduced from Mr. Hearst's Chicago Herald-Examiner.)

Gentlemen of the American Bar Association:

WHILE YOU are honoring Chicago for a few days with your fifty-third annual convention it is pertinent to inform you that members of your profession in public office and private practice here are dishonoring Chicago every day the year round.

Revelations of civic corruption have uncovered a gigantic coalition of politics and crime that is making a travesty of law enforcement. Murder in the public streets has become common-place in establishing and maintaining systematized graft.

In the arch that has been built up to support this corrupt and powerful system, joining crime and government together as co-partners, lawyers are the keystone.

Crooked lawyers on the bench, crooked lawyers in offices for prosecution of crime, crooked lawyers in legislative bodies, crooked lawyers in private practice establish the political connections and do the conniving that make organized crime possible and profitable.

During your sessions you no doubt will listen to learned discussions of government, enforcement of the law, prosecution of crime, punishment of criminals and other topics of vital concern to the public welfare and the progress of this nation. But will you have the courage to break through the shell of conventional hypocrisy and probe into the sensitive rottenness that outrages the legal profession?

Or will you continue to sit back in the feeble neither-fish-nor-fowl "judicial attitude" so aptly phrased in the report of your American citizenship committee:

> "This committee is neither wet nor dry and it has nothing to do with that controversy.
>
> "So far as this controversy is concerned this committee quotes Mercutio, 'A plague o' both your houses.' "

Is it the misfortune of the reputable lawyer that he can be hired to take any side of any question in court for a client, but does not dare to take any side of any important public question for himself as a citizen? Incredible!

What a stirring, courageous duty the American bar could perform if it turned the brilliant searchlight of its consideration away from Congress, away from the London naval conference, and focused it on the evil force in government exerted by crooked lawyers!

A Dangerous Man

Guilty of Thinking

Few men worth thirty million dollars are radicals. Senator James Couzens, of Michigan, is worth thirty millions, and by his more conservative colleagues in the Senate is classified as both radical and irresponsible.

On his fifty-eighth birthday, Mr. Couzens admits the charges and tells why.

"I confess," says Mr. Couzens, "there was a time when I was not so keen about the rights and interests of the working man. I recall a Winter day in 1914 when, with a stroke of the pen, I ordered the discharge of several thousand workers of the Ford Motor Company, of which I was then general manager.

"I stood in the office window and saw those men milling about outside the gates. It was bitterly cold, and under those conditions I saw the hose turned on them.

"I got converted right there."

A dangerous man, Mr. Couzens. He seems to doubt that this is the best of all possible worlds.

Maybe he can be impeached or something. When a Senator begins to think, the Senate is clearly no place for him.

The Study of Genius

By ARCHIBALD HENDERSON

FOR THOSE who hold the faith of a divine origin for man, much support may be found in the contemplation of genius. It is unnecessary to say "human" genius, for, so far as we know, there is no other kind. The genius is a sort of unestablished proof of man's Godlike origin.

Genius is a constant reminder of the vast, towering possibilities of the human mentality; and therefore the human genius should be celebrated and heralded. For it serves as an incentive to man, spurring him to effort, demonstrating what he can accomplish, and showing him how inadequately and ineffectively he exerts the power at his disposal.

Although the individual genius has been consistently studied, and abnormal aspects of genius have attracted the attention of many writers and scientists, comparatively little has been done to formulate the laws of genius, determine the principles which govern it, and arrive at valid generalizations regarding its origin, appearance and manifestations.

The recent work of the distinguished neurologist, Beverly R. Tucker, is an attractive study, delightfully readable and at the same time solidly based on scientific knowledge. The title of the book, "The Gift of Genius," indicates the view of the author that genius comes, settling upon the brow like the Biblical tongue of flame.

It is well to have clearly indicated at the outset that there are four things which chiefly affect a man's career: Heredity, environment, circumstance and inner urge. Tucker, who raises the question whether so-called "learned authorities" are really learned, is un willing to accept without qualification the dictum that acquired traits or characters cannot be transmitted.

How, then, shall we account for the Grecian or Roman nose, the Hapsburg lip, for example? Perhaps certain traits or characters are definitely transmissible; within a certain range—taking a longer or shorter time, as the case may be, for their exhibition through inheritance.

The ordinary individual is profoundly responsive to the form pressure and complex of his environment. The genius might almost be defined as he who dominates his environment, triumphs over it, and finds his release as genius through such triumph. Yet man cannot wholly escape his environment, which exerts its influence whether man is conscious of it or not. Environment is molding but not creative in its effect.

It is scarcely open to question that genius never lacks a certain latent creative thrust, which may be called the inner urge. But unfortunately we can draw little value from this conclusion. The inner urge, speaking mathematically, may be a necessary but not a sufficient condition for genius.

Countless men and women have harbored this inner urge; but through the lack of certain other qualities, through misdirection or imperfection, the inner urge failed to flower into genius.

Geniuses have told me, on more than one occasion, that they felt themselves to be agents of some higher power, instruments for the expression of some mysterious life force.

Like radium, genius feeds upon itself interminably and emanates from itself unendingly, and withal, it is so luminous, that we must dim our eyes to behold it, or else we lose our sight.

BEHIND THE CRIMINAL, THE CROOKED LAWYER

The quickest way, perhaps, to subdue the criminal would be to bring within reach of law the brain that protects the criminal, that of his confederate and ally, THE CROOKED LAWYER.

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

What's This Father's Duty?

HERE'S A PROBLEM. Al Harvey started it. Al's an automobile dealer in Kansas City. He is 42 years of age, prosperous—owns a couple of apartment houses and a lunchette, as well as his agency—and is thoroughly contented with his lot. People point to Al with pride and tell how he started, without a nickel or any education. They say he's a typical American success. Al, himself, hasn't doubt of it.

Elsie Robinson

* * *

But for all that, there's a knock in Al's performance—his 16-year-old son, Dan. Young Dan's as different from his dad as a humming bird from an oil truck. A shy, twitchy youngster, with flickering, light brown eyes—they say he takes after his mother who died when he was eight. The very sight of machinery, the stench of oil and roar of motors, that's sweetest of music to Al, batters something in Dan. He wants to be an artist. A designer. You'd know it! He goes gangling along the street, mooning at nothing in particular—and making the old man see red! For, according to Al Harvey, there never yet was an artist that was worth a retread.

* * *

No artists for him, declares Al. Dan is to follow in his footsteps. Take a good business course, then learn the automobile business and make money. Afterward, if he wants art, he can BUY it. Nor are his motives quite as mercenary as this sounds. It's for the kid's own good, says Al. What good are artist's anyway, to themselves or anyone else? Never have a nickel. Always have to sponge on somebody. And nobody respects them, because you can't count on them when it comes to serious business. For instance, in the Community Drive—who'd think of asking an artist to contribute? And, if the city wants to build a bridge or an incinerator, what good's an artist? In short, artists are just a coupla jumps ahead of common loafers, says Al, and no son of his is going to be one, not if A. H. knows it.

* * *

Young Dan whines and sulks and sneers, but Al's immovable. And he honestly feels that the youngster's an ungrateful pup. Here he's trying to build up a Great Future for the kid—help him to be a useful, self-respecting citizen—and what thanks does he get?

"But," mildly suggests one of Al's friends, "isn't it better to let the boy live life as he sees it—serve beauty, if that's his aim, even if it doesn't bring him money—than to try and pour him into your mold?"

* * *

But Al, in horror, asks what kind of a father would he be if he let the kid make a mess of his life—and invites us to referee.

HAS A FATHER THE RIGHT TO PICK THE PATTERN OF HIS CHILD'S LIFE? Is it his DUTY to select a career which he considers honorable and profitable, and force his boy to follow it, regardless of the youngster's desires?

OR HAS A BOY THE RIGHT TO CHOOSE HIS OWN CAREER? And suppose he wishes to serve Beauty instead of Butter 'n' Eggs? Suppose he chooses to be poor and obscure, but, in his own way, happy—what then? That is against the American tradition. Abraham Lincoln might have approved it—you never could count on Abe—but Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover would certainly discourage it. Would YOU? SHOULD you—if this were your boy, and you were his dad?

In Other Words

Seldom hear of a still being discovered these days. Probably been abolished by the lawless element to make room for arsenals.

Vacationists are now putting on the last coat of tan and the first back-to-work frown.

H. G. Wells Writes

THE ACTION of the gene causes the fur of an animal to grow white, while at the tips of the extremities, which are slightly but measurably cooler, it causes the fur to grow black.

H G Wells

During early development the embryo becomes parcelled out into different local conditions. Then the genes get to work, moulding and finishing the ground plan. But the first rough laying out of the future body is apparently not due to the genes; it is due to the protoplasm of the egg, or as we have seen, to the external conditions of the egg protoplasm.

A large and tangled subject, the Physiology of Development! Soon, we hope, it will straighten out, and the interplay of gene and protoplasm, of organizing zone and encumbering yolk, of mechanical stress and internal secretion, will be better understood.

SEC. 6. LIMITATION AND CONTROL OF GROWTH

For men and most higher animals, growth and development have very definite limits. Why is this?

As we have already seen, the cells of a bird or a mammal in a tissue-culture continue to grow indefinitely long after they would have stopped growing if left in the body.

The great riddle of growth is not why we grow, but why we stop growing. Many, perhaps most organisms, never stop growing. Our greater familiarity with higher vertebrates and insects misleads us in this matter. Such diverse creatures as trees, fish, mollusses and crustaceans go on increasing their dimensions as long as they live, though at a steadily diminishing rate.

The American lobster, for instance, may produce eggs when under eight inches in length, and 11 or 12 ounces in weight, and then continue growth until death overtakes them, which may not be until they have reached 16 inches and over five pounds in weight, while the males may reach 22 inches, and nearly 25 pounds.

Many fish, such as the ordinary trout, show similar disparities. And the extremes may be even greater; in the common Hermit Crab, the largest breeding females are about four times the length of the smallest, and so about 64 times their weight.

In spite of their continued growth, however, there is a limit in size in these animals, albeit it is set not at maturity as it is with us, but at death. The limit is set by the relative rates of growth and ageing; if growth slows down quickly, and, ageing is rapid, the animals will be cut off by death before any of them has passed even a moderate size.

Even among mammals this undoubtedly primitive method of ending growth is to be found, for many voles and other rodents increase in size every year that they live, even after sexual maturity. This method, once we reflect a little, is what we should expect

Mr. Gerard Takes Powerful Census

By ARTHUR BAER.

EX-AMBASSADOR GERARD, who once bravely attacked the German army with 24 black bags, says that America is ruled by 59 prominent men.

* * *

He omits the writer from his glossary of pomp and power. But the sting is taken out of the chowder by the fact that he also fails to mention Shipwreck Kelly and the man who invented slippery floors for cafeterias.

* * *

Nobody yet knows just what Mr. Gerard had in those black bags when he was ambassadoring around the hot spots of Europe in 1914. He was living the life of hotel labels and travel posters.

* * *

Wherever you went in Europe you were sure to stumble over one of Mr. Gerard's sinister handbags. They went with him all over the world and when he expected to arrive he always wired ahead, "Reserve Grand Central station for Gerard and luggage."

* * *

* * *

His list of prominent citizens who hold the balance of power in their vest pockets sounds very reasonable. But he left out the Boston Watch and Ward Society.

* * *

And it's sure to start an argument with the daughters of the American Revolution. They have been suspiciously quiet ever since that last soprano shindig.

* * *

When you mention names like Rockefeller, Mellon, Hearst, Ochs, Schwab, Howard, Rosenwald, Mitchell, Lamont and Raskob, you ain't reading the batting order of the Red Sox or the Braves.

* * *

* * *

It's a tribute to America to know that all these men started life as boys and never changed.

* * *

Some day, we hope to join that huddle of biggity men. It must be quite a thrill to be mentioned as a world power and to be able to afford a pair of suspenders for every pair of trousers.

* * *

Of course, you might say that they can only eat one meal at a time, smoke one cigar at a time and wear but one suit of clothes at a time.

* * *

That's a good argument. But, you never inhaled the kind of cigars we have to smoke, did you?

* * *

When one of those men orders a meal he can tear one leaf off an artichoke and throw the rest away.

* * *

* * *

Figuring it all out, we guess we are just as happy as they are, but we don't laugh as much.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—Thoughts while strolling: How many remember when a mantle scarf was a "throw"? An auto license plate U. 13—sounds like a submarine. What became of Frederic and Fanny Hatton?

Tweedy boys who say "Howjudew!" Surprise for a beauty picker—the brunette manageress at Schrafft's on the avenue near 46th.

Robert Garland, a Baltimore, Md. boy, who made good in the city. Very few ladies know how to wear neck furs. Jefferson Machamer, the artist. Rheumy-eyed old roues who totter to leg show matinees. Then sit down front and doze. Second hand auto—$8.90. A new cabaret "Hot Ashes."

Restaurant offers menus for children. A Chinese laundryman—Sing Sing. William Lyon Phelps, the critic. Sign: "Pent house for quiet bachelor." Leslie Howard or his double. Those two polite traffic cops at Madison avenue and 6th street. Wish Ben Bernie would come back to town.

A cake of bath soap—$8. I used to have a room and bath weekly for that at the Gerdes in Cincinnati. The antique shop society speak-easy. Julia Marlowe turning into her Park Avenue apartment house. Margola Gilmore has a look of perpetual surprise. Like Ring Lardner.

* * *

Wrecking sign: "This building must be down in 30 days or we lose $25,000." I've a notion to take off my coat and help. Wonder what Helen Morgan would charge to sing to me an hour or so? Justine Hall, who used to go to school with our gang and doesn't look 30. Zoe Beckley.

Ladies who wear white orchids to luncheons. The avenue is to have a bird shop called "The Audubon." Maury Paut breezing along. Gloomy side street Russia cafes but tres cher. For a $2.50 cover charge they give you the Volga boat thing and a sitting down kick out dancer.

* * *

The St. Thomas gargoyles. And Latin inscription on the University club. Bow-legged men in butter-bean shaped riding pants. And red vests. Sigmund Romberg, the composer. Who used to play the piano in Bustanoby's basement. And now roosts in an avenue sky castle.

* * *

Devastating changes come to Tin Pan alley with the talkie theme song. A tune such as "Alexander's Ragtime Band" used to last a year. A hit tune often sold in remote areas ten years after publication. The radio stopped that. Even a misery song is lucky to last two months, thank heavens.

* * *

Kin Hubbard's 1926 observation the only way to cross a crowded New York street was to lead a cow is more fitting than ever. I saw a gentleman almost test the immortality of his soul under four different autos this morning crossing Park ave. at 50th st. "You made it!" I congratulated with a fluttery Ed Wynn laugh and my customary goofiness for saying the wrong thing at the wrong time. And the way he looked me over I know better than ever there is something more the matter with me than just splay feet.

* * *

The idea has likely been elaborated, but after years of trying to cross Fifth ave. it might be comical to call it "Fit ave." Never mind, you can't expect to die laughing after each paragraph.

* * *

At one of those 60-cent soda water saloons, where a slight puff of sweetened wind is served by a waiter with gold epaulets, they now charge 5 cents extra for straws—straws that will even give a sucker an even break. It won't be long until they have cover charges at soda fountains, and in such an event look for me well up front in the rioting.

* * *

In a boyhood diary is this entry: "With Edna McMullen and Frankie Dunbar to Rathburn's for soda. Had chocolate—total 15 cents."

* * *
